The Honeymoon Disappearing.

The real, old-fashioned honeymoon, a four weeks' isolation near some fa-thing of the past in the old land, says the Montreal Herald. War killed the What interferes with its re-establishment is not only feeling against it as a waste of time, but also the high cost of traveling and the expense of holiday hotels, plus the difficulty of finding quarters. The aspiration of the young people of today is to settle down in the home they have managed, by dint of struggling, to secure, or to set to work to find something nearer the ideal than hotel or boarding-house accommodation. In other cases a

RED CROSS ASSISTS DISABLED VETERANS

The American Red Cross is carrying on a wide program of service for the disabled World War veterans receiving treatment in United States Public Health hospitals, and those being traine ed through agencies of the Federal Board for Vocational Education.

In each of the Public Health Service bospitals Red Cross workers devote their time to the general welfare of the service men from the day they enter the receiving ward until they are discharged. After the soldier's dis-charge the Red Cross continues its friendly service through the Home Service Section in his own community.

The Red Cross maintains a convalescent house at all of the hospitals, where patients can amuse themselves after they are well enough to be up and around. Parties and picture shows in the wards are also furnished, with occasional excursions when convalescence comes.

Great service has been rendered by the Red Cross in mental cases in iden, tifying those who have appeared to state hospitals for the insane, and helping them secure compensation due from the Bureau of War Pisk Insurance.

In the Federal Board's various district offices the Red Cross worker, acting with the Home Service Section, makes necessary loans to the men, arranges suitable living conditions, belps collect evidence and supply facts to the Board, assists in "appealing cases" and settles various personal difficulties for the men. The workers also follow up and aid all men who discontinue trains

The Red Cross agents find men "lost" to the Board, help clear up delayed cases and aid the college counselors in their friendly work with the men. Many Red Cross chapters have set up recreation facilities, and in some instances living clubs, so these victims of war may have attractive surroundings and the fun which must go with effective school work.

To the American Red Cross Institute for the Blind near Baltimore, Md., more than half of all the Americans blinded in the World War have come for training. The Institute, through the Red Cross, long ago conducted an exhaustive industrial survey to determine the vocations for which blind men could be fitted. As a result it is putting forth well trained men equipped to meet the social, civic and economic requirements of their respective communities.
