To the Public: I have been a worker on The Lincoln Journal 35 of its 55 years and have been an owner during 25 years. Having now acquired a controlling interest in the paper, I am if possible, more than ever anxious to have it reach several thousand new homes. The Journal has been building an enviable reputation for independence, truthfulness and thoroughness during these many years. I have it figured out that the quickest way to get The Journal into your mail box is to make a cut price, and have decided to slash the rate to only ONE DOLLAR to Jan. 1, 1923, or with the big Sunday Journal to only $1.25. You may have your choice of morning or evening, either one giving you a complete 24 hour service. Of course on most rural routes and in many towns the Morning paper will give you later news. The Sunday Journal prints Bryan's Bible talks, and a series of articles by Debs on his life in prison. As we print both Morning and Evening papers not even tempted to decide you as to which one gives you the latest news. You make your choice. Hope you will send a trial order. We guarantee to stop the paper when the time is up. Address: State Journal, Lincoln, Neb.

GOLLMAN BROS. CIRQUE WILL SOON BE HERE

Local circus attractions which have been scheduled to a concert place, will be more than anticipated Thursday, July 26, when the Gollman Bros. Circus steams into town on its two-mile train and holds its great city of tents.

Briefly summed up, here are the important features of probably the greatest organization in the world so far as amusements are concerned: A great parade, newly-built and overflowing with the world's strongest attractions, to be given at 11 o'clock in the forenoon; a complete zoological garden; a new spectacle to begin the program and a European bill of entirely new acts.

Some of the more important artists who have not been seen in America are the Howard sisters, who do an acrobatic act while balancing on rolling globes; Gilmore Fry, who exhibits a troupe of wonderfully trained ponies, dogs, and monkeys; the Matlock troupe of acrobats, famous in Europe; the three Fishers and their trained dogs and monkeys; the DeMott's, who perform a remarkable acrobatic act on the backs of horses; Frank Kelso, with trained bears, dogs and anteater; Watson sisters, who are renowned in Europe; Les Jardys and the Pacheco family of acrobats; the Minales family of trapez performers; and the celebrated and famous Morales Family in most wonderful feats on the wire and in the air.

There is great variety to the performance. The various acts have been picked from the great arenas of the old world with a view to giving the American public the greatest of the recent foreign novelties. With an entirely new equipment, the circus will present more than its former brilliant aspect.

All show day a branch ticket sale will be in progress at the Palace Bakery where reserved seats and admissions will be sold at the same prices charged on the show grounds.
