

WORTH MOUNTAINS OF GOLD

During Change of Life, says Mrs. Chas. Barclay

Graniteville, Vt.—"I was passing through the Change of Life, and suffered from nervousness and other annoying symptoms, and I can truly say that Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has proved worth mountains of gold to me, as it restored my health and strength. I never forget to tell my friends what Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has done for me during this trying period. Complete restoration to health means so much to me that for the sake of other suffering women I am willing to make my trouble public so you may publish this letter."—MRS. CHAS. BARCLAY, R. F. D., Graniteville, Vt.

No other medicine for woman's ills has received such wide-spread and unqualified endorsement. No other medicine we know of has such a record of cures of female ills as has Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

For more than 30 years it has been curing female complaints such as inflammation, ulceration, local weaknesses, fibroid tumors, irregularities, periodic pains, backache, indigestion and nervous prostration, and it is unequalled for carrying women safely through the period of change of life. It costs but little to try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and, as Mrs. Barclay says, it is "worth mountains of gold" to suffering women.

Wants good, wide awake, hustling agents to represent it in the sale of one of the most alluring land propositions that is being offered the world of land buyers of today.

We have well improved farms in southern Kansas for sale. These farms will compare in every particular with the Eastern Nebraska farm that is selling today for $100 and up, per acre. Richness of soil, amount of rainfall, improvements, distance to market, etc., and we can sell these farms for less than one-half the amount that can be obtained for Eastern Nebraska farms. From $10 to $50 per acre buys them. Most any kind of terms to suit the purchaser. 220 miles south of Lincoln, where the winters are milder and the growing season considerable longer. Fine corn, alfalfa and small grain land. $10 pays all the expenses of the trip from Lincoln and return. We leave Lincoln at 6 p. m., Saturday, show the land and return at 11:25 the following Monday. Good commissions to be paid agents who will hustle. Write, wire or call and see us.

PARTY PLANS TO "GET TOGETHER"

Democratic Move Has Harmony for Its Object.

BIG BANQUET FIRST PLAN

Function at Washington May Tend to Harmonize the Factions—Early Adjournment of Congress Is Not Expected—Does Taft Usurp?

Washington.—The Democrats in Washington have practically completed their plans for a dinner on Jefferson day, April 12, when members of the party representative of all sections of the country will be gathered together in what the leaders hope may prove to be a love feast.

It was the original hope of the Washington Democrats that they could have as guests at the affair the three men most prominently mentioned just now as possible and even probable prospective candidates for the Democratic nomination for the presidency, but there is disappointment in store because neither Judson Harmon of Ohio, Thomas R. Marshall of Indiana nor William J. Gaynor of New York will be able to be present.

Recently three leading Democrats of the country, with one or two others not quite so prominent, met at Hot Springs, Ark., and the details of their conference were given wide publicity. A good many of the Democrats in the capital, however, do not take in an entirely kindly spirit the suggestion which it has been generally agreed came from the Democratic trio at the Arkansas springs. It seems that if a proper interpretation is put upon the words of the men who met in the west they are in favor, if present conditions continue, of the nomination of Judson Harmon of Ohio by the Democrats when they next meet in national convention.

Men Who Made Proposition.

The three prominent Democrats who put forth this suggestion are Norman E. Mack, Charles F. Murphy and Roger Sullivan. Mr. Mack is the chairman of the Democratic national committee; Charles F. Murphy is the prominent New York Democrat who has been guiding the destinies of Tammany hall, and Roger Sullivan is the Illinois Democrat who some time ago had a very marked difference of opinion on political and economic matters with William Jennings Bryan and who exchanged some sharp letters with the Nebraskan.

In the past these three men to some extent have represented different factions of the Democracy, and while the Democrats to-day are saying that all is harmony some of them admit that the recollection of past differences are a little hard to shake off and that all of them are not ready just yet to accept as final the presidential nomination word of men who in the past were in entire disagreement with them.

Mr. Bryan's Attitude.

