

SENATE FILE NO. 40. The corporation appears to be justly entitled to the defeat of the senate bill providing for the local taxation of railroad property.

THE CLEVELAND LEADER suggests that the Cleveland Crisis has had its financial panic in the advent of Black Friday.

THE RESULT of the late legislative session is a battle between the people and the monopolies.

THE SUNDAY CIVIL APPROPRIATION bill must be passed during the present week by congress or an extra session will be inevitable.

THE PROHIBITION MANIA is rampant in Kansas. A rural representative proposes to prohibit the cultivation, manufacture, sale and use of tobacco.

THE EXETER MEDICAL SOCIETY announces that a graduate of the Omaha Medical school has hung out his shingle in Exeter.

GENERAL GARFIELD'S journey to Washington will be memorable for a series of the most remarkable orations from the people and the happiest and finest speeches from the president.

MR. McSHANE has made a record at Lincoln of which he may well be proud. Omaha tax-payers should remember his able plan for a law taxing the property of railroad corporations on the same basis as that on which the property of individuals is taxed.

SENATOR CONKING'S days of antagonism to a republican administration are nearly ended. Senator Conking is too able and powerful a politician to fight outside of the strict party lines.

NEW JERSEY, after a trial of about twenty years is about to repeal her law exempting railroad property from local taxation.

MR. JACKSON, of Douglas county, explained his vote, depriving Omaha of her legitimate taxes from the railroad corporations, on the ground that he wanted to do justice to his rural friends.

THE CONSTITUTIONS of Mr. Brown, of Boone county, fully realize the duty that is laid upon this monopoly tool in the late legislature.

THE TERRIBLE disaster to Gen. Colley's command in the Transvaal adds another to the long list of British disasters.

AMERICAN ENTERPRISE refuses to confine its energies to the United States. It has already reached out to England and the continent.

THE CATHOLIC clergy of England, refuse to follow the lead of Archbishop McCabe, the radical supporter of English tyranny in Ireland.

THE MODERN BALLETT Girl. From the program. The ballet girl of this age and country cannot play the prince of the boards.

THE BALLETT Girl of this age and country cannot play the prince of the boards. The young man, if he has the desire, lacks the money; men who have money have also a vast stock of pretence.

EARLY DAYS IN NEBRASKA.

BY E. A. DAVIS.

In 1856 there came to Fontanelle a man and his wife and put up at the Fontanelle House. This man was large, dignified in appearance, quiet in manner, and would have been taken by most people for a preacher.

The people thought it queer that Mrs. Legg did not mix with the women of the colony, who were all on a social equality.

It was noticed, after a time, that there were four or five men besides Legg living at his shanty. They were villainous-looking fellows, and Legg explained that they were his hired hands.
