Ground Wheat For Pigs

Bulletin No. 144 of the Nebraska Experiment Station is now ready for distribution. This pulletin gives the results of a test to determine the relative feeding values of whole wheat and ground wheat when fed to fattening visited relatives at Lincoln last week, pigs. Data are given on four lots of pigs fed the following rations:

Lot 1, sonked whole wheat: Lot 2, soaked whole wheat 19 parts.

tankage I part:

Lot 3, soaked ground wheat; Lot 4, sonked ground wheat 19 parts, tankage 1 part.

The pigs fed ground wheat made faster and more economical gains than the pigs fed whole wheat. It was found that pigs can be fattened and marketed on a shorter feed with ground wheat than with whole wheat. In all cases a great saving was effected by grinding the wheat. Ground wheat at $100 came quite iil last wick while visiting per bushel proved to be as economical at the home of her daughter Mrs. as whole wheat at 75 cents per bushel.

The lots receiving tankage made faster gains than the lots fed wheat alone. Lot 2, fed whole wheat 19 parts and tankage 1 part, made an average daily classmates last Sunday, among whom gain per pig of 0.25 pounds more than Lot 1, fed whole wheat alone. Lot 4, fed ground wheat 19 parts and tanks Housieker and North Mitchell. age 1 part, made an average gain daily per pig of 0.13 pound more than Lot 3. fed ground wheat alone.

This bulletin will be sent free to residenes of Nebraska on application to Director E A. Burnett, Agricultural Experiment Station, Lincoln, Nebr.
