Gambling With Life

Tests made recently by officials of the Burlington Route at two grade crossings on its main line in Illinois disclose an appalling carelessness and disregard for the value of life and limb by the drivers of automobiles.

These tests were made near Plano, Illinois, where the Cannonball Trail crosses the Burlington, and at a country road crossing near Montgomery, Illinois. Both of these crossings were protected by the standard crossing signal, and in addition, one of them was also guarded by an electric alarm bell.

During eight hours, 772 vehicles passed these crossings. Only 71 drivers--less than one out of every 45, stopped to make sure whether a train was approaching before crossing the tracks; 482 looked in one direction; 301 looked both ways; but, 192 failed to "look before you leap" and sped across the tracks without taking any precautions whatsoever to make sure that it was safe to cross.

Such a "don't care" attitude explains the increasing frequency of the appearance of such startling headlines as "Train Crashes Into Auto at R. R. Crossing." If such recklessness continues to increase, it soon will be proper to change the headline recording crossing accidents to read "Auto Crashes Into Train." The records of the Burlington show that during a recent year 20 per cent of all such grade crossing accidents were caused by the automobile deliberately crashing into the train--the train having beaten the auto to the crossing.

Admittedly, the train has the right of way, but all the signals, bells, and whistles in Kingdom Come will not prevent accidents as long as the drivers of automobiles fail to heed their warning.

"I knew him when he was a boy"

What one is there of us that has not felt the glow of satisfaction over the outstanding success of a life-long friend! Often a surprise--seemingly "all of a sudden." Yet neither surprising nor sudden, when you stop to think back over each step of his progress.

THE United States Rubber Company--makers of U. S. Royal Cord--were first to conceive, make and announce the balanced tire. A tire in which there is such complete unity of action in tread and carcass that neither will give way before the other.

First to conceive, make and announce a complete line of tires--a tire for every need of price and use under one standard of quality.

First to tell the public about the good and bad in tire-retailing. (You remember the phrase "Go to a legitimate dealer and get a legitimate tire.")

First also to arouse industrial and trade minds to the need of a new kind of tire competition. (Competition for better and better values. Greater and greater public confidence.)

THESE high spots along the U. S. road to leadership indicate the intent--the will to win by the quality route in a price market.

Now that so many car-owners have given their verdict for quality tires in general, and U. S. Tires in particular--a number of dealers and car-owners whose vision has been clouded by "discounts," "sales" and what not, are beginning to remember that they "knew him when he was a boy."
