THANKS TO YOU, BOYS!

Editor McArthur of the Red Cloud Chief was born on St. Patrick's day and this week he celebrated the event by printing his newspaper edition in green.—Monday's Hastings Republican.

Editor Arthur McArthur of the Red Cloud Chief was 27 years old on Tuesday, and the Chief came out printed in green on that day. If "Art" doesn't look out he will be in the "old batch" class before long.—Wednesday's Franklin News.

Arthur McArthur, editor of the Chief, had a birthday on St. Patrick's Day, but he didn't say whether he was 30 or 30 years old, so we take it for granted that he is less than 30, and as a gentle reminder that youth is still near, and in honor of that noted saint, printed his paper in green ink, which showed considerable enterprise on the part of editor McArthur.—Friday's Commercial Advertiser.
