Rev. Gertrude Von Petzold

Rev. Gertrude Von Petzold M. A. is the first woman ordained to the ministry of religion in England. She is of German birth being descended of an old Prussian family. She received the greater part of her education in Great Britain and is a graduate of the University of Edinburgh and of Manchester College, Oxford. She completed her studies under the leading theologians of the University of Berlin.

Miss Von Petzold has from her early girlhood taken a keen interest in all movements of reform, especially those affecting her own sex. She espoused the cause of woman suffrage before leaving college and has never since wavered in her allegiance to that movement. When the militant suffragists in England three years ago aroused a storm of indignation by their bold tactics she was among the first ministers in that country who dared to champion them.

Although Miss Von Petzold has not been a year in Iowa she is recognized as one of the leading women speakers in the state. She has probably more often spoken on women suffrage during the past year than any other women in Iowa. It is well known how she met Senator Gillilland in public debate last summer.

Senator Shirley Gillilland

is of Scotch-Irish parentage. Twenty five years' practice of law gives him great ability in debate. He is wholly in earnest in his opposition to universal suffrage, believing that the women of America have no real grievance, that the agitation is either misguided or insincere, that it tends to unsettle the noblest ideals of womanhood, to belittle the home and motherhood, to weaken the marriage bonds and disrupt the home. He argues that there can be no such thing as inferiority or superiority or equality between the sexes for the reason that their endowments and functions are so different that it is plain that God never intended man and women should be rivals and contestants, but always companions and helpmates. Senator Gillilland is not a grouchy old bachelor, but has a delightful family to which he is deeply devoted.

Florence E. Maybrick

This refined and cultured American woman was lately released after confinement in the English prison for fifteen years, and now stripped of the fortune, and torn from her children she returns to America to tell her sad story. Mrs. Maybrick was tried in July, 1889, for causing the death by poison of her husband who was an English nobleman of aristocratic family. She was sentenced to be executed, but this was commuted to a life sentence. So weak was the evidence against her that her conviction was a shock to public opinion both in America and England. A few months after the trial the justice who presided became hopelessly insane. Petitions were signed by thousands of people of prominence in America and England asking for her release. Among the signers are found the names of Levi P. Morton, J. G. Blaine, Chas. Foster, Cardinal Gibbons, General Breckenridge and others. Mrs. Maybrick has visited the prisons in some twenty-six of the states since her release and her chautauqua lecture compares prison life in Europe with prison conditions in America. "Mrs. Maybrick's Own Story" is a number you can't afford to miss.

The Highland Ladies Orchestra

The Highland Ladies Orchestra is under the direction of Miss Etta Wood, who is a graduate of the Highland Park Conservatory is one of the first violinists of Des Moines. She has been leader of the Highland String Quartette, Ladies Orchestra which will appear at a dozen of the best Chautauquas in this country.

Charles Grant Jordan.

Ten years Dr. Charles Grant Jordan will be widely known in every part of our great country.

Though young in appearance, he is old in deeds. His career has been one uninterrupted success from boyhood to the present moment. He is a whirlwind of oratory, a cyclone of logic, with an overflow of spontaneous humor and a nature beaming with good fellowship. While yet in college he was styled "The Little Giant" because of his profound convictions, his genius for work, and his innate ability as an orator and debater. He has carried that title over this country and Europe. In less than five years after graduating from Princeton Seminary he was preaching to the largest Presbyterian audience in Ohio, addressing overflow audiences. At the Great Corn Palace, Mitchell, S. D., he spoke on the same platform with Taft, Bryan, Chafin and Debs and did not suffer by comparison but easily held his own as an orator and public speaker. In appearance he will remind you of Napoleon, in speech of Gough and in action of Edwin Booth. By profession he is an evangelist, by choice a student and by nature an orator. The world needs Dr. Jordan and many more with such noble aspirations.

SEN. A. B. CUMMINS.

The events of the past year or two in Congress have brought to the fore front a new group of leaders of public opinion, and one of the first of them all is United States Senator Albert B. Cummins of Iowa. Though he has been in the senate but two short years, his ability as a student of public affairs and as an orator have given him place along with men who have served many times two years. His fight on the great railroad rate issue in the senate recently focused the attention of the whole nation upon him and it resulted in a material victory for him and those with him. Senator Cummins has been a fighter in politics of all his life.

Evangelist W. J. Lhamon

Evangelist W. J. Lhamon, formerly Dean of the Bible College of Missouri, Columbia, Mo., has held pastorates in Minneapolis, Minn., Toronto, Canada and North Pittsburg, Pa.

Mr. Lhamon has been secured as platform manager.

