Sound Education in Finland.
 In the rudiments of a sound education the Finnish people are unsurpassed. Practically every man and woman in the country has a working knowledge of reading, writing, and arithmetic, and every child of school age receives careful instruction in these studies. Every adult has a vote, and although 53 per cent. of the inhabitants are women there are only seventeen of their sex in the Finnish diet.

Hessian Fly Control

The most effective way of making away with this pest is the destruction of the stubble shortly after harvest. Almost all of the flaxseeds are left in the stubble after harvest, and these should be destroyed by early, deep plowing, done so carefully that the stubble is thrown to the bottom of the furrow and completely covered, thus entrapping the flies. This plowing should be done very soon after harvest, before any of the flies emerge, and should be followed by a sufficient number of cultivations to maintain a fine, weed-free soil mulch until the field is seeded. Such treatment makes for the highest yields, while the keeping down of volunteer grain serves to scatter any summer brood. Where for any reason midsummer plowing is undesirable the flaxseeds may be destroyed by burning the stubble.
 In years of Hessian fly infestation the wheat should be seeded late enough so that the wheat plants do not reach a sufficient size to attract the flies until the bulk of these insects have emerged from the flaxseeds and died without having found cultivated wheat upon which to lay their eggs. Rotation of crops is a practicable Hessian fly control measure, for not only does the bringing in of corn, oats, alfalfa or clover tend to starve out the pest, but if the wheat field is changed the fall brood of flies must migrate to more or less distant fields to find wheat and this results in a large mortality among them.
