Buy Seed Corn Near Home

Do not get excited when you see a catalog from a distant seed house advertising seed corn that has produced marvelous yields. Perhaps the seed offered for sale would not produce the same results when planted under Nebraska conditions. The University College of Agriculture has found that in most cases the best native corn gives a fourth larger yield than the prize-winning variety from another state. The Nebraska Agricultural College has also found that it is even safer for western growers to use their native seed than to try that from another section of the same state. Corn grown near home produced 45 bushels more than that imported from another part of Nebraska. In any case, however, it should always be tested. The results of native grown seed compared with imported seed may be obtained from bulletin No. 126 of the Bulletin Department, University Farm, Lincoln.
