

HAVE you ever experienced that feeling of keen annoyance with the old style fountain pen, when the pen runs dry in the middle of a letter? How you despised the operation of filling—messy, dirty, provoking—parts to unscrew, inked fingers, leaky joints. You can eliminate all this by using

CONKLIN'S Self-Filling Fountain Pen

If it should run dry while writing, you would not feel in the least annoyed, not even a little bit, because you can calmly reach over and dip pen in nearest inkwell, press the "Crescent-Filler" once, and instantly pen is full of ink. Done so quickly that your train of thought is not even broken.

Moreover, that filling operation keeps the feed channels clean and unclogged so that the flow of ink is always certain and continuous; never a leak, blot or skip; makes writing delightfully easy.

All sizes and points come in and try them.

Hussong, minister.

The enrollment of the high school has reached the 170 mark and the enlarged building is about filled to its full capacity. Many people seemed to think that the room in the building would be far in excess of what the high school could possibly use but the facts are that it is comfortably filled the first week of school and there seems to be no waste room. Every inch of space is used to good advantage.

Goes to Red Cloud
Robt. Hollingsworth, who for the past couple of years has been in charge of a general store at Benkleman, has resigned his position at that place and accepted a position in the dry goods and shoe departments of a store at Red Cloud. Rob and his wife stopped off here Saturday and Sunday to visit with the home folks and on Monday proceed to the Webster county metropolis to take up his labors with the new firm. Rob is a good, pleasant and obliging salesman and we congratulate the Red Cloud firm on securing his services.—Arapahoe Pioneer.

Died.
Elmer Harvey aged 41 years died Monday at his home five miles north west of Inavale. Funeral services took place this morning. Rev. Blackwell conducted the services. The burial took place in the Riverton cemetery. He leaves a wife and five children, two brothers and three sisters to mourn their loss. Two of his sisters, Mrs. Alice Litz of Furnace County and Mrs. Ella Miller of Iowa City came to attend the funeral. He was one of Webster County's pioneer settlers and was a successful farmer. His wife and children brothers and sisters have the sympathy of all in their sad hour of bereavement.
