 A. T. WALKER,
 Chas. Reigle has resigned his position with M. A. Albright, and is once more dishing out prunes at B. E. McFarland's grocery emporium.
 E. N. Roberts will hold a public sale of forty head of Duroc Jersey hogs at Smith's livery barn, on Saturday, October 17th, commencing at 1 o'clock.
 The dates for the Farmer's Institute are November 10, 11, 12 and 13th Plan to exhibit and also to attend all the sessions as it will no doubt be the best institute in the great Republican valley this winter.
 Winter will soon be here and some of our citizens will be wondering what became of their summer's wages. While no doubt the coal men and the proprietors of the furnishing goods stores will wear a smile.
 Fred Wittwer was brought home from Lincoln, where he recently was operated on, the latter part of the week. Mr. Wittwer is doing as well as could be expected, although he will probably be confined to his home for some time yet.
 At a meeting of the Democratic voters of Pleasant Hill precinct held last Friday the following township officers were nominated: Road overseer, Jas. M. Dean; assessor, Sam Giger; constable, Geo. Law; justice of peace, Wm. Lane
 At a meeting of the Democratic voters of Red Cloud township Saturday afternoon, held in this office, the following precinct ticket was nominated: Frank Huffer, assessor; Jim McIntosh, road overseer. These men deserve your vote on election day, and if elected they will carry out their duties in a businesslike manner.
 A very pretty wedding was solemnized last Sunday afternoon when Miss Field Wheat was united in the holy bonds of wedlock to Mr. John Barleycorn, the Rev. Hog Weed officiating. The contracting parties have been raised in this country for a number of years and need no further introduction. During the nuptial ceremonies the choir sang that good old familiar hymn, "What Shall the Harvest Be."—Franklin Progress.
 In Webster county, the democratic ticket has two Bohemians and George Trine to pull her through. They are all popular men. Besides this, there are three tickets in the field and a horde of defeated primary candidates, who are out working to help elect the men who beat them. The commonwealth of Webster carries honored scars from battles won and lost long ago, and this year her leaders are out early and democracy's triumph only awaits the counting of the ballots.—Lawrence Locomotive.

The company left for York, Monday morning, where they begin playing in opera houses. They put on a good show and played to a large audience each evening.
 The high school team, somewhat crippled, was out in full force last night starting work on the new formations which will be used against Red Cloud and Lincoln. The team leaves for Red Cloud in autos Friday morning.—Hastings Republican.
 We believe that the Hastings team will need more than new formations when they meet the local team Friday and this game ought to draw a record crowd, so go out and root for the home boys.
 When a man is through with his day's work and is sitting down resting in his home, he can not read the advertisements on the fence and the hand bills and circulars that were left on the doorstep during the day and have blown away or been destroyed. He calls for the paper and there finds the merchant's announcement, and with nothing to bother his mind he reads it carefully and calls his wife's attention to it, and they decide to go to the merchant's store and examine what is advertised.—Lebanon Times

Reliability
 Every housewife knows the annoyance that comes from reaching for something on the shelf, in the course of preparing a meal, to find that owing to it being of poor quality it has spoiled. You save this annoyance when you deal with us. We stand back of our goods.

