Support Home Industries

Whenever a plan is suggested for the development of the town the first suggestion, invariably, is "Bring in more industries." It is customary to throw out all sorts of inducements for the location of factories, including exemption from taxes for a time, free sites and bonuses, and these methods have contributed so much toward building up hundreds of prosperous municipalities that their wisdom can not be questioned. Anything that will add to our desirable population, that will give employment to men who support families and thus contribute to the general welfare, is at all times desirable.

But the people who join heartily in the work of bringing in new industries, and who show the greatest enthusiasm over this feature of the public work in which all good citizens share, sometimes are the first to forget that the new industries brought in and the old ones already here require continuous support and, failing to get it, become a hindrance rather than an aid to development.

We are apt to overlook, too, the fact that the home merchant is entitled to as much consideration as the factory which we have obtained by special effort. The merchant is a necessity—even more so than the factory; for who cares to live in a community where there are no stores, or where the stores are closed and barred and the merchants have moved away, forced to other fields by lack of patronage?

The retail store, properly conducted, is an industry that should have the support of every loyal citizen. Our pride in the home town is measured by our willingness to support its merchants and its industries.

It is not necessary to build a Chinese wall around our community—to refuse to buy outside when we can do so to advantage. But the man who will send away for something that he can buy at home on as good or better terms needs education and lacks loyalty. Sometimes, unfortunately, the very one who should be least liable to this criticism, the local merchant, is given to sending abroad for things which he ought to buy from his neighbors. Then, again, there is the farmer who finds it easier to mail his order to a big city than to come to town. Often he is handicapped by bad roads and thus has a valid excuse. But he ought to be able to buy by mail from our own merchants as safely and as advantageously as from someone at a distance with whom he has no acquaintances. If he is not furnished the facilities it is time for the improvement of our merchandising methods. We ought to have good roads that would make a trip to town a pleasure. Much remains to be done to strengthen our local business interests. We ought to give real support to any move that will tend to keep our money at home.

Circus Day A Hot One

104 Degrees in the Shade Makes the Campbell Bros. Show People Sweat For Their Money.

Monday was Circus Day for Tekamah and the streets were thronged with people from morn till night. The trains brought them in by scores, and the farmers with the entire family took a day off and enjoyed the big show. The spectacular street parade was pulled off at 10:30. It was a wonder and included everything from callopes to roaring lions. The day was a hot one and the ice cream and lemonade men did a land office business as did the men with the pink balloons. The circus had a packed tent in the afternoon and almost as good at night. It was the best that ever showed under canvas here in Tekamah. It was clean and entertaining from the start to the close. The trained elephants, horses and dogs were as good as one will ever see. The aerial and acrobatic feats by the four Maxwell brothers were certainly splendid, as were also the Morales family as Mexican bar artists. The score of other feats and fancy riding acts were also fine. The managers are gentlemen with whom it is a pleasure to do business.—Burt County Herald.

Experiment Station Bulletin No. 122

The Nebraska Experiment Station has just issued Bulletin No. 122, entitled "Cost of Growing Crops in Nebraska." An average of reports for two years shows that it cost the farmers reporting 25.6 cents per bushel to produce corn, 32 1/2 cents to produce oats, 54.9 cents to produce wheat, $5.37 per ton to produce wild hay, $1.18 per ton to produce clover, and $3.10 per ton to produce alfalfa.

The figures used were secured by correspondence with the best farmers in various communities. The yields are considerably higher than the average yields of the state. The cost of production does not include marketing, and includes time for man and team at the average rate of $3.35 per day, only while in the field. It was found that the two greatest factors influencing the cost per bushel or per ton were the price of land and the yield per acre. The yield per acre can be increased by enriching the land, using better methods of cultivation and better seed.

At the average market price, the most profitable crops were alfalfa, winter wheat, and corn. Crops which are profitable in one section of the state may not be profitable in another. It was found that the growing of clover and alfalfa in rotation and the use of barnyard manure greatly reduced the cost of growing corn per bushel. Residents of Nebraska whose names are not on the station mailing list may obtain this bulletin free of cost by applying to

Campbell Brothers, circus drew a large crowd of people to Pender Saturday and those of them that didn't get frightened by the threatening storm witnessed a good show. It was a three ring affair and was up-to-date in all its appointments. The menagerie was large and well selected. The different acts were of a high order. Among those entitled to special mention were the big elephant acts. The seven big beasts were wonderfully trained. The four Maxwell brothers did some stunts in aerial and acrobatic feats, and the Mexican Morales—man—wife—and little son—did some very clever acts on the bars. The performance was good and clean in every particular and is creditable to the Campbells.—Pender Times.

State Fair Innovation.

A new departure at the 1911 state fair, September 4 to 8, will be the coin turnstiles at the general admission gates. Instead of the customary stop and purchase of a ticket at an outside ticket office, the visitor to the fair will walk to the turnstile and lay down his fifty-cent piece which drops into a slot, releasing the lock and permitting the person to pass through. Therefore, when you go to the state fair this year be sure to have a fifty-cent piece, as nothing else will unlock the turnstile.

Political Announcements.
