

GOOD YEAR

See the Good Year Casings and Tubes before you buy. We handle all sizes and carry a large stock. You want to remember that the Good Year people made a reduction on the 1st of April of 10 per cent on all of their castings and tubes. It is not very often that a Good Year casing or tube goes wrong, but when you do you will find their adjustment very satisfactory. We also carry a good stock of Presto Tanks for exchange and can show you the famous Presto Inflator, which can inflate your tires for you with less work and very little expense.

Get Polesine oil to lubricate your cylinders and Panhard oil for your transmission and your car will run smoothly and with less wear. The best oil is none too good for a car.

We invite you to come and see us, when in the village.

Glacier National Park
Newly Revealed Wonderland

This region of majestic, glacier-capped mountains—the climax of the rugged grandeur of the Rockies—is reached by the Great Northern Railway from Glacier Park Station, at which point the Railway Company has constructed a hundred thousand dollar hotel. An automobile road has been built from this station to the interior of the Park. A detour of from one to four days can be made at the very moderate cost of from $10 to $25, including, hotels, automobiles, launches and coaches, covering distances of from forty to one hundred and fifty miles.

As all hotel and transportation arrangements in the Park are under the supervision of the Great Northern Railway Company, the comfort and enjoyment of tourists is assured. In making a tour of the Pacific Coast, a detour into Glacier Park will prove to be one of its most interesting features.

HANK WAS CONVERTED

BY EMMETT C. HALL.

"There was a little bit of a gal comes to the Rainwater country once," the Old Man drawled, his pipe hanging loosely between his teeth. "This little gal was, the daughter of a eastern sky pilot that had come out for his health, and was kinder puttin' in his time pintin' us poor Rainwater folks at the great shinin' target, as he put it. She came out to see him durin' her college vacation, an' right away gospil stock jumped clean over the top of the blackboard. This little girl had a way of takin' hold of your hand an' lookin' wistfully out of her big blue eyes, an' sayin': 'Surely I'll see you at services Sunday?' that just plumb convinced you that church was the very thing you had been a-pinin' for ever since Christmas.

"There was two of the boys, Ned Carter, from the Two Stars, an' Hank Peters, from the Double Cross, that was just plumb locoed over this here gal.

"Well, these two was runnin' 'bout neck an' neck, an' Ned was gettin' wild, didn't seem to have no control of hisself, no how. Bet he bought 15 silk scarfs, an' held up a greaser with his gun an' made him sell him his big silver spurs. He had plumb gone to the end of his rope when he thought he saw a chance to make a hit, an' he jumped in with both feet. "Virginia's dad was holdin' a revival, an' Ned figgers to himself that if he was to get converted it would boost up his stock a whole lot, so he salls in. Which same would have been all right if it had been anybody but Ned, but he never could do anything moderate. All that shoutin' an' singin' kinder goes to his head, an' he's got two different brands of loco in his system at the same time.

"This here move of Ned's sure stumps Hank for awhile, but he braces up, an' 'lows he'll amble 'round some evenin' an' see what kind of a cold deck proposition this here is, anyhow. Which same he does.

"When he gets to the door it's early, so he kinder hanks round to see what brand of mavericks is frequentin' this range, anyhow. He's a scoutin' onto Ned Carter's arm, an' a-lookin' up from time to time into his face. They goes on into the Doroology works, an' then Hank alides in an' takes a back seat unpretentious like. Hank never was no hand to jump into a game without first walkin' around the room.

"Well, presently they commenced to get up steam, an' they shorely jerked her wide open! Of all the excitement I ever did see, outside of a Indian pain-killer dance, that meetin' had it beat a mile. Every once in awhile some maverick would, let out a yell an' go a-plungin' up to the mourners' bench an' that would start 'em all over again. Presently some of the most earnest ones comes a-plovin' back to drag up others that ain't yet seen the light. 'Mong these here was Ned. He seed Hank a-settin' there with a kinder disdainful air, an' he makes a bee-line for him. "Come on an' git washed of your sins, yo' poor benighted heathen!" he yells at Hank.

"Fer what?" Hank says, a whole lot disdainful.

"To save you from hell, for which same you're on the express with no return ticket," Ned says, a whole lot earnest.

"Hell? Huh? Hain't none!" says Hank, contemptuously. "Ain't?" says Ned, peelin' his coat. "Looks like you're one of them that nas to be showed," he continued, an' then they tangled.

"Is thar any hell now?" I frequently heard Ned say, an' Hank let out a yell.

"Thar shore is!" he pants, an' soon as Ned rolls off him he makes a charge for that mourners' bench like he was in front of a stampede.

"You certainly believe in the church military, Mr. Carter," Virginia says, wipin' the tears out of her eyes. "That was the best scrimmage I ever saw. I wish Jack could have seen it—he's the lightweight champion of the east, you know. We are going to be married next month, on the quiet, and if you ever come east, you want to look us up."

"Which the funny part of it was," the Old Man concluded, "Ned goes off prompt on a rampage and shoots up Redblanket and the sheriff, an' Hank stuck to the gospel outfit like wool to a cactus, an' now is a kind of deputy sky pilot hisself."

Tourists and Fake Curio.
Doctor Wakeling, the Egyptologist, says it is useless to warn the tourist against the fake curio. He buys and is sold with unfailing regularity and hardly any imitation is too gross to deceive him.

Doctor Wakeling tells the story of a woman who bought a scarab from a boy who assured her that he had himself stolen it from the excavation in the Temple of Akmaton. She displayed her treasure triumphantly and always with the words, "And I am sure it must be true, for he had such an honest little face."

Making Amends.
"Well, I can't sell my novel; the one in which the hero starved to death." "And what are you doing now?" "Revising it for my own satisfaction, and giving him a banquet in every chapter."
