SCRUB SIRE
October 1, 1919 may not seem markedly different from any other days, but to America's live stock industry it is a day of days, for it inaugurates the Federal and State onslaught against scrub sires. By the time the earth completes another cycle the nondescript mongrel males of the breeding world will be enroute on a non-stop journey to oblivion. It is hoped that ere Oct. 1, 1919 has many anniversaries the part of the inferior herd headers and flock leaders will be complete and that the United States will be scrub free.
HENRY R. FAUSCH,
County Agricultural Agent.

Professional Enemies of Crocodiles.

There are men whose business it is to catch crocodiles and who earn their living by that means. And whenever a human being has fallen a victim a professional crocodile catcher is asked to help to destroy the murderer, and a large reward offered him. The majority of natives will not interfere with the reptiles, or take any part in their capture, probably fearing if they do anything of the kind they themselves may some time or other suffer for it by being attacked by a crocodile.

Balancing Trade.

Where one country exports extensively to another and buys nothing from it the checks and drafts given in payment do not balance and it becomes necessary to ship gold or otherwise readjust accounts. This is expensive and makes it necessary to pay a premium in exchange. This premium is virtually an addition to prices paid. When it becomes too high purchases will be made in other markets. Thus will trade be lost unless it is balanced.
