Train service is such that the Lincoln Journal can give most parts of the state later news than any other paper. Omaha papers are compelled to go to press much earlier to catch these same trains. It gives the Lincoln Morning Journal a natural advantage, which you can enjoy. This is doubly true on rural routes, which cannot be reached by evening papers until the next day. Many towns are served by the Evening Journal. You always have your choice of the Journal that serves you best. The Journal at its low price of $5 a year is the biggest newspaper bargain in Nebraska; $7 with the big Sunday Journal. In this campaign you will find the Journal the paper of independence—the one that can print the truth about all the parties and all the candidates. Cash prizes of $2,000 in addition to liberal cash commissions, will be given you for six weeks' work. If you want to do a little work on the side among your friends, write for details of this offer. Address: State Journal, Lincoln.

AMERICANIZATION
In these days of the Red Flag, the Anarchist and the Bolshevist, all aiming to destroy commerce and business, it is a relief to the average business man to know of the tremendous Americanization work done by the Salvation Army. Last year alone, the Salvation Army, through its oft times scoffed street meetings, preached Americanization to six million potential down and outers, and in addition, put three hundred thousand discontented, disgruntled tax consumers back on their feet. The Army realizes, as you do, that discontent must be throttled at its inception. The well-fed, contented employee seldom becomes the anarchist. It is the man who is down and out whose mind is open to the preaching of the soap box orator. His mind, fortunately, is open to the preaching of the Salvation Army, and we are going after him. It is a race between us and the Red Flag. We believe we are winning.

STATE ENCOURAGES CONVENIENT KITCHENS
The woman of the house is urged to look carefully after the planning of her kitchen, when the new house is built or the old one remodeled, in a new bulletin of the State College of Agriculture called "The Convenient Kitchen." The place where the housewife must spend a part of each of the 365 days in the year should be well-arranged and a cheerful workshop. A little care in its construction will save many a step and a waste of strength and nervous energy. The bulletin discusses in detail the placing of windows, doors, stoves, cabinets, utensils and other equipment. Plans of kitchens are shown, together with pictures of convenient kitchens, handy and unhandy arrangements, conveniences, etc. Every woman who is trying to make her cooking job less wearisome should have a copy of this bulletin, which may be obtained free.

JUDGING CONTEST
A Stock Judging Contest was held on Wednesday, August 11. M. B. Posson, Extension Specialist in Animal Husbandry of Lincoln, conducted the contest. Thirty girls and boys members of the Calf and Pig Clubs, participated in the contest.

It started at 10 o'clock at the farm of H. R. Crowell, where four of Mr. Crowell's draft horses were lead out. Each contestant was numbered and given a card on which to write their placings and reasons for placings. They were given 20 minutes to judge each class. After the cards were taken up, Mr. Posson placed the class of animals and gave his reasons, 60 points was a perfect score on placings and 40 points was a perfect score on reasons.

Alfred Fringer was first in judging horses, with a score of 95. Arthur Blobaum was second, score 91, and Eldon Lewis was third, score 86.
Next, a class of Mr. Crowell's sheep was judged. Albert Vance was first, with a score of 87. Clarence Crowell and Alfred Fringer tied for second place, score 85, and Lyle Ashby was third, score 82.
After dinner the contestants drove to the Glendale Hereford Farm, owned by Frank Bean, where they passed judgment on a class of 4 fine Hereford cows. Alfred Fringer was first, score 90, Irvin Schneiber, second, score 78, and Lawrence Means third, score 77.

Mr. Posson gave the Calf Club members a valuable talk on "Training and Fitting a Calf Club Calf for Show," using Rachel Bean's Calf Club Heifer for the Demonstration.
After the cattle, came the judging of hogs. This took place on the farm of Walt Lambrecht, where a class of Poland China Gilts was placed. Walter Vance was first, score 99, Lawrence Means second, score 98, and Lyle Ashby third, score 92.

The winners were: Alfred Fringer of Guide Rock, score 354 out of a possible 400. Lawrence Means of Red Cloud, score 322, and Lyle Ashby, Guide Rock, score 301, Eldon Lewis, Bladen alternate, score 298.
The two girls ranking highest were Rachel Bean and Amelia Steward, with a score of 266. They scored higher than many of the boys.
