Miss Edith McKeighan has had the experience, the training and the education which are necessary for a clerk of the district court. She was reared in this county and the people generally know her worth. As an officer of the county she would be painstaking, agreeable and competent. Be sure and vote for Edith McKeighan.

As the election draws nearer it is very evident that James McBride, the popular candidate for Sheriff, is gaining strength all over the county. Mr. McBride is well liked where ever he goes and commands the respect and good of all. He is well qualified for the office and would make an excellent official. The duties of that office may be entrusted to him. Give him your vote.

The Review would be highly pleased to see Hon. P. W. Shea of Orleans become a candidate for a delegate from this district to the democratic national convention. He is a thorough-bred democrat and has never wavered in his loyalty to Bryan. Let Mr. Shea give us his word that he will enter the race and we'll promise him the election. — Riverton Review.

Miss Gertrude L. Coon democratic candidate for the office of county superintendent is well equipped for that position. She has the necessary schooling and knows the needs of our schools. She returned Monday from Billings, Montana, where she has been teaching successfully, to take an active part in the campaign. Miss Coon makes one feel at once that she would make a first-class superintendent. She inspires all with confidence and is especially well prepared for the office.

The office of county commissioner is one of the most important offices in the county since all the money that is levied by taxation and expended by the county is directly under control of the commissioners. It is important therefore that the men we select to perform this work should be the very best that can be found in the county. Mr. George Coon and Mr. Fred Bright are both of good judgement and would make good officials in that capacity. They are careful and prudent and know the value of a dollar. When you enter the booth remember Coon and Bright.

The people of this county are becoming more and more discriminating in their demand that those seeking office should be honest and qualified. It is not now enough to say a candidate wants the office or that he needs it. When the office deals with large sums of money the demand for honesty and efficiency becomes stronger. The Democratic nominee for county treasurer O. A. Arnold, meets all the conditions. He is well qualified, is efficient and is in a position to render this county splendid service. In his home community he is much respected and fully trusted by all his acquaintances. If elected he will move to this city and take charge of the office personally. No mistake will be made by casting your vote for O. A. Arnold for county treasurer.

James McIntosh, Road Overseer, for this district, has made the most remarkable improvement in the roads of the district of any man in recent years. He has worked diligently and faithfully and the tax payers can readily see the value for their money. "Jim" works the roads with the same diligence that he worked his ranch.

and he certainly moves the dirt. He is improving his methods for smoothing and leveling the surface of the road while green and fresh without too much loss of time and promises soon to be one of the most valuable men to road building in Webster county. Moving the dirt is the most important item in road building and smoothing the surface and "boulevarding" is one of the secrets in the trade that will develop with practice and experience. A vote for Jim McIntosh for road boss is to endorse faithful and efficient service.

W. R. Bailey Democratic and People's Independent candidate for county clerk is a young man of such sterling worth, character and ability that it would seem that there should be no hesitation upon the part of the voters to elect him to that office for the next two years. Born and educated in this county this is the first time that he has been a candidate for any office.

He is sociable, pleasant and accommodating and is well known. He is an expert, accurate and rapid accountant and bookkeeper. His qualifications to discharge the duties of the office are of a high order. His education and natural inclinations all incline him toward the accurate and careful work required in the county clerk's office. He has served as deputy county clerk for two years and is fully acquainted with all of the details and intricacies of the office.

His ambition will be to do his work well. Knowing him as we do we are sure that all customers transacting business with him will find him pleasant and accommodating be that customer a democrat, republican, populist or socialist.

If he is elected he will feel truly grateful for the great favor and honor.

Special Session of the Board of Education

RED CLOUD, GEBL., Oct. 29, 1911. Complaints having been filed with the Board of Education that children were unjustly excluded from school because they were under five years of age, the Board met in special session to take action relative to these complaints.

Upon investigation it was decided that the Board has no legal right to receive children in school under five years of age and any money appropriated for supplies, teachers, equipment, etc., for the education of children under the age limit is spent illegally. The superintendent was instructed to notify parents to this effect and exclude all children now in school contrary to the provision of the law.

Day—Albright

At the home of the bride's mother, Mrs. S. Day on Sunday evening occurred a quiet wedding when Miss Mabel Day was united in marriage with Mr. M. A. Albright. Miss Day is well known as an educator in this county and her abilities were recognized two years ago when the people of the county placed her in the office of county superintendent. She has made a very proficient officer and is loved and respected by a large number of friends and acquaintances. The groom is a prosperous merchant in this city and enjoys a wide circle of acquaintance. The new couple will make their home in this city and the Chief is pleased to extend happy congratulations.
