 Born to Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Carpenter Sunday afternoon a daughter. A glance at Clarence's face as he came down town much earlier than usual, told the story. It not only reflected in his face, but the rapidity with which he walked convinced all that he had one more to provide for. Mother and daughter doing nicely and the sunshine brought into the home by this little new arrival, will more than compensate the father for a little extra "hustle."
 Was there every such a time for daily newspaper readers? Everybody wants a daily paper now, and they want one that will give them the "straight" of everything going on. The State Journal is that sort of a paper, and to induce you to become a reader now makes the very low price of only $1.50 from now until January 1, 1913, for both the Daily and Sunday paper. Send your order and money now and the paper will start at once. It will stop on January 1st. Write to The State Journal, Lincoln, Neb.
