The holding of memorial services in upbuilding of the community it is fit- ed and re-pected by ail. ting that his efforts should be public ally recognized and public appreciation shown.

The book is a historical story written and the meeting closed. in facinating style. The trials and tribulations of the Nebraska Homesteader are well pictured and also much interesting information about the early Indians. The book is an excellent record of the plains written by an intelligent plainsman and is wisely dedicated to the Nebraska State His torical Society.

We held interviews with nearly all our business men this week and they all assure us that their Christmas trade was the largest of all years. Notwithstanding the fears of last August corn and other crops yielded above the average and our farmers have our large cities. This is a good showgive the values that they do trade will be attracted to our town.

This city ought to make a few New Year's resolutions. We ought to learn to respect the views of our neighbors. We ought to act in our municipal afto find out what the most of us want and then carry out the wishes of the ient administration. We ought to insist that business men accept offices. There are a number of other things unit. Let byegones be byegones and everybody work for Red Cloud and Webster County.

Hon, John M. Morchead of Falls City is the first man to file for the Demoeratic ticket. Mr Morchead stated that he had filed early in order that the voters of the state might have ample time in which to investigate his reputation and his record. He has no reason to be ashamed of either, He has been a resident of the state for nearly thirty years and has served his county in various offices and has made a success of farming and stock raising. He is at present a member of the state sen ite is a-sistant Lieutenant Governor owing to the death of Lieutenant Governor Hopewell. Mr Morehead comes before the voters of Nebraska with a good record and with an official experience that pre-eminently fit him for the highest office in the gift of the

With our big financiers and the commercial agencies all predicting good times ahead we may reasonably expect a most prosperous year. The usual bugaboo which the elections bring out has been eliminated this year. No one seems to take our presidental cam paign seriously enough to let it stand in the way of business. Just how badly scared the money power is of any candidate is problematical. They have always pulled thru no matter which party won the election and we presume that they have reason to feel optimistie now. At any rate they are not going to let noise interfere with business. The big steel corporation has the largest number of orders ahead that it ever has had, the cotton crop is a big one and 1912 starts out with a good showing. Here in Webster county prospects are also encouraging on account of excessive moisture and the excellent condition of all farm lands, Winter wheat is in the best condition it has been for a number of years and the year Nineteen-eleven has passed into history.

The meta-one service field in the Concretational church in home of Robert Cochrane was swell attended and was a most successful meeting. PUBLISHED EVERY THURSDAY The music was well selected for the occasion and the addresses were excellent. Mr. J. S. Gilbam spoke with reference to Mr. Cochrane's association with the A. O. U. W and showed. PUBLISHER that this organization appealed to one of Mr. Cochrane's temperament because it emphasised the human side of life: that the deceased took an active part in earlying out the teachings of love and that to have a part in the work of allevinting the distress of mankind was of great consolation to one who realized that his hours were few. Mr. Gilham's diction, trenchana pendent voters at the primaries to be held thought and manner of delivery was exceedingly pleasing and enjoyable.

Happy New Year, To Our City

'A Happy New Year" dear old town Rejoice in all thy ways For happy years have come and gone With brief and fleeting days.

Years we've watched thy growth In numbers and in wealth; in lovely homes, and lovlier trees: In cleanliness and health.

In pretty streets and shady parks Where birds their carols sing, And sunbeams play the livelong day And joys supernal bring.

The crystal water that we drink, Springs from the heart of Earth; As ceaseless as a woman's love, Wherever it has birth.

Our men are those of enterprise, Of gumption, grit and grace, Who believe in good improvements Should have no second place.

as his judgment dictates.

Mr Morehead considers the proper expenditures of public money one of the most important questions before the people. He is also a good road enthusiast and desires to see liberal appropriations when there is an organization to see that the money is judiciously spent for the purpose which it is intended. He gives his reason for filing early that any voter taking his candidacy seriously can investigate his past life as he believes that one of the principal planks in the candidate's platform is his past record If a progressive and good citizen in the past, we need have little fears for the future. Should be be nominated and elected, he promises to devote his entire time to this State and it will be up to the voters to judge if his services will be of value to the state, and he knows of no other way to determine than by his past life

Mr. Morehead will prove a strong candidate should the democrats of the state nominate him to the governor-
