Woman's Defense Council Prepares for a Big Task

Preparations for the registration of the women of the state are being pushed by the woman's committee of the state council of defense. Just as soon as the county chairmen are all heard from, the governor will appoint a day by proclamation on which the women will be asked to appear at the polling places of their respective counties. This registering for war service is entirely voluntary, but it is hoped that every woman over sixteen years of age will give in her name. There will be no such thing as disqualification on account of infirmities or age, and the grandmother of eighty will be just as welcome at the polls as her granddaughter of sixteen, tho she may register for nothing more arduous than the knitting of wristlets, or if not a knitter, for only the patriotic zeal to inspire others. The council has enough copies of the president's war message on hand to give one to every woman who registers.

The registration card is complicated but full instructions have been received from Washington for filling them. The card is large and has ten semi-circular "tabs" across the top marked with letters "U" and "T" and the following branches of service: Agricultural, clerical, domestic, industrial, professional, public service, social service, Red Cross and allied relief, miscellaneous, contributions. If the person has training and experience in any branch, that is indicated by encircling a number, or if untrained, she underlines the one in which she wishes service or training.

Instructions.
Age for registration, over 16 years. After upper half of card has been filled in with her personal qualifications, the woman should select the occupation in which she has already had training and wishes to serve, or in which she desires training.

Example: A woman wishes to volunteer her services or secure employment as an "accountant." Under the general heading of "Clerical" in circle "No. 10" to show that she has had training in this line, or underline "accountant" if she wishes to learn this branch. Then in the tab at the top marked "Clerical" cross out the "U" leaving the "T" to show that the woman is trained, and add the number "10" to show which branch of "Clerical" is meant. If untrained, cross out "T" leaving the "U," followed by the number "10," to show that the woman is untrained but desires to study this branch. If the woman offers no other service either in the form of contributions or training, then all the other "tabs" are cut off on the line below their headings, leaving only the one "tab" marked "Clerical" standing on the card. If the woman wishes to be recorded as offering service in a third line, then the "tabs" for all the services she offers will be left standing and all others cut off.

Where there are few cards they should be filed alphabetically by names, "tabs" indicating occupations. Where there are a large number of cards they should be arranged alphabetically by names but may be filed under occupations in separate cases with subheadings indicated by names or numbers corresponding to those on face of card.

These cards are to be retained at local headquarters in cities, city wards, towns or rural counties where they will serve as a card catalogue of women giving service. Summaries of the local registration cards should be sent at regular intervals to the headquarters of the state division of the woman's committee or to the committee on woman's work of the state council of defense; the state division will send these summaries in tabulated form to the woman's committee of the council of national defense in Washington. The information on these cards will be available to government officials, both state and federal, to the Red Cross, and other authorized agencies.

The various occupations are subdivided as follows:
Agricultural.—Dairying, farming, fruit-raising, gardening, poultry raising, stock raising.
Clerical.—Accountant, bookkeeper, cashier, clerical work (gen.) filing, office assistant, office manager, private secretary, typewriter, shipping clerk, stenographer.

What Cards Will Show.
One card, and only one, is to be filled out by each woman who is registered for service. The entries should be made in her own handwriting, and in accordance with the following instructions and explanations:

Name in full.—Write first the last name or surname, then the first name in full, and the initial of the middle name, if any.

Address.—The permanent address is wanted. If in a city, village or town give the house number and the name of the street, avenue, place or court, or if in the country, give the number of the rural free delivery route. Be careful also to give the telephone number if there is one.

Age.—Give the age in completed years at last birthday. Omit months and days.

Married or single.—Specify whether married, widowed or single, as the case may be.

Color or race.—Specify whether White, Negro, Indian, Chinese, Japanese, or other race as the case may be.
Country of birth.—If born on the mainland of the United States, the word United States is sufficient, but if born in any of its outlying possessions give the name of the territory or island in which born. If born outside of the United States or its possessions give the name of the country (not city or district) in which born.

Citizen.—Write "Yes" or "No" according to whether or not a citizen either by birth or by naturalization (whether direct or acquired thru the husband or father).

Persons dependent.—If there are dependent persons give the number and relationship, as mother, two children, etc.

Service offered.—Specify whether the person desires a paid position or expenses only, or is willing to render volunteer service.

