Experiment With Wild Geese. A familiar harbinger of spring in portions of the eastern United States is the passage northward, flying high overhead, of honking flocks of wild geese. These Canadian wild geese are supposed to hatch their young beyond the Arctic circle, but they migrate to warmer southern regions to spend the winter. One of the most interesting experiments in changing animals to new homes is that of a New Zealand society in introducing these geese to the southern hemisphere. From a beginning a few years ago with 12 pairs of birds, a flock of 300 has been developed, and fresh blood has been lately added by a new importation of 10 pairs.

The Mirror. "Bobbie Burns wanted a power the giffle gl'e us to see ourselves as others see us. Well, it seems to me that a wife admirably fills this want." The speaker went on: "A chap said, impatiently, to his wife one evening during the holidays: 'You'll never get that new dog of yours to mind you.' 'Oh, yes, I will,' she answered. 'You were just as troublesome yourself at first.'"

EXCELLENT TASTE IN YOUNG GIRLS' FROCKS

THE professional designers of children's clothes have put this country at the head of the procession in their line of business. Their products rank with those of the maker of tailored suits and shoes; at least no country outclasses us in these articles; comparisons show that we excel in them; keeping in mind the essentials of good taste, our designers have revealed inexhaustible ingenuity in making practical as well as picturesque things for children of all ages, from babyhood up.

For girls from nine to fifteen there are frocks that make one wonder that these years were ever designated "the difficult age." It takes the cultivated sense of the professional to fashion clothes that make us forget these terms and professionals succeed in doing just this. They translate and emphasize whatever of charm nature has bestowed upon the growing child at any age—and they make frocks that have their own charm to lend to young wearers.

For the sake of economy many mothers make their children's outfits at home. They need not be worried in the matter of designing these clothes; all they need do is buy materials and patterns and copy what professionals have placed in the shops and pictured in the magazines.

In the picture above there is shown a plain chambray dress for a girl from eight to thirteen, or there about, which is above criticism. Tucks in cross-bar and straight lines, and small pearl buttons serve to decorate it and it has a small collar of white organdie. One cannot do better than to copy it exactly, for with these simple means its designer has made a masterpiece.

Something New in Silk Frocks

JUST how much and just how little one requires in the way of new clothes for the coming summer is a matter that must be decided by each individual for herself. Women feel that they are being "held up" on the prices of some things and, even when quite able to pay for anything they want, they object to playing into the hands of profiteers. Therefore many women, especially among those who have always had money and who understand values, are leaving it to the newly prosperous to buy extravagantly rich and high-priced apparel, contenting themselves with simpler and less costly things. They are selecting practical frocks that will serve a variety of purposes and buying only what they actually need—which is more or less—according to circumstances. Lovely washable dresses of fine cottons, that will continue to look fresh as long as they last, simple taffeta frocks, durable satins and reliable woollens, attract them.

Every woman knows how practical a pretty taffeta frock is and that she will not grow tired of one that has style as its chief asset. Here is one that possesses these virtues. In the picture something new in silk dresses is shown in a black taffeta with pipings, facings, collar and vest in white taffeta, white pearl buttons and simulated buttonholes of white soutache braid. Over a plain and rather short underskirt, an overgarment with short kimono sleeves, faced back with white taffeta, hangs straight down from the shoulders or appears to. The chances are that it is tucked in a few plaits at the waistline under the taffeta sash. The design could not be much simpler, but it is new and full of snap. The dress would be pretty in dark blue and tan or beige might take the place of white in its development.
