GOVERNOR NEVILLE URGES THAT FRAUDULENT CLASSIFICA TIONS BE REPORTED

NEWS FROM STATE CAPITAL

Items of Varied Interest Gathered from Reliable Sources

at the State House

An appeal to citizens in each community of Nebraska to assist local exemption boards in detecting and defeating efforts of men to evade the draft by fraudulent representations has been made by Governor Neville. In a statement given out Saturday, the governor calls attention to the matter as follows:

"Every patriotic citizen every honest person, has a duty to perform in connection with this classification. Local boards are not all-knowing and fraudulent claims for deferred classi-Scation will succeed unless the boards are assisted by the information which the people of the surrounding community have.

"Every registrant, his wife and friends, who has an honest claim for deferred classification, should understand that only Class V is an exempt division; that all other classes are Jefferson . 5,699.41 Total ...$408,120.72 subject to call for service; and that every man fraudulently put into Class IV increases the liability for service of every other man in that class, even though his order number be beyond that of the man improperly placed. "It therefore behooves these people especially to see to it that the local board gets information as to such improper claims. A local board can, and it is its duty to, re-classify a man whenever they find that he has been improperly classified or that circumstances have changed relative to him so that his classification has become incorrect, and the local boards should make such re-classification no matter how long a time has elapsed since the former classification. Such information should be given to some member of the local board or to the government appeal agent for the county. but may also be given to the district board.

To Aid Weak School Districts The total sum of $12,548 has been distributed to rural one-room, consolidated and affiliated schools in Nebrasks for the year of 1916-17, and scarcely three-fourths of it went directly to aid weak districts which cannot raise enough funds by making the maximum tax levy to support their schools. Should the Nebraska legislature be called in special session by Governor Neville to enact a new law under which the votes of soldiers from Nebraska may be taken and recorded in the primary and general elections, it will be able to provide for everybody except those in the regular army of the United States. Under the state constitution and federal laws, these soldiers do not have the right to vote. The inadequacy of the present law has been pointed out, and Governor Neville is giving serious consideration to the need of its correction

Land Commissioner Is Restrained

District Judge W. M. Morning at Lincoln issued an order restraining Land Commissioner Grant L. Shumway from interfering with the Burlington's possession of the Burnham stock yards, consisting of seventy-two acres of land. The case against Governor Keith Neville and other state officials was dismissed on a showing they had no intention of interfering with the carrier's possession of the land. The land commissioner had served notice on the road it must pay the annual rental to him instead of the Lincoln asylum or he would force it to vacate.

To Mark State Equipment

Instructions have been sent out by the Nebraska state board of control to heads of all state institutions to see that indelible markings are placed on all table linens, towels, bedding and other equipment belonging to the state as a precaution against them being stolen. Bedding and linen comes high during war time. Each piece is marked with the name of the institution to which it belongs.

Suffrage Law Non-Effective

"Can women vote at special elections on village bonds?" is a query which has come to Attorney General Reed. He replied that women could vote only on bonds for educational purposes. Which is to say that the partial suffrage law, passed by the legislature of 1917, is not in effect. having been suspended through the filing of referendum petitions. Women have been eligible to vote on school matters for years.

The department of agricultural engineering of the University of Nebraska will offer a four weeks' course in automobiles, trucks and traction engines this winter. It will be especially for the man enlisting in the army who desires to get into the automobile or other mechanical branch of the service, and for the man or boy who expects to stay on the farm and who wishes to learn the short cuts in farming by using a modern tractor.

The first day of organized agriculture at Lincoln exceeded expectations. An attendance of two hundred farmers at the corn improvers' association in the afternoon and two hundred and fifty at the sheep breeders' meeting, and as many more at the home economics and horticulture meetings at the same time gave some indication of the way in which war-time farm problems are attracting the people of the state.

War and Nebraska's part in the struggle furnished spirited themes for the annual meetings at Lincoln of Organized Agriculture. Practically every sectional meeting devoted its attention to meeting the conditions presented by this country's entrance into the European conflict.

General Carter of the militia affairs bureau of the war department states that permission will be given men of the recently disbanded Seventh Nebraska regiment to enlist in Nebraska units in the Thirty-fourth division. The general says, however, that proper releases would have to be obtained from the state before the order to enlist could become effec tive. After steps have been taken to do this it is understood such an order would be issued by the war department.

