The very best investment any cow owner can make

That's what more than a million and a half of cow owners the world over have found the World's Standard De Laval Cream Separator to be.

A De Laval Separator costs from $35 to $160—according to capacity. It saves butter-fat and produces cream of a quality decidedly superior to any setting system or any other separator every time it is used—twice a day—730 times a year.

DE LAVAL Cream Separators

involve far less labor than any setting system, and run easier, have greater capacity and last from two to ten times longer than other separators.

That's how a De Laval Separator saves at least its cost the first year, and frequently in a few months, and then goes right along saving money for you year after year.

We have an arrangement whereby you can make a partial payment at time of purchase, and pay the balance on such liberal terms that your machine will more than save its own cost while you are paying for it.

A Good Example For High Schools

Test Seed Corn for Farmers

The Tecumseh Chieftain prints the following item:

"Will Test Seed Corn

The class in agriculture of the Tecumseh high school will test seed corn for the farmers in 100-ear lots. Leave corn at school building."

This high school sets an example which should be contagious; these students are not only getting practical agriculture but they are helping to carry it to the farm in a forcible way. If every high school in Nebraska would undertake this work for the next six weeks the corn crop of Nebraska would show a marked increase next fall.

Planting the Orchards

Apples, pears and peaches all do pretty well upon the same soil. Fruit growers in this section generally set out their orchards according to the following plan: Apple trees are planted 30 feet apart, peaches between or 18 feet from each apple tree except at the diagonals, where a pear tree is set.

The short lived peach trees bear their five or six crops and are removed when the pear trees begin to produce fruit. When the apple trees arrive at maturity, the pear trees have about outlived their usefulness.

Some good farmers still further economize space by planting rows of blackberries or raspberries between the trees and then set strawberries between the rows of aunes. One of the boasts of a successful fruit grower is that he utilizes all the space at his command at all times.—[D. T. Hendrickson, in Farm and Home.

Get Out of the Light!

Copyright 1917, R. J. Palmer

You can't have the picture perfect on the screen if someone stands in the path. Get rid of the cause of the trouble, make the intruder sit down, then, when the obstruction is out of the way, the light travels uninterrupted from the machine to the curtain. Everybody knows that.

Chiropractic follows the same lines of good, everyday common sense. Everybody knows the seat of life is in the mind which is in the brain. Life-giving mental force travels from the mind through the spinal cord and nerves to all parts of the body. If every organ in the body receives its full share of this life-force it maintains its vigor and health, but if any of the nerves are impinged or squeezed and their carrying capacity is cut down, the organs to which they lead do not get enough life-force to keep them running.

For instance, here's a man whose stomach cannot stand even the simplest foods. It won't digest them. He is sick. If you were to trace back the nerves that lead to his stomach you would find that at the point where they enter the spine to connect with the spinal cord the vertebrae are not properly placed and the nerve is pinched. The life force cannot get thru. Adjust the vertebrae to their normal position and you'll find that man's stomach will speedily regain its vigor.

Briefly this is the work the Chiropractor is trained to do: He must trace the ill effect back to its cause, adjust the cause and let nature do the work she can and will quickly do. He is well trained. His knowledge is the result of more than 17 years of scientific research and experiment. He works with his hands only, not as an osteopath or masseur, but upon the displaced vertebrae which he gently but accurately forces back into their normal positions.

Why not take your troubles to him and let him trace them back to the cause and adjust it? He will gladly answer your questions and what he will tell you may save you many years of suffering and expense. There is a competent Chiropractor in your city. Get his advice—it's free—but valuable for all that!