There are some Democrats in Washington who have been Bryan men ever since Mr. Bryan became a great national figure, who are inclined to believe the pronouncement which came from Arkansas a few days ago to the effect that William J. Bryan was likely to favor the nomination of Judson Harmon on the ground that the Ohioan is a Democrat, who can perhaps more than any other man get all the factions of the party together. There are, however, some Bryan men who doubt whether the peerless leader will give sanction, except reluctantly, to any plan to forward Mr. Harmon's presidential ambition. The Democrats who feel this way say that the Ohioan at times has shown that he has had too kindly feelings for certain policies which Mr. Bryan always has opposed. Then there are Democrats who say that unless Mr. Harmon carries Ohio in the next election for governor he is out of it, and that either Marshall of Indiana or Gaynor of New York must be looked to to carry the standard of the party to success.

Quick Action on Big Measures.

Basing prophecies of legislative activity on the promise coming out of a Republican caucus in the house, it seems likely that as far as the representatives are concerned there now will be fairly quick action on some of the more important of the measures which the administration has recommended. Even with the prospect of action it is altogether unlikely that congress can adjourn before the first week in June, a time too late to satisfy some of the members, who would like to be at home in the late spring season to look after their campaign interests.

The house committee on postoffices and post roads has directed its subcommittee, which has charge of the postal savings bank bill, to make an early report. Although the house does not yet know definitely the temper of the committee on postal savings banks, there is more or less debate on the subject going on at odd moments in the open chamber. It is noticeable that the members do not commit themselves specifically for or against certain provisions of the measure which it is likely may be subject to amendment.

Second-Class Mail Rates.

Of course the matter of second-class mail rates was the first great question which the committee had to consider. It is doubtful if there was ever any recommendation or finding made by the postoffice department which created such a row as did the proposal to advance mail rates of this class. It is probable that the letters which the members of the committee received for and against the proposition to raise the rates were greater in number than those received touching any other legislation in years excepting the proposition to keep Senator Smoot of Utah out of his seat, and the proposal once advanced by the agricultural committee to do away with the biological survey, which has always been known as the farmer's friend.

The letter writing in the case of the second-class mail matter had its effect, as the country knows, and it is likely that for some little time at least, there will be no further turbulent discussion of the matter either on the floor or through the mails.

It is the house postoffice and post roads committee which has in its keeping the "parcels post" measure. Toward the end of April, hearings will be held on this proposed legislation, but it seems hardly possible that anything will be done in the matter until next year at least. The letters that are coming in concerning bills looking to the establishment of this kind of mail service are in number a multitude. It is a vexed question, for curiously enough on this one matter, some of the great corporations appear on the same side of the controversy with thousands of the people whose interests are supposed to be inimical to any great corporation endeavors.

The postoffice committee of the house has read the parcels post letters and has been in a puzzled mood. The country districts seem to be divided against themselves on the question. Thousands of people living in the country want the parcels post, and there are other thousands, mostly men of mercantile pursuits, who think that the legislation is iniquitous. Both sides are well represented in the correspondence which has been coming into the capital and both sides will get their full hearing, but the chances are, let it be said again, that nothing will be done in the matter at this session and very likely not in this congress.

Dispute Over Power.

There have been recently, both in congress and out of it, sharp adverse criticisms of what has been called "executive law making." In other words, some of the members of congress and some of the critics outside of it are inveighing against the "practice of submitting the recommendations of the president to congress in the form of specific bills." The amendments to the interstate commerce law which have been sent to congress and which are now under consideration in bill form constitute one of the bases of complaint of what the most outspoken of the members call "executive usurpation." This railroad bill, for the amendments constitute a bill, has had a somewhat peculiar history. In his inaugural address one year ago last month the president made it perfectly clear that he intended to recommend legislation the effect of which would be to further control the operations of the great carrier companies of the United States.

Bill Is Committee's Report.

When Mr. Taft returned to Washington in November, the committee made its report to him, and when one of the members was asked what form it was likely the legislation in congress would take, he answered: "If you have seen the report of the president's committee you have seen the bill which will be introduced."

