Words are inadequate to express our feelings of gratitude and appreciation of the thoughtful care and tender ministrations of the dear friends who so faithfully endeavored to supply every want of our dear wife and mother while living—and touching evidence of love and sympathy when her sightless eyes could no longer recognize the flowers and friends she loved so well. God will surely reward such devotion to the afflicted and unfortunate.

D. B. Gilbert, Chairman of the Prohibition campaign committee and one of the Trustees of the Anti-Saloon League, spoke at the Court House on Wednesday evening. He reminded the voters of the right they possess to govern themselves and urged them to make use of it in a way to build up the town and remove temptation from those who are weak. He declared that liquor selling is not a business, since business consists of a series of commercial transactions in which the purchaser is supposed to get value for his money. The buyer of intoxicants is the worse off instead of the better, the more purchases he makes. He cited Mayor Love's testimony to the improved condition of Lincoln after ten months of prohibition.

The Woodman Have a Big Banquet.
On last Thursday evening, in pursuance to a circular invitation to the local members of the Modern Woodmen, an Identification meeting was held and a great number of serious, but pleasant faces graced the lodge room, many of which by reason of their long continued absence almost needed an introduction. The committee very thoughtfully asked for pictures of those unable to attend and now have a number of handsome photographs of wise men who carry fraternal insurance which will be duly framed and used for decorations about the hall.
A mysterious cloud hung over the countenances of many present. This was not to be wondered at, for principally the officers alone have been making up the business quorums for some time. Naturally any ordinary membership would be enshrouded in mystery to hear their own voices and to sit in a place so desirous of their presence but so infrequently visited.
At an opportune time Deputy Wilson offered a very satisfactory and impressive explanation for the meeting, stating it was up to all the members to identify themselves with the best interests of the order and to wake up liberal enthusiasm for growth and membership to which he would lend his time and energy.
Judge Edson was called upon and casting away the shroud of prevailing mystery unwound an excellent talk for the good of the order and highly complimented the committee on the success of their efforts in securing the attendance of so many partially identified members.
E. H. Newhouse furnished good entertainment with his Victrola and high grade records while the committee set out a sumptuous feast of coffee and sandwiches, which was wound up with a smoker and general good time.
Everyone present enjoyed himself and tendered his assistance to the campaign for new members. Two new members, W. A. Kent and L. A. Manley were initiated.
