THE ONLY DEMOCRATIC PAPER IN WEBSTER COUNTY

Promises and Performance

High taxes was the chief complaint registered against those in charge of state affairs by Mr. McKelvie, then now, a candidate for governor, throughout the campaign of two years ago and the people were led to believe that if elected he would be instrumental in securing a tax reduction. On Sept. 17, 1918, in a political address at Kearney, according to a report published in the State Journal of Lincoln on the following day, he is reported to have lamented the "tax burden upon the people" during the previous six years and insisted that "this may mean much or nothing, but everyone who is at all in touch with the conduct of the state's affairs knows that if it reeks with inefficiency, waste and favoritism."

Similar assertions were made at Lexington, Grand Island, Gothenburg, Ogallala and Gering. At Scottsbluff the charges were disputed. But, Mr. McKelvie was elected. His "civil administrative code bill" was adopted—only to be rejected by the people through the only avenue afforded them for doing so when they approved the new state constitution—and what has been the result?

Has the "tax burden upon the people" been reduced? By no means. Instead state taxes were increased from $4,369,102 in 1918 to $7,499,613 in 1919, the first year of his term,—an increase of more than three million dollars in a single year. Not much relief from the "tax burden upon the people" there. Then in 1920 they were given another boost, so that the total taxes paid by the people of the state are more than three and one-half million dollars greater than they were when he lamented the great "tax burden upon the people," and charged that the state's affairs were reeking with "inefficiency, waste and favoritism."

But the general tax is not the only tax that has been increased. Under the former administration every automobile owner paid a tax, or license of $3 per car per year. Under the present administration the minimum license is $10 per car while the average for all cars is $12.50. As there are about 210,000 cars in the state the increased tax imposed upon auto owners amounts to approximately $2,660,000 more.

Contrast this record of "inefficiency, waste and favoritism" under the McKelvie administration with that of John Morehead while he was serving as governor, who during his previous campaigns, made no reckless charges or impossible claims, but asserted that if elected, as he asserts now, he would stay on the job and give the people a thorough business administration. He made good then and state taxes were reduced one-sixth during his previous administration. This was not accomplished through the passage of "civil administrative code bills" and Junkets from Seattle, Wash., to Washington, D. C., but by remaining at his office and administering the trust that had been bestowed upon him by the people of the state.

MAKE THE BOY A PARTNER

It was said by a great many wise ones that the soldiers having led outdoor lives so long, would want to get back on the farm, but it is estimated by the Department of Agriculture that more than 500,000 farmer boys have had a taste of another kind of life and that they never will go back. You can hardly blame them for not going back to some farms where the living conditions are primitive.

They have learned the value of running water, the comforts of a well set table and well prepared food and they also know they are capable of earning a living and enjoying themselves in surroundings which appeal to them which they could never have if they should go back under the old conditions.

This being the fact, one of the most important things which a farm bureau organization can do is to standardize its boys and to weave and build them into the farm equation, making them self reliant, money saving and property owning citizens.

It used to be considered enough for a boy to wait until his father died to get control of the farm. The modern idea is with a boy, if he cannot make a partner of his father, he had best find a place where he can become interested in the business.

Stripped of all frills, this is the real problem. As soon as the boy owns something and becomes self supporting, he is willing to be a farmer, knowing as he does that he can have every comfort and every advantage if his farm bureau takes care of its local problems.

Vote for RE-ELECTION of

CHIEF JUSTICE

Andrew M. Morrissey

"The political parties have made no nominations for Chief Justice. The Chief Justice is not elected as a party candidate, but his name will be placed with other Judicial Candidates, and school officers on a separate ballot. "We favor the re-election of Chief Justice Morrissey because we believe in the law designed to take the courts out of politics and to elect Judges because of their qualifications. "Six years ago when he became Chief Justice the court was about three years behind. Today the court is as nearly up with its work as it is practicable for a supreme court to be. Credit for this is not wholly due to the Chief Justice, but other members of the court who have contributed to this result give full credit to Chief Justice Morrissey for his share in its accomplishment. "He has executive ability that gets results. He enjoys the friendship and co-operation of his associates. He has the respect and confidence of the lawyers who have business in the Supreme Court. He has helped to clear away many technicalities of the law. Law-breakers have been brought to justice and honest men enjoy the protection of the courts. "If you are in doubt about how to vote on Chief Justice, ask your District Judge."—Lincoln Tribune.

School Days

Are again at hand and with them come the usual cares and worries for mother—hustling to get the kiddies off to school each morning. Sometimes in the haste other household duties are forgotten, preparations for the noonday meal forgotten. But don't let that worry you—phone us your wants or have the "kids" stop in and give us your order and it will receive the same careful attention as if you had personally made the purchase.