Lucian Follansbee

has been on the lecture platform for the last nine years and during that time has lectured in every state in the Union and we have only praise for the uniform satisfaction he has given all over the United States. He not only pleases and touches cords of human interest, but he arouses new enthusiasm in the whole problem of right living. Without exception his audiences are enthusiastic over him and are greatly benefited for having heard him.

Dr. John Merritte Driver.

Dr. John Merritte Driver was the popular successor of Drs. H. W. Thomas and Frank Crane at the famous People's Church of Chicago, McVicker's pastorate, vast throngs assembled every Sunday morning. He studied at Boston, Leipzig and Rome, has observed conditions in every European country, and has visited many strange and interesting lands. In the realm of fiction he won fame by his novel, "Purple Peaks Remote: A Romance of Italy and America." As a composer he has enriched the repertoires of concert singers and players with many charming lyrics and piano morceaux. Both in the pulpit and on the lecture platform he has won an enviable pre-eminence.

Geo. R. Stuart.

The South's Greatest Preacher-Humorist.

When Geo. R. Stuart speaks in communities where he is known, hundreds are turned away because there isn't a hall big enough to hold all who come to hear him. There isn't a man on the Chautauqua programs this year with more and better recommendations from big men than Geo. R. Stuart has. The distinguished Dr. McIntyre says he thanks God for his goodness in giving the world such a man as Stuart. Dr. Gunsaulus, of Chicago, said after he had heard him three times that Stuart was a really great master of assemblies with an extraordinary gift of humor and pathos and eloquence.

The Royal Hungarian Orchestra.

Chautauqua and lyceum audiences have been acquainted with the Royal Hungarian Orchestra for many years. It success in this country has been phenomenal, due to the unusual skill of its individual members. While the orchestra is Hungarian, its leader is American. Mr. James Thatcher because of his better understanding of the American taste for music as well as his skill. The orchestra's playing is inspiring and its programs present a pleasing variety of the choicest music.

Luther Burbank's Work.

By Henry A. Adrain. Prof. Luther Burbank, "The Wizard of Horticulture," was born in Lancaster, Mass., in the year 1849. His early days were spent on the New England farm, where as a lad he developed a wonderful aptitude for plants and plant life. His education was completed in Lancaster Academy and in the year 1875 he moved to Santa Rosa, Calif., which is now known the world over as the home of the Burbank Experimental Farms and Gardens. In the popular mind, the impression being assisted largely by the newspapers and the tales of the average tourist who visits Santa Rosa, the work of Mr. Burbank has taken something of the uncanny mysterious qualities which are associated with the term "Wizard."

The Dekoven Male Quartet.

The Dekovens have been before the public for six years or more and their popularity has increased steadily until now they rank as one of the most successful musical organizations on the road. The young men have been together throughout the quartet's career and the demand upon their time keeps them busy throughout the Chautauqua season and for thirty-two weeks of the lyceum season besides in every year. Their program has a pleasing variety. Moreover, the young men themselves are pleasing in their personality.

The Oriole Trio.

Mr. Earl Winters, reader and pianist with the Oriole Trio has had four years of professional experience and understands how to make an entertainment succeed. Miss E. Fern Smith, the soprano, has studied in Highland Park, Illinois, and Chicago for the past two years and has had a brilliant career. Miss Alice Stire, the whistler, was two seasons with the Redpath Bureau and has studied at Simpson College, Indianola, Iowa, for the past year. This company of real artists is making a tremendous success.

Peter Mac Queen.

Who tells of the Land Where Roosevelt Hunted.

Theodore Roosevelt has given this part of the world the Africa habit—the habit of reading and talking about a country for which it never cared much before. That is why the lectures of Peter Mac Queen, hunter and traveler, on the Dark Continent create such great popular interest. Mr. Mac Queen spent a year in Central Africa, hunting all kinds of game and experiencing all kinds of adventures. He secured a wonderful lot of photographs and these, with his fund of information and story telling ability, make of his lecture one of the best attractions offered on the Chautauqua platform.

Clarence A. Vincent, Galesburg, Ill.

Pastor Central Congregational Church. If you do not want a lecturer that makes you weep and laugh, that stirs you to hate the evil and love the good and arouses you to shake the dust of dullness off your feet and to be a live man, do not get Dr. Frank G. Smith. He cannot help doing all these things when he lectures. Like cloth that is all wool and a yard wide, he wears well.

Hon. W. B. Allison, Dubuque, Ia.

Senator from Iowa. It gives me great pleasure to say that Dr. Frank G. Smith, pastor of Warren Ave. Congregational Church, Chicago, is one of the ablest and most persuasive pulpit orators I have heard in many years, and he is also able and eloquent on the lecture platform. Understanding that he is to enter that field I take pleasure in commending him to anyone having an interest in public lectures. I make this statement without reservation and without qualification.
