The copy presented to Mr. Parker is the first that was issued from the press and is indeed a unique souvenir.

Mr. Fred Barber brought this office some samples of his corn and tame sunflowers Tuesday. The corn is not more than eight feet high but it has two well developed ear on each stock and Fred informs us that he has a whole field just like it. The sunflowers are fully ten feet high and the heads are as large as a large stewkettle. This shows what Webster county can do with an unfavorable season.

Many of our people visited the state fair last week. They were considerably disappointed because they did not see the flying machines in operation but they all declare that the fair itself was the best ever given. Animals, exhibits, grain and everything was of a high order. It takes a good state to make a better showing in fact we very much doubt the ability of any state making as good a showing as Nebraska when she is at her best.

The Music Study Club met last Thursday evening at the home of Mrs. Stewart Albright. A delightful program was given, after which, the club adjourned to meet with Mrs. Dr. Cunningham, Thursday evening, Sept. 22. At that time the following numbers will be given:

- Vocal Solo.....Miss Etta Coon
- Paper.....Mrs. S. J. Cunningham

Monday we visited the thriving city of Inavale and were much pleased at the appearance of that city. Business there seems to be good. Mr. Irons took us in to his and showed us his new addition to his lumber yard. This is 32x76x14 ft. The bottom of this shed is made by using cement walls every three feet and large enough to carry any load. He has also added a complete line of paint to his business and will carry a large supply of that material. Mr. Irons is much pleased with the patronage he is receiving and thinks that next to Red Cloud more business is transacted in Inavale than in any other Nebraska town, of its size.
