C. H. Miner Secures Government License

The C. H. Miner Serum Company have received their license from the Bureau of Animal Industry, Washington, D. C., allowing the producing of Hog Cholera Virus and Anti Hog Cholera Serum under the strict regulations as required by the department. They are required to undergo a very strict examination in the preparation of serum by trained government men, together with properly constructed building and strict sanitation.

Their first examination was on January 12th. The license was granted February 19th, after the second inspection. This speaks well for the equipment and methods of this company as it usually takes many inspections to pass government regulations.

Mr. Miner informs us that the public are invited to visit the plant at any time and see them prepare this product.

The Republican Valley Editorial Association met in Orleans last Friday, and a good time was reported by all present. This editor deeply regrets his inability to be present, but the Chief's reputation as an advertising medium, together with the fact of it being the leading office in Webster county where "correct" printing can be obtained, found us with so much work on hand, that we were unable to attend.
