FOR COPYISTS AND WRITERS

Work May Be Lightened and Better Results Obtained by Following These Simple Directions.

The quickest way to copy with pen or pencil is to put a flat, heavy weight over the upper edge of the paper on which you write, to hold it firm and leave both hands free.

For a paper weight a heavy oblong rectangular piece of brass or glass is most effective. The connecting of words by long pen strokes has very little bad effect on the legibility of the copy and certainly saves time.

Writers who have a habit of dipping pens in the muddle and putting the muddle brush into the ink may find it a good idea to keep the muddle bottle invariably at one side of the desk, and the inkstand at the other.

Half of a lemon set firmly in a small shallow support and renewed from time to time will be found to remove the finish from old pens quickly and thoroughly.

RACE KEEPS ON IMPROVING

Modern Science Has Proved That Even in the Slums, Four-fifths of Babies Born Are Normal.

The encouraging word of science that "heredity is overwhelmingly a force for the improvement of the race"; that "the child at birth has, not a few months, but 10,000,000 years of unbroken life to back him in his fight with environment," and that "even in the slums four-fifths of all the children are born normal and healthy," was proclaimed by Dr. Woods Hutchison.

"One excitable gentleman," he said, "figured out that the rate at which insanity was increasing we would all be mad in a century and a quarter."

"He forgot that the increase was due largely to the fact that more cases of insanity are cared for today than formerly. And, at the worst, only from 1 to 2 1/2 per cent. of humanity is defective mentally. A careful use of negative eugenics, preventing the breeding of real defectives, can reduce that proportion almost to nothing."

"The great man comes up from the masses, 40 per cent. of the time in one bound from an unknown father; even oftener from unknown grandparents. Nearly 30 per cent. of great men were delicate in childhood, though they are distinctly long-lived and robust in manhood. The reason why more great men do not come from the really poor is that the stress of early environment does not let them live."

Right! Get up right in the morning. Go to bed right at night. Start with joy in your heart, hope in the future, kindness in your purpose.

If it is a dark day, never mind; you will lighten it up. If it is a bright day, you will add to the brightness. Give a word of cheer, a kindly greeting and a warm handshake to your friends.

If you have enemies, look up and bless them; forget and try to forgive. If all of us would only think how much of human happiness is made by ourselves, there would be less of human misery.

If all of us would bear in mind that happiness is from within and not from without, there would be a wellspring of joy in every heart and the sun would shine forever.

Try it!—Leslie's Weekly.

Really Baby's Fault.

The young mother had left the six-month-old baby only a few minutes, but upon going back to it discovered quite a large lump over one eye. Discovering three-year-old Henry in the vicinity, she surmised the cause and questioned him.

"Henry, did you hurt the baby's eye?"

"No."

"Now, I know better than that. If you do not tell me how you hurt the baby's eye I shall spank you."

"Well," said Henry, "I did throw a block at him, but I told him to look the other way."

His Privilege.

It was during the rush hours and the car was crowded to its full capacity and then some.

A rather gaudily dressed young man was standing next to a German, each holding on to the overhanging strap. The car gave a sudden lurch, which resulted in the young man's stepping on the German's toes. This irritated the German, who addressed the other angrily.

"Mine friend," he said, "I know mine feet was meant to be walked on, but dot privilege belongs to me."—Lippincott's.

Child Slept Life Away.

A child that never awoke during its entire life of eight months died recently at Hackney, London. An inquest was held and the mother stated that even when being fed the baby still slept. Medical evidence showed that death was due to heart failure, and that there was nothing abnormal to account for the sleepiness.
