

A Home that Offers Health and Comfort

is, of course, the primary object of all home builders. It was health particularly that led our fore-fathers to the building of frame houses because of their freedom of dampness, a feature of no little importance if one is to be free from aches, rheumatic pains etc. When you are young and husky, however, you are apt to overlook this possibility, but you can profit by the advice of some of our good neighbors who can talk from experience. Ask them what they think of a frame house. Comfort will follow health and there's no comfort like a cozy home you know is your own. If you're thinking of building there's a lot of things we can tell you from experience with frame houses that you'll be glad to know. Let's talk it over.

Miss Gertrude L. Coon

THE DEMOCRATIC AND PEOPLES INDEPENDENT CANDIDATE FOR SUPERINTENDENT OF PUBLIC INSTRUCTION OF WEBSTER COUNTY.

Miss Coon is one of the best prepared candidates who has ever sought election to this office in the county. Born and reared here, having been a teacher in the county for five years, three in the rural schools and two in the Red Cloud schools, she is thoroughly acquainted with the character and the needs of the schools, and the best manner to successfully articulate the one with the other. As Supervisor of the eighth grade work and Principal of the Oxford High Schools for two years, also teacher of English in the High School of Plattsmouth for two years, she has become conversant with all High School work. In addition to her work as a successful teacher Miss Coon is a graduate of the State Normal School at Peru, and also of the Nebraska State University. She holds a Life Professional Certificate and is qualified in every way to fulfill the duties of the office. Last spring Miss Coon was elected to the department of Home Economics in the city schools of Billings, Montana, and at the present time is filling this important department in that city. If elected she will resign and take up the work of our schools at once.

Card of Thanks.
To the dear friends and neighbors who so kindly assisted us in life's greatest trial, and those who so deftly wove together the beautiful flowers we tender our sincere thanks.
Mrs. R. M. Cochrane and family.

Overland

30 Horse-power Five-Passenger Fore-Door Touring Car

This car is now ready for demonstration. Come and see it. To fully understand the exceptional value of this car you have but to compare it with what the entire market has to offer for 1912. Study the specifications below carefully. In what other car will you find such value at such a price? What machine under $1250 can you line up against this and item for item see so much for so little money? When you stop to consider the fine thorough construction—the heavy drop forgings—the pressed steel frame—the selective transmission fitted with F. & S. annular bearings (which the most expensive cars in the world use)—the 30 horse-power motor, the big wheel base, the fore-door body with door handles and all levers inside the car, you can better realize what an actual advanced manufacturing step this new car is.

SPECIFICATIONS OF MODEL 59