"Establish a flock of ten to 100 ewes at once," ist he urgent suggestion of the sheep, wool and calf convention committee of the Nebraska state defense council, which declares such action is clearly a patriotic duty. Calling attention to the imminent shortage of wool which the immense slaughter of sheep in Europe since the war began and the necessity of clothing the armies abroad entails, the council declares that the weeds, grass, corn stover and other feeds wasted on every Nebraska farm would support the number of ewes suggested.

meeting man's deepest need

This is one of the most dramatic, spectacular incidents recorded in the Bible. It is a good illustration for Sunday school teachers on how to tell a story by imagining what one would naturally do. We ought to have our scholars see with their imagination, the story of this lesson as though they were eye-witnesses of the whole scene, The time was about May or June A. D. 28, the second year of Jesus' ministry, a few weeks following the last lesson, during which time he had been preaching and healing in the surrounding

1) Introduction. Jesus/could testify in a home as well as before the multitudes. Indeed it was after having testifled in the home (v. 1.) that the crowds gathered about the doorway, for it was not known that he was there, until some days after he had been in the house. Luke tells us that the crowds which came, came not only from Galllee but Judea and even Jerusalem. Jesus did his work so well in the home that wherever he was, the world wore a path to his doorway. Notice verse two; when the crowd gathered about, he spoke unto them "the word." In this we see a parable. Many a successful man, when he becomes popular, forgets to preach the pure Gospel, the Word of Life.

II. An Impelling Need (vv. 8:4). This man who had paralysis, i. e., disabled on one side, was not only deprived of his sensation but his power. of motion. As to the cause of his difficulty, his previous character of life, there is no word of suggestion. We see abundant evidence today, however, to know that many such cases are the results of our own debaucheries and one would gather from the course which Jesus pursued with this man that perhaps his case was likewise the result of his early sin. The teacher might well read in this connection Luke 16:11-19. Of course, this man may not have been a prodigal son. Nevertheless, he had as much suffering as though he had been and as far as he himself was concerned, he was helpless, a picture of all sinners. He, however, had friends, very enterprisng ones. And so putting him upon the double quilt or coverlet, which could be rolled together in a bundle of moderate size, they carried him into the presence of the master. III. Jesus Forgives and Defends His

Rights (vv. 5:12). The crowd was so great about the house that "they could not come nigh unto him for the press." They were not, however, discouraged; but leaving the crowd, they went up the usual outside stairs, bearing the sick man with them unto the roof which "they uncovered"-literally they dug through the flat roof made of branches and twigs and covered with earth, and which could be as easily repaired. Travelers in eastern countries have often seen a similar act performed even in this day. They then let down the bed or mattress by the four corners. The roof was so low that no cords were needed and those below received the man from the hands of the four upon the roof and placed him in front of Jesus. Jesus commends "their deed" as indicated in all three of the Gospel records. Not alone physical obstacles had to be overcome, but the attitude of the scribes (v. 7). Was it right, was it honest to break through the roof of a man's house? Would they make it good? Was the owner glad to have had it done? Jesus did not hesitate or speculate over such questions, but goes at once to the issue and said to the man sick of the palsy, "Son, be of good cheer, thy sins be (are) forgiven thee." See Matthew's and Mark's account. "Son," is a word of endearment; the word "be" is not as strong in the old form as the word "are" forgiven. Jesus went at once to the unhealed wound in the soul, the sense of unforgiven sin. Forgiveness is not of the judge who sentences "not guilty," but a father who welcomes and restores one to sonship. It is restoration to life. The Bible story of the prodigal son and that scene pictured in the seventh chapter of Luke, the feast where Jesus dealt with a woman of the city, who ministers unto him, are good illustrations of the master's attitude of mind on this occasion. The scribes charged blasphemy which s to slander God and speak treason gainst him. Blasphemy is practically uttered treason. He perceived their inmost thoughts and answered them (v. 9). To forgive sin, or to command the man to rise were both divine acts; he could do either; he proved one by the use of the other. His command to the young man to take up his bed was a test to be proved by the man's faith. That the cure was complete we know, for he immediate ly arose. To "arise" was a physical Impossibility; to "take up his bed" permitted no relapsa.
