

MORE PINKHAM CURES

Added to the Long List due to This Famous Remedy.

Camden, N. J.—"It is with pleasure that I add my testimonial to your already long list—hoping that it may induce others to avail themselves of this valuable medicine. Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. I suffered from terrible headaches, pain in my back and right side, was tired and nervous, and so weak I could hardly stand. Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound restored me to health and made me feel like a new person and it shall always have my praise."

—Mrs. W. P. VALENTINE, 902 Lincoln Avenue, Camden, N. J.

Gardiner, Me.—"I was a great sufferer from a female disease. The doctor said I would have to go to the hospital for an operation, but Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound completely cured me in three months."

—Mrs. S. A. WILLIAMS, R. F. D. No. 14, Box 39, Gardiner, Me.

Because your case is a difficult one, doctors having done you no good, do not continue to suffer without giving Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound a trial. It surely has cured many cases of female ills, such as inflammation, ulceration, displacements, fibroid tumors, irregularities, periodic pains, backache, that bearing-down feeling, indigestion, dizziness, and nervous prostration. It costs but a trifle to try it, and the result is worth millions to many suffering women.

Decollete.
Wu Ting Fang, at a dance in Washington, criticised the modern ballroom belle.

"Like the ancient Briton, who dressed in blue wool," he said, "the belle's idea of a magnificent toilet seems to be plenty of paint and very little clothing."

MURPHY'S MENU SOUP $1.50

NEW YORK.—Is there a limit to extravagance in Manhattan? If there be such, there is no indication of it in the $2,500,000 dining room venture at Forty-second street and Broadway, which is now engrossing the attention of every gourmet in the metropolis.

Millionaires dreaming of the sybaritic luxury of Babylonian days and of the wonder workings of Haroun-al-Raschid, through the might of a staggering outlay of money, are rapidly transforming the famous old Hotel Rossmore into the most luxurious eating place in the entire world. The caravansary which at one time harbored every class and type of Broadway life from the sportsmen with the plethoric bank roll to the latest goddess of the green room, is now being changed into a dining resort, where those will be served who can pay the price, where price is the least consideration.

Where soups will cost probably $1.50 a portion, game birds from $10 up and cafe noir at prices prohibitive to those who do not look like ready money, it would surely seem that the limit of metropolitan extravagance had again been set at a high water mark with which the price scales of the St. Regis, Delmonico's, Sherry's, Martin's and other show places of the greater city are modest. Times and customs change, and the new Murray's marks the transition.

Will such a place representing so enormous an outlay pay? Yes, say the capitalists backing the venture. And it is the consensus of opinion, moreover, of the shrewdest public entertainers in the city that there will be a legitimate and growing interest on this unique and remarkable investment devised to meet the aesthetic requirements of the most voluptuous city on the globe. The backers of the enterprise figure rightly. It is believed, that every woman coming to New York will insist upon her escort taking her to this marvelous dining place at least once on her sojourn. The same holds good with the women of New York.

And was there ever a place of such Neronic allurements designed to meet the languorous requirements of my lady of fashion? Would she smoke? That will be provided for. A luxurious smoking room for her is now being built, let alone a manicure parlor with French hair dressers and maids imported from Paris. She may be reperfed, repowdered and redressed. Furthermore she may enjoy a Turkish bath, be gowned by a maid as expert as her own at home and, with coiffure rearranged, may take her jewels from the safe and after a Lucullian repast be ready for the opera.

Decision Ties Hands of Howard Gould

"A LIMONY of $36,000 a year isn't enough—why, it practically is nothing. I will have a hard time living on less than $100 a day."

This comment on the award made to her by Justice Dowling in her successful suit for a separation from Howard Gould is attributed to Mrs. Katherine Clemmons Gould. She is greatly disappointed over the amount of alimony.

It is said that in case Howard Gould becomes dissatisfied with the amount of alimony allowed his wife, and should he wish to divorce, he could not sue on any evidence, or even allegations, employed by his counsel in the trial just concluded.

There is no special probability, however, that Howard Gould would wish to take any measures against his wife, even for a reduction of the allowance which he has been directed to pay her. It was well known that he wished to avoid further airing of their marital difficulties.

The allowance, furthermore, which the court directed him to pay was $36,000 a year, and although that was $11,000 more than he had voluntarily given her, it was said to be little more than one-thirtieth of his income.

Although the alimony was low, in view of the large income from the Jay Gould estate, it is said to be the largest allowance that has ever been made in a case of this kind, so far as the records of any court in this country could show, except where a private settlement had been made.

