Riders of the Purple Sage, one of the greatest western dramas ever shown with William Farnum at the Orpheum next Wednesday and Thursday, Jan. 8 and 9. A great star and a great story from the famous novel by Zane Grey. The "Riders of the Purple Sage," is a photodrama of the West with a new plot, a picture that is colorful and fascinating, stirring in its rush of action and incident, brimming with the keenest drama, strong and human and poignant in its emotional interest. It will surely please as it is crowded with action and picturesque scenes.

Miss Berles Soy will accompany Miss Beck and will render some vocal selections. Sunday school next Sunday at ten o'clock and services at eleven followed by communion. There will also be a church meeting at the church at three o'clock in the afternoon which all members are urged to attend.

Care of Tractor A service man tells of being called by an Arkansas farmer to repair a tractor. The only trouble seemed to be in getting the tractor started. The owner said he had cleaned the magneto in an effort to get the machine going. The service man, in looking over the magneto, asked what had been done with the metal bar which made connection from the magneto winding to the center of the distributor. "Oh, you mean that brace in there?" said the owner, "I have that in my pocket. I saw no need of putting that on until I found out whether or not it would start." A free four weeks practical course in operation and repair of tractors, trucks and automobiles will be given by the University of Nebraska beginning January 27th. Any one more than 13 years old may take this course. For further information write Principal H. E. Bradford, University Farm, Lincoln.

Economical Feeds On account of the high price of all kinds of feed, many persons are puzzled just what to buy. Scores of persons are writing to the experiment station, Lincoln, seeking advice along such lines. The station officers are making an effort to answer all questions and they invite letters from farmers and feeders seeking aid.

Farm Bureau Notes

FARM ACCOUNTS A farmer pays more heavily for his own mistakes than the man who consumes his products. Keeping farm accounts will enable the farmer to place his finger on the levers to his business which in the aggregate may mean the difference between profit and loss. A system of accounts may reveal to the farmer many things about his business which he has never suspected. The farmer has been contending during the last few years that prices for farm products did not pay him enough profit. No one has believed him. The government, which has had the power of price fixing, did not believe him, because, otherwise, higher prices would have been fixed. If the farmer had had a record of his operations which showed the cost of production, he would have been in a position to convince the price fixing authorities of the justice of his cause. It is likely that farmers may suffer in the future at the hands of legislators and the next few years because of the government's policy of price fixing. The government's policy of price fixing is a general one, and the same thing must be done to overcome this impression. Farm accounts will offer undeniable proof of the farmer's contention. Farmers should keep a farm record book and start in during January. HENRY R. FAYSON, County Agriculture Agent.

Northeast Pawnee The weather up to the 17th, was notably pleasant, then several day's rain with continued warmth, which put the ground in good shape and gave wheat a fine and proper start for the coming spring. Snow followed by freezing temperature added to the beneficial condition. For although not as pleasant so far as personal comfort is concerned the cold weather is just what is needed to hold moisture ready for a spring start. Besides this it is said that the freezing weather is a powerful tonic against influenza and other diseases. Some people not supposed to be specialists but are noted for their perspicacity, told the writer that thousands of these germs succumbed to the severe frosts. Their death entirely due to intense cold weather. And I doubt not they knew what they were talking about.

The feature holiday of the year is now a thing of the past and we are ready to settle down to potatoes and pork for another year. The day was pleasant and all that could be wished for in the way of weather—a "white Christmas" which is said to presage good health for the season. Not much merriment was in evidence up here but nevertheless everybody seemed happy and thankful for indescribable blessings and benefits conferred upon us. Almost everybody had goose or duck for dinner. All know that Turkey is scarcely thought of—they consider it but a pest (Budapest) neither have they much time for dress-in' (Dresden), as they think it equally nauseous and unpalatable. A family Christmas tree was presented at Jas. Gouldie's, relatives and a few neighbors participating. All had a most enjoyable time. Ed Nelson, Everett Meyers, Roy Meyers, and their respective wives were the guests of Mr. and Mrs. Pat Gouldie and family on Christmas Day. An eleven pound baby boy was born to Mr. and Mrs. Harry Brown last Saturday. All are happy. Harry's elation knows no bounds. Bennie Mohler, Herb Barber and son Ralph were transacting business in Red Cloud one day last week. Everett and Roy Meyers each hauled a load of coal from Inavale one day last week. John Brown arrived home from Alma, Neb., on Christmas Day, after several days treatment there. His wife and family went to meet him at Inavale. John says he does not regret his trip. And is feeling fine. Which is good news to all his neighbors. Mrs. M. A. Leadabrand and sons Jay and Edgar anted to Red Cloud one day last week, attending to business matters. Jay Leadabrand and Jas. Gouldie did some trading last week, the latter receiving a team of brows mares in exchange for a team of mules. Both men seem well satisfied. Inhumanity and Waste. The annual loss of life among food animals in transit to Chicago alone is reported to be as follows. Cattle, 1,796; calves, 2,198; swine, 9,330; sheep, 3,120. That the greater part of this loss is due, more than to anything else, to the cruel and inconsiderate treatment of these poor creatures in loading and unloading and on the journey no one will question who knows anything about the evils connected with the transportation of animals.

The Chickens' Feet Horsemen have a saying. "No hoof, no horse." This may well be paraphrased, "No foot, no fowl." Most poultry keepers do not pay enough attention to the feet of their birds, says the Extension Service of the University of Nebraska College of Agriculture. Scaly leg, bumble-foot and corns are the most prevalent in the average poultry yard. Even the yards of professional breeders are not free from them. The condition of the feet of the birds should have consideration in selecting breeders. While it is true that the prevalence of foot troubles is largely due to unsanitary conditions in poultry houses and yards, it is also true that there are very great differences in the resistance of individual birds to the attacks of such pests as the scaly leg mite, and that some birds contract bumble-foot where others are free from it.

Not Too Early It is not too early to begin plans for hatching says the Extension Service of the University of Nebraska College of Agriculture. Early hatching means early maturity and early maturity is turn means winter egg production, and it is the winter eggs that bring the top cent. Losses in early hatched chickens are far less than in late hatched chicks. The early hatched cockrels are the ones that reach the broiler age when prices are highest. GLYCERINE MIXTURE FOR APPENDICITIS Red Cloud people can prevent appendicitis with simple buckhorn bark, glycerine, etc., as mixed in Adler's ONE SPOONFUL flushes the ENTIRE bowel tract so completely it relieves ANY CASE sour stomach, gas or constipation and prevents appendicitis. THE INSTANT, pleasant action of Adler's surprises both doctors and patients. Leaves stomach clean and strong.—Chas. L. Cotting, Druggist.