Favors Fall Plowing
 Fall plowing for corn in central and eastern Nebraska is a practice that is warmly recommended by the Nebraska College of Agriculture. Among the points in favor of it are:
 The fall furnishes a time when deep plowing may be done early enough to allow the soil to become compacted by planting time.
 When plowing is done in the fall, a longer time is afforded for the refuse of the preceding crop to rot.
 Late fall plowing helps to destroy the small brown ant which is a protector of the root plant louse.
 Time is less pressing in the fall than oftentimes in the spring.
 The structure of clay and other stiff soils is improved by weathering.
 Fall plowing should be left rough in order that it may collect moisture and hinder blowing.
To the Voters of the State
 Having already called your attention to the needs of the Dairy Department and of the Chemical Department, I trust that you will now bear with me while I explain to you the urgent needs of another branch of the University's work. As I have explained before my purpose in doing this is to urge upon the voters the need of settling the location problem at the coming election. The instances that I cite are not more important than many others, only a few of which can be specifically to your attention.
 I have attended this fall the dedication of splendid new high school buildings at Fremont and Wahoo. They are highly creditable to the communities that have erected them. Good school buildings, however, are not more important than good teachers. There should be no controversy between the two ideas. It is not a question of teachers versus buildings, but a question of teachers and buildings. Many communities in Nebraska are getting the buildings. Many communities in Nebraska already have some very strong teachers, but how can the general efficiency of the teaching force of the state be increased?
 The University of Nebraska includes by state law the Teachers' College. This College and all the Normals of the state cannot supply as many efficient teachers as the state needs. There is a possibility of rivalry as to which of the state institutions shall have a dominant influence in certain corners of the educational field, but there is no possibility that their united effort will train more teachers than the state needs.
 In order that your Teachers' College and your Graduate School of Education may have adequate facilities for doing their work, the University must have as soon as possible an Education Building. The educational forces are now scattered about the campus. The Temple High School, which is doing admirable work both in training pupils and in serving as a practice and observation school, is housed in basement rooms. Originally these rooms were not even entirely excavated, but as the basement is fairly high, they answer as a temporary expediency. But the question is, does the state want its Teachers' College practice and observation school to be permanently underground. The answer must be an emphatic no. As a state we are not so hard up as that. We want an adequate education building, such as other institutions enjoy, and we want it to house the practice school in such a way that the school will be physically a model to all superintendents and principals who care to inspect it. It is a matter of state wide educational interest. Further it should not be overlooked that the rooms vacated by the Temple High School are urgently needed for extending the work of the cafeteria, for increasing the facilities of the Y. M. and Y. W. C. A., and for such other student organizations as were in the minds of the donors who gave the money for this splendid Temple Building. This building, which cost over $100,000 and unlike some other University buildings, is today worth more than its cost, was never intended for school purposes. It is almost a misuse of the gift to use it as such.
 If you decide to extend the city campus, the passing of the high school out of the Temple will work permanently to the great advantage of the student body of the university. If you decide by your votes to remove the University to the Farm, a new education building can soon be built there, leaving the entire Temple Building to be used effectively for student welfare during the transition period, which all persons who have made a careful study of the situation realize must be rather long.
 Yours very truly,
 S. AVERY, Chancellor.

To The Public!
 We Ask This Consideration
 When you are ready to buy your Men's and Boys' Clothing for Fall and Winter we most respectfully urge you to come and see what we can do for you before you buy elsewhere.
 On account of close times and a general feeling of unrest we have seen the necessity of making special efforts to buy our goods as cheaply as possible and feel confident that we are in a position to save the clothing buyers of this country a nice sum of money on their fall purchases.
 Anyhow, come in and let us talk it over and see what you can see. Fair dealing and courteous treatment assured all and an iron clad guarantee back of everything we sell you.

THE BIG HORN OF PLENTY
 That is the Big Horn Basin of Wyoming, with the heaviest crops, in its history of irrigation; thousands of tons of alfalfa, wheat and oats on Government and private irrigated lands; oil discoveries frequent; the finest grade of irrigated lands, with reliable and perpetual water rights, backed by the Government, may be homesteaded on easy terms. Cheap coal and timber for domestic use. A farm in Wyoming's richest industrial and farming section can be yours today, with a certain increase in all land values. The Burlington's new main line runs through the heart of the Basin, which has already over 30,000 population.
 The new 20 year payment law has just passed congress. This makes the land and a perpetual water right almost a gift.
 Come and see these wonderful crops. Join our personally conducted excursions. I am employed to help you find a suitable location along the Burlington. Write for "Basin" Literature.
