No Gamble

You can get a dollar's worth of merchandise in our store for one dollar. We don't force you to take a chance on a house and lot, nor an automobile, neither do you get trading stamps and when you get three million of them you may get something. Neither do we give you tickets good for trashy crockery. In fact, there is no chance when you trade with us. You are sure of what you get.

B. E. McFarland

P. W. SHEA

In announcing my candidacy as a Democratic candidate for congress in the Fifth congressional district of Nebraska, I am conscious of the fact that I am departing from a custom that borders dangerously near an established rule—that none other than members of the legal fraternity, or that of finance, may aspire to represent the district in the National Legislature.
 I believe the present an opportune time to break away, or depart, from that custom. I find no law which forbids a merchant submitting his name through the medium of the primary ballot to his fellows for a nomination, and if successful, then to the citizens of all parties at the general election, should he feel capable of filling, with honor to his fellows and credit to himself, the exalted office of congressman.
 I am fully aware that a wide gulf separates promises from performances. The obstacles of our varied interests must be met and solved, not to the satisfaction of all, but to a majority of our people; hence the promise to do right in accordance with his training and as his creator gave him light to see the right, is the only promise that can safely be given in advance.
 Having in a minor degree, contributed to the making of the Baltimore platform, it would naturally be expected that I would accept this document of human rights as my creed. I have and will continue to so accept it until my party shall have again spoken in council.
 I am in complete accord with the nominees of the Baltimore convention. I will, if honored with a nomination and later with an election, take a firm stand with President Wilson, and aid him with my vote in enabling him to carry out the party's pledges and to restore the government with its intricate affairs, to the whole people.
 I recognize that it is to the soil and to the fellow who tills it that we must look, if we expect to continue to prosper as a nation. The land being the basis of all true wealth, it should be the aim and the ambition of those elected to our National Legislature, and to the executive of the government, to offer him who is willing to plow, an opportunity not only to increase in numbers and wealth, but an incentive to reap more easily and to market more profitably.
 That these ends may be attained, I heartily indorse that plank of the Baltimore platform which declares for some sound system of rural credit, where the great agricultural class of the nation may go for financial relief, to aid them either to plant, to harvest or to hold.
 Being among the early friends of the parcel post, I approve the action of our Postmaster General in broadening its scope, thus making it a useful instrument for the transaction of the small business of the country. If elected to congress, I shall work for its gradual extension until the maximum weight of 110 pounds will be admitted for delivery in the zone of origin.
 I am opposed to the acquiring of land by corporations or individuals either for investment or speculation. The man who cultivates the soil should own it. It should be the duty of our government to popularize the small but well tilled farm.
 For a generation, with a few exceptions, the people of the Fifth congressional district have been voting to make the business of the other fellow prosperous, why not now look to home. They have submitted to a tariff tax willingly for another's sake. Now behold that other fellow, a giant in stature, grasping, domineering and arrogant. We do not wish to sever our business relations with him, but we should insist that he be fair, and above all things, that he take a saner view of his potency in conducting the affairs of the nation.
 P. W. SHEA, Orleans, Nebraska.

Switzerland in America— Glacier National Park
 Glacier National Park is in Northwest Montana, and with its scenery and excellent auto roads, is becoming one of the famous parks of the world.
 Within the Park comfortable quarters are to be had at Glacier Park Hotel and the various chalet camps. All charges, circuit tour rates, in fact, the entire scheme of service to tourists—is under the supervision of the Great Northern Railway Company.
 The detours consume from one to five days. They include automobiles, launches, coaches, hotels, and cover distances of from 56 to 150 miles.
 The Burlington Great Northern Express arrives at Glacier Park Station at 8:35 p. m.; the Park Hotel is nearby the station, and you are ready the next morning for one of the systematized and well managed park tours.
 I will gladly provide you, free of charge, with attractive publications, descriptive of this scenic and recreative region.
