C. B. & Q. Depot Damaged By Fire

On Wednesday noon a fire alarm was turned in, and investigation disclosed the fact that the C. B. & Q. depot was on fire. It is supposed that sparks from an engine caused the blaze, which, when discovered, was on the roof of the freight storage rooms. The fire department responded promptly, but owing to a strong south wind, the low water pressure, and the headway which the fire had gained, they were unable to get the blaze under control, before the building had been almost totally destroyed. From the office room west, including the gentlemen's waiting room, the express and baggage room, the freight storage room and the transfer sheds, the fire made a clean sweep.

All of the contents of the building with the exception of some storage goods, was moved out of range of the fire. A freight car, which was being loaded on the north side of the depot, and which contained the furniture of Wm. Bear, a jeweler formerly in the employ of E. H. Newhouse, was totally destroyed.

Agent Bush and his assistants have taken up temporary office rooms in a box car, and it is presumed that the railroad officials will at once begin to repair the damage caused by the fire.

In 1913 the old building, which the city had long since out-grown, and which, by the way, was an eye sore to the entire community, was worked over and re-modeled into the structure which was so badly damaged as above stated. While this edifice was considerable of an improvement over the one before it, yet at no time has the city ever secured its just dues from the C. B. & Q. Red Cloud's prominence as a division point, its ideal location for the receiving and shipment of stock, and the large volume of business handled here, entitles the city to better railroad facilities than it has ever enjoyed. The entire community would like to see a new, modern brick structure erected now, not on the ashes of this old building, but at a point nearer the center of the city.

Mrs. Cora Crans

On August 28th, Mrs. Cora Crans wife of J. D. Crans died at their home in this city after an illness of several weeks. She was born in Westport, Missouri, November 29th, 1863 and was nearly 52 years old. Her maiden name was Cora Swain and on October 23rd, 1891 she was united in marriage to J. D. Crans at St. Joseph, Missouri. They made their home at St. Joseph for two years and in August 1896 moved to this city where they have since resided. Soon after moving here she united with the Baptist church and was elected organist, which place she faithfully filled for several years.

The funeral services were held at the Baptist church Tuesday afternoon, Rev. Cole officiating. Interment took place in the city cemetery.

She leaves to mourn her death a husband, father, one brother and sister and a large number of friends.

Young Russell Wins From The Dutchman

On last Friday evening another wrestling match was pulled off in the Newhouse building with a large number of the city's best in attendance. Harold Coplen and Earl McKimney put on the first preliminary match and the later secured the first fall. Tom McCalley of Friend and Vernon Zeiss of this city pulled off the second preliminary. They were both in good condition and the match lasted forty-five minutes without a fall. With this match Vernon has retired from the mat.

The main wrestling bout of the evening was then put on. Oliver Powell was the referee and announced as they took their places, the wrestlers, Russell and the Flying Dutchman and then the tussle began. Russell won the first fall in fortyfour minutes and the second one in thirtythree minutes thus winning the match. It was very interesting and both of the men were at their best. Roy Ostman officiated as time keeper.

Another match will be pulled off here Friday evening, Sept. 10th., at which time Young Russell will meet Tommy Doctor, who holds the championship of Kansas.