Mrs. Gould still retains a dowry; right in her husband's real estate, on which he set a valuation of $5,000,000 in testifying at the trial. Part of this is the $1,700,000 valuation of the Castle Gould estate, for which he failed to find a purchaser last year at $1,000,000. Howard Gould cannot mortgage or dispose of any of his real estate without his wife's consent, and she may place a lien on the real estate to obtain her alimony in case he should default in his payments.

Gotham School Children Have Bad Teeth

The bureau of municipal research of New York city recently made public the result of certain investigations which if carried out will put into the pockets of New York dentists something like $500,000.

The investigations have had to do with the teeth of New York school children who sought permission to go to work this summer. The investigation was carried on at the department of health at the instigation of Miss Dorothy Whitney, acting in behalf of the Junior League, and Charles Loring Brace for the Children's Aid society. The actual work of examining the teeth of 500 boys and girls was done by Wallace T. Van Winkle, D. D. S., under the supervision of Dr. Jonathan Baker, head of the division of child hygiene, and Arthur S. Merritt, D. D. S., dentist in charge of the Children's Aid society's dental clinic at the Fifty-third street industrial school.

The children came from all over town and were of all nationalities. They were taken as they secured their work papers, or "mercantile papers," and their ages range from 14 to 16. Of the 500 children only 14 had sound teeth, and these needed to be cleaned. The other children, the bureau says, must either go without dental care, compromise on an occasional crown or extraction or pay from $5,000 to $10,000 for treatment, which means from five to ten weeks' earnings of the groups.

The bureau says that if the unfortunate children were to have the same kind of treatment that parents of higher incomes would see that their children had, from $20,000 to $40,000 more must be added to these figures, the respective sum representing tenement and avenue prices. The girls have somewhat more than their fair proportion of bad teeth.

Bingham Starts Odd Suit Against Justice

THE triangular contest that has been waging in New York city between William J. Gaynor, justice of the supreme court, Mayor McClellan and former Police Commissioner Bingham, U. S. A. (retired), took a new and surprising turn recently when Gen. Bingham instituted suit against Justice Gaynor for defamation of character and asked damages on two counts aggregating $100,000.

sundry charges and the police having photographed him for their gallery of record, appealed to Justice Gaynor, not as a judge but as a friend, to have his photograph removed from the Mulberry street store house. Justice Gaynor, being unsuccessful in his direct appeals to Commissioner Bingham to order the removal of the Duffy photograph, brought the matter to the attention of Mayor McClellan in a letter which was tantamount to a request to the mayor to remove the police commissioner on charges of exceeding his privileges, and the letter was couched in such strong terms that Gen. Bingham now seeks to hold the justice personally responsible for their defamatory reflections upon him.

The news of the suit was as much a surprise to the mayor as it was to Justice Gaynor, Commissioner Bingham having made no threats of holding the justice accountable.

President Taft's Willful Misinterpretation of Little Girl's Intended Haughty Rebuke.

President Taft is fond of children, with whom he is a favorite. A charming story on this head comes from Cincinnati.

Once, when a pretty Cincinnati girl was a child of six or seven, Mr. Taft, calling at her house, found nobody home excepting herself. She entertained him a little while, and when he rose to go, he stooped down and kissed her.

"Here's one," he said, "for the baby. Here is another for little Jim. And here is a third for little boy."

The little girl, drawing herself up, said haughtily—she had been reading a novel:

"Mr Taft, you forget yourself!"

He bent down again.

"So I did," he laughed. "Well, here's one for myself!"

PLAIN TALK.

Girl's Head Encrusted—Feared Loss of All Her Hair—Baby Had Milk-Crust—Misionary's Wife Made

Two Perfect Cures by Cuticura.

"For several years my husband was a missionary in the Southwest. Every one in that high and dry atmosphere has more or less trouble with dandruff and my daughter's scalp became so encrusted with it that I was alarmed for fear she would lose all her hair. After trying various remedies, in desperation I bought a cake of Cuticura Soap and a box of Cuticura Ointment. They left the scalp beautifully clean and free from dandruff, and I am happy to say that the Cuticura Remedies were a complete success. I have also used successfully the Cuticura Remedies for so-called 'milk-crust' on baby's head. Cuticura is a blessing. Mrs. J. A. Darling, 310 Fifth St., Carthage, Ohio, Jan. 20, 1908."

A certain young minister in Philadelphia, recently ordained, is still very nervous and sometimes his remarks do not convey exactly the meaning he intended. A few Sundays ago he rose, fumbled with the papers on his desk, blushed, and then said:

"My Friends: I—I am sorry to say that I have lost the notes for my sermon, and I therefore cannot deliver it. I will have to do the next best thing, therefore, and read a few chapters from the Bible!"—Illustrated Sunday Magazine.