Time pledged for service.—State as precisely as possible how much time the person can pledge for service, expressed in hours per day or days per week, or number of weeks or months as the case may be.

Training wanted.—Specify the particular line in which training is wanted, and also state whether it is wanted free, or tuition can be paid.

Present occupation.—State as precisely as possible the nature of the occupation usually followed or in which engaged at the time of registration. That is, use the word or words which most accurately indicate the kind of work done by the person registered, as journalist, lecturer, saleswoman—department store, cook—hotel, etc. Avoid the use of general or indefinite terms.

By whom employed.—Give the name of the corporation, firm or person by whom employed.

Where employed.—Give the location (by street and number) of the establishment or office in which employed, and if away from the place of registration, give the name of the city or town in which situated.

References.—In the case of persons registering for actual service (particularly paid), the names of two or more reputable citizens as references are desired.

Education.—Indicate the extent of the education by specifying whether a graduate of, or the number of years attended, the grammar (or graded) school, high school, private school, or college; and if college, give the name of the institution attended. If specialized training also has been had, specify its character and duration.

Emergency Service.—Specify whether the person desires a paid position or expenses only, or is willing to render volunteer service.

Place of service.—Answer "Yes" or

"No" in each case, according to whether or not service can be rendered anywhere in the world, or in any part of the United States, or in home town only.

Time of starting.—Specify how soon after notice start can be made for point of service, expressed in hours or days, as six hours, twenty-four hours, three days, etc. Do not use a specific date, as July 1, in any case.

Training and experience.—Encircle the number to the left of the occupation in which trained and underline the one in which service or training is wanted. If a "Laboratory worker," state exact experience; or if a foreign language is spoken or read, give name of language; or if a "teacher" specify subject taught to adults or to children as the case may be. Space is provided under the heading "Miscellaneous" for specifying any other knowledge or skill of possible value to the government. This space can also be used for indicating those desiring service in home products, in home economics, and community efforts, or for indicating any occupation or line of work (not listed) in which trained or in which work or training is wanted. Under "Contributions" indicate by encircling the contribution or contributions to be made, and specify under "L" any contributions other than those listed.

Information by Registrar.—The back of the card is reserved for the use of the registrar only. Spaces are provided for indicating the source, and regarding previous registration, the date when registered, whether a fee or contribution was received, and whether or not correspondence in the case has been had. Spaces are also provided for recording information as to personal equipment and recording actual assignments for service. This information is to be supplied by the registrar, so far as practicable at the time of registration, and the card is to be signed, when completed, by the registrar, with address in full.

Poultry Show Growing in Popularity
The poultry exhibit to be held at the Nebraska State Fair, September 3-7, is one exhibit which has demanded the attention of the management this coming year more so than in the past. Mr. C. G. Cottle of Edgar has been appointed as superintendent, and if satisfactory arrangements can be made the exhibit will be placed in uniform coops, under his genial management. In this way the fowls can be shown to their best advantage and the American hen given the recognition she so much deserves.

HOW A BLACK KITTEN HELPED OBERG AND BARNABY ENTERTAIN A CHAUTAUQUA AUDIENCE

One of the most ludicrous occurrences that has ever happened to Earl Oberg and Paul J. Barnaby, the eastern entertainers, who will be with us on the sixth day of Chautauqua, took place not long since in Barnsboro, Pa., where the two were appearing. During one of Mr. Barnaby's piano-logues a black kitten suddenly made its appearance upon the platform, stalked up to the footlights, and stood throned to the nearest exit, and alighted in an uproar in an instant, to the extreme amazement of Mr. Barnaby who did not see the cause of their hilarity, and thought they were belittling his efforts. Stopping in the midst of his selection he turned around and saw the intruding feline. Walking up to the kitten which was entirely friendly, he picked it up, and stroked it, preparatory to removing it to the wings. At this moment, Mr. Oberg, who among other imitations, has acquired the ability of barking almost as perfectly as a dog, "bow-wowed" at the intruder with such effect that the kitten turned a double somersault from Barnaby's shoulder, did a marvelous feat, and alighted in a pair of water off stage near a young lady vocalist who was waiting to go on, splashing her. The audience was again convulsed, and it was some time before the last ripple of good natured laughter had died away.