What the member of the committee said turned out to be true. The bill which was introduced into house and senate was practically a copy of the committee's report to the chief executive. When the bill was considered in the house committee on interstate commerce to which it was referred, it was changed in many of its particulars, but the senate committee accepted the administration measure in practically its initial form. It was this bill more than any other which brought about criticism concerning executive law making.

Now, there are always two sides to a question, and while congress is restive because of what it thinks is the encroachment of the executive on the field of congressional rights, it must be said on the word of the president's friends, that Mr. Taft, because of his judicial training, wanted to bring to bear on the interstate commerce bill the legal ability of the best lawyers in his cabinet, the training of several of the interstate commerce commissioners, and the legislative acumen of one member of congress, who had had experience before with bills of the kind.

Wants His Legislation to Stand.

The president always has been afraid apparently that some of the legislation which he recommends, or which congress passes without his direct recommendation, might meet with breakers in the supreme court. He wants to make his legislation, so his friends say, absolutely proof against adverse decisions on the ground of unconstitutionality. So it is that his answer to congressional criticism of executive law making, as his friends put it, is that he simply wants to give congress good legal groundwork for legislation, and that he will not complain if changes are made in his recommended measures provided his advice on their constitutionality is taken.

From the beginning of the republic there always has been more or less complaint of what has been and still is called "executive usurpation." When the Democrats were in control of congress under Mr. Cleveland's administration, they found fault with him for encroaching on the rights of the legislative branch. Mr. Harrison did not escape, nor did Mr. Roosevelt; and now Mr. Taft is coming in for his share of the legislative critics' attention. GEORGE CLINTON.

UNCLE JOE CANNON

HE ALSO SPEAKS WELL OF CANADA.

No matter what may be the opinion of Mr. Joseph Cannon, no matter if he may be looked upon by some as a czar, and by others as a big warm-hearted man, with many of the instincts that make humanity very bearable, all will admit that he is a man who has been advertised more than any other man in the United States. What he may have to say therefore on any subject will have weight. Observed, he speaks his mind freely. He was interviewed the other day by the correspondent of a Canadian newspaper. He spoke of his admiration for Canada, and he is quoted in a way that pictures fairly well the person of the man. The correspondent says he launched out into personal biography, proverbial philosophy, political comment, cynical scorn, broad profanity and sentimental poetry such as one rarely hears in the space of an hour. He discussed the Canadian tariff, and then said: "People say I break the Ten Commandments, all of them. But I don't, at least not often. I did break one of them up in Canada two or three years ago. As I rode from Winnipeg to the Rockies over your great West and saw the finest wheatfields in the world, I thought of Virginia and a lot of our States, and I smashed the Tenth Commandment every hour of the journey. Yes, sir, I coveted my neighbor's land." Coming from a man of the fame of Mr. Cannon, these were words that should have some weight with the Americans who may still have doubts of the advantages that are offered to them in Western Canada. A home amongst the wheatfields. Hundreds of thousands of Americans are adopting it. They go to Central Canada, to any one of the three Provinces of Manitoba, Saskatchewan or Alberta, or to the Coast Province of British Columbia, take up their homestead of 160 acres, and probably pre-empt another 160 acres, or it may be they do not care for pioneering twenty or thirty miles from an existing railway, and purchase a farm. Then they settle upon it and, having no clearing away of timber they begin at once to cultivate it, and make money. That they make money and much more than they could possibly make on the high-priced farms they have left, is the evidence of hundreds of thousands. They do not leave civilized life, they but remove from one sphere to another. They have splendid social conditions, churches, schools, rural telephones, splendid roads, railways, convenient just the same as what they left, and what is more, they get much greater returns from their crops, which give abundant yield. The climate is perfect, and it is no wonder that most flattering reports are sent back to their friends in the States, and it is no wonder that Joe Cannon was tempted to speak as he did. He "coveted" his neighbor's land.
