Farmers' Institute Now in Full Swing

The Farmers' Institute is in full swing in this city. The exhibits this year show considerable advancement over other years. We are learning what to work for and the ideal is being more nearly approached as year succeeds year. The crowded condition of past years has been overcome by the use of the Peterson building for poultry and grain. This relieves the other section.

The birds exhibited this year are far above anything previously shown. In this department there is marked advance. Each variety is more nearly true in shape, marking and color and poultry fanciers are rejoicing at the splendid showing made. If the present pace is kept up Webster county will soon be able to enter the state show and carry off the best prizes.

The grain exhibits are all extra good and how the wonderful fertility of our soil. There seems to be no grain that will not grow in this section of the country. The corn, wheat, oats, barley speltz, rye, alfalfa and other grasses are of such a character that this may be well called the garden spot of the earth.

Then the vegetables were well represented. Cabbages, squashes, watermelons, carrots, parsnips, and nearly every kind and variety under the sun. The entire showing was a surprise even to old timers.

At the big Bailey tie barn are stalled as fine a lot of horses and mules as one could wish for. Magnificent specimens of horse flesh, good enough to be the pride of any country. The hog and cattle likewise over in the Kountze tie barn were of excellent quality and finish. In fact the live stock exhibit is all that could be wished for.

The Tuesday evening program was given in the opera house which was comfortably filled. The first speaker of the evening was F. E. Maurer, who delivered an excellent address on Floral Culture. This address was carefully worded, happily conceived and easily delivered. Mr. Maurer said that while this country was yet in its virgin state, while the buffalo still roamed these prairies, or the red skin hunted his prey, the modest flowers bloomed in abundance. He graphically described the influence of flowers on the home and pled for their more extensive culture. He stated that this climate was well adapted for the raising of all kinds of beautiful flowers and said that each home should be beautified with flowers. The address contained a great deal of information and was delivered in the style of an orator.

Prof. Boehr followed with an address on Agricultural Education which was pleasing and to the point. He emphasized the necessity of co-operation of farm and school. The school needed the experience of the farm and the farm needed the technical information of the school.

Judge Smith gave an address on Poultry with the aid of his lantern. These slides showed the different types of poultry and different kinds of poultry houses. He showed the kind of a house to use and the kind not to use and told the audience why. He stated that if one wants to get eggs in the winter time he must keep his hens warm and keep them shut up all the time. This address was much appreciated and given in a pleasing manner.

The musical feature of the program was not the least of the attractions. Bailey's orchestra rendered piece after piece of high class music to the great delight of all. The selections were well made and well rendered. Raymond Turnure delighted the audience with his bell solos. He is rapidly becoming a fine musician and the Chief believes that he is destined to be recognized in the musical world.

The Ladies' Department in the Turnure hall is well represented by work of all kinds. Needle work, fancy articles and fine cooking, all showing (Continued on page 5)

Roy Hutchison Has Taken A Wife

Last Saturday morning Mr. Roy C. Hutchison, son of Mr. and Mrs. Geo. Hutchison, and Miss Chloe B. Feldman of Franklin, slipped quietly away to Lincoln, where they were married.

The groom is one of our popular and most industrious young men, and is considered one of the coming young men of the community.

The bride is one of Franklin county's most popular young ladies, and has taught school in that vicinity for some time past, and while she is a stranger to most of our citizens, she no doubt is capable of filling the home she will adorn with happiness, and will prove to be truly a helpmate and companion to the husband she has chosen to honor with her hand.

The happy couple arrived in this city Monday evening, but have not yet definitely decided where they will live. The Chief along with their many friends wish them much joy and happiness.

Hogs Give Best Profits

The North Platte experimental farm, where about three carloads of hogs are raised each year for the market, has shown a greater profit upon the investment in growing pork than in any other farm operation. Grain purchased at the market price has frequently shown a profit of 1.0 per cent by feeding to hogs, either upon alfalfa pasture or with alfalfa hay fed in the racks to supplement the corn ration. Wheat and rye used as a winter pasture with alfalfa hay and a very small grain ration has proved a most economical method of wintering brood sows, and approaches in cost a full year pasture season, but it can only be used where wheat or rye makes a satisfactory growth in the fall months.
