The manager of the opera house announces "The Cow-Puncher" by Hal Reid as the attraction for March 24. It is a story of life in Arizona and with its excellent company together with the complete scenic production, bids fair to score a big hit. W. F. Mann, the manager, has added several vaudeville features that have been highly praised.

Another change has occurred this week among our business firms. Mr. Geo. Amack has purchased the interest of Mr. Maynard in the Red Cloud Hardware and Implement Co. Mr. Amack has lived all his life in this community and is well and favorably known. He will make a strong addition to the firm and we welcome him to our city. We understand that Mr. Maynard will retire from active life.

"The Cow-Puncher," a new play by Hal Reid, and under the direction of W. F. Mann, opens a one night engagement at the opera house Wednesday, March 24th. The play is a powerful drama of the west, containing a beautiful heart story, thrilling situations and fairly bubbles with comedy. A cast far above the average has been engaged and nothing that money can secure has been spared to make this one of the most magnificent productions on the road.

"The Cow-Puncher," written in Hal Reid's inimitable style, affords all the characters many opportunities to display cleverness and versatility. The play is lavishly mounted throughout and bears evidence of Mr. Mann's personal attention and supervision with all the wealth and beauty that the stage carpenter and scenic artist can portray. The scenes are woven in and about Arizona and Mexico, in a stirring and adventurous manner, dealing with cowboy life on the large cattle ranches.

Stymest Stevenson, youngest son of Hugh Stevenson an early pioneer of this county was in the city this week and made this office a pleasant call. He used to live on a farm near Inavale but now makes his home in Council Bluffs. Mr. Stevenson informs us that the most pleasurable holiday of his life was spent in this city. On the 4th of July 27 years ago, his father gave 50cts. each to two of his boys for spending money and Mr. Stevenson was one of the boys. They both rode the same horse into town and proceeded to have the time of their lives.

They each had 25cts. when they arrived home. He asserted that Red Cloud furnishes the highest class entertainment with the least expenditure of any city in the U. S.

Glad to see you, come again.

S. C. Johnson died Monday morning at four o'clock of a complication of diseases. The funeral was held Tuesday at Mt. Hope and the remains were laid to rest in the Mt. Hope cemetery.

A young Chicago drummer was taking a vacation with his uncle in the country and was called upon to ask the blessing, and not being accustomed to it he promptly tackled the difficulty in the following words: "We acknowledge the receipt of your favor of this date. Allow us to extend our gratitude for this expression of good will. Trusting that our house may merit your confidence and have many orders from you this fall, we are yours truly, amen." The old man will say grace hereafter.—Found Wandering.

O. P. Hendershot's tenth sale at Lincoln, Nebr., March 25, '09 will exceed all of his former sales in quality and heavy boned animals, but are not in as good flesh as they should be to get the best prices for them, but are just right for breeding purposes, and the buyer will get them for less money.

The stallions are from 2 to 5 years old weighing from 1600 lbs. to 2200 lbs., sound and right. The 30 mares are from 2 to 6 years old, are good as grow, I think. The 10 jacks are of the big boned, long bodied, good head and ears, and guaranteed good breeders and all right in every way, stand from 15 to 16½ hands high. Read Mr. Hendershot's add in this paper and write for catalogue. Mention this paper.

"What is a home without a paper?" A home without a newspaper is no home at all. It is a kind of dreary den—a rendezvous of bedbugs and fleas, where the inhabitants live in blissful ignorance of what the world is doing. It is inhabited by a class who do not know who is president or what he is president of—who never find out that a thing has happened until long after everyone else has forgotten it. The children grow up in rags and dirt, while the wife generally finds consolation in darning socks and lugging a pipe loaded with long, green tobacco, and the man generally lives because he can't die and he is too lazy to kill himself. He goes out on election days, and does not know who he is voting for, but just takes the ticket bearing the name his great-grandfather voted for.—Riceville (Minn.) Leader.

If it were not for artificial eye aid, the eye-glass, the telescope, the combinations of different lenses, scientists and the world in general would today be laboring in the darkness of the sixteenth century. Formerly lenses were made from pebble, and it was found by Flinsen, "the father of light," that this was the only substance which would transmit his newly discovered health rays. From the time of this discovery, it has been the dream of scientists to produce an artificial lens substance that would approximate Nature's product in its transmissive powers of the health rays of light. All could see the value of such a discovery in its adaptability for eye glass and spectacle lenses especially, as the lenses now in use absorb practically all of these health-giving rays so that but few of them reach the eye. It has been demonstrated that the new Health-Ray lens recently announced has the property of transmitting all these health rays and all elements of light in their natural proportions as found in sunlight.
