IS IT ABORTION?

Mysterious Death of a Young Married Woman.

Coroner Jacobs Finds no Cause for Investigation. Cornelius Hogan, a laborer in the smelting works, called on District Attorney Burman on Monday and complained that his step-daughter, Lizzie Bailey, who had been married on Sunday, was a victim of abortion, and he thought the body had better be examined for the purpose of an inquest. He made a lot of random charges, and being assured by the District Attorney the matter would be attended to, he changed his time, and requested that the matter be dropped. Mr. Burman sharply informed him that his charges would be investigated, and that such trifling with his office would not be tolerated. He therefore at once instructed Coroner Jacobs to inquire into the matter and that of the report of the case, and from information received from the physicians who attended the woman, there was no ground for an inquest. The case is none the less surrounded by peculiar circumstances. The young woman was formerly Lizzie Love, and shortly after her mother's marrying Con. Hogan, she was wedded to John Bailey. This union was unhappy, and a separation took place. Bailey left the city a year or two ago. Latterly, Hogan charges, she was intimate with one Al. Stewart, who is employed in the shops. Stewart was thought to have attended her during her illness. However, a Dr. Watson, was called when she became very ill, and he says he found her suffering from miscarriage. Later Dr. Coffman, her physician, and Dr. Coffman found her suffering from miscarriage, which would be the very thing to follow abortion. Now comes a piece of peculiar information from the druggist on the corner of Dodge and Twelfth streets, Mr. W. Gladish. He says that a man, whom he describes as tall, with black hair and moustache, asked for some oil of cottonwood about four weeks ago, and being told there was no such oil, he compromised on an oil of cedar. This is frequently used for the purpose of procuring abortions, and the young woman having lived at this time not far from the drug store, and the description of the man corresponding somewhat with Stewart, the inference that the drug was procured for the purpose of abortion, and that the girl committed the act herself. Inquiry among some of the most prominent physicians failed to establish the identity of Dr. Watson as among the regular practitioners of the city. It is more than likely the gentleman had been recently arrived, and is as yet not well known. Unless unforeseen developments should turn up, there will be no official inquiry into the matter. Mr. Finerty compares the landlessness of Ireland to the taxation without representation, which so aroused the Americans of '76. He closes his eloquently written letter with this prediction: "As surely as the light illumined by the Massachusetts farmers at Concord swells into victory and independence on Virginia's heroic soil, so surely shall the light begun by the feeble peasantry of Connaught, two years ago, terminate in the destruction of that odious form of tyranny, the abolition of which will signify the new birth, prosperity and glory of the long-suffering, but still undaunted, Irish nation."

A GOOD STEWARDSHIP.

Progress of the Union Catholic Library Association.

The regular quarterly meeting of the Union Catholic Library association was held at the rooms of the library Tuesday. It was the last quarterly meeting of the first year of the library, and the reports of the various officers which were read, especially that of the board of managers, comprised in a great degree the workings in the several departments of the association during the year just closed. The report of the board of managers was made through the vice-president, Mr. W. A. L. Gibbon. From that document, as also the other reports, which were submitted, the following summary is made. The association membership amounted to 150 ladies and gentlemen. It gave two festivals, a series of lectures and socials, and one grand dramatic entertainment. To many of these entertainments no admission fee was charged, yet from those to which admission price was charged, the amount received was $923.90. The expenditures during the year amounted to $897.25, leaving a balance in the treasury of $26.65. In addition to the showing of the value of the property of the association, which, at a reasonable estimate, considering the books, case, pianos, files and the other articles in use in the rooms, amounted to $167.95. This really showed the assets of the library, while the liabilities of the same were only $50, which it was thought could be easily paid out of the balance above referred to, nearly $226.65. Such were the principle features of the report, and gratifying ones they are too. They speak in loud tones of a successful organization, which will continue to increase and be prosperous the years to come. The library it seems has been successful in everything it has undertaken. Next Tuesday night, the 31st inst., the officers for the new year will be installed. On the occasion there will be a grand free entertainment, to which every body will be invited. It will comprise, among other features, singing by the McCarty brothers, and Jennie McClelland, an instrumental solo by Prof. Hoffman, and a little comedy entitled "Ladies Dress Reform Contention." The association is fast approaching a period when it will be of incalculable value to our Roman Catholic city. The progress of this young institution is very rapid and solid, and what is most encouraging, the future promises continued prosperity. "THE MUMM" at HICKMAN'S the latest NEW YORK SENSATION. MORE PRISONERS.

Five More Tar and Featherers Arraigned, and More to Follow.

Comptroller Manning brought to the city yesterday the five other men for whom warrants were issued for tarring and feathering Willis G. Stanton, at Jefferson Precinct. They were arraigned before Judge Anderson, when two, S. R. and John S. Davis, were discharged, and the other three, Albert Leech, Abe and Elias Wallon, were held in $200 each to appear with the others for examination on June 3rd. Warrants were issued for another batch. Stanton has not dared to return to Jefferson since the rump, but makes his residence here at Mrs. Vandercook's west Omaha. The farmers out here are jubilant over his determination to remain away, and they say that is all they wanted in the first place. Henry W. Yates and wife to W. A. Paxton, all of block 5 in subdivision of lot 5 in capital addition; $15,000. On Monday Dr. C. R. Richmond and wife left the city for their new home in Omaha, Nebraska, a move which the doctor was compelled to make on account of Mrs. R.'s health. Although Dr. Richmond had been here but about two years he had built up a very large and lucrative practice, both in this county and Clear Creek, in fact he left the largest practice of any physician in the county—and he did it by hard and conscientious work. We were sorry to lose the Dr., for he is not only a good physician, but a good citizen, and we bespeak for him in his new home the respect and esteem of the good people of Omaha.—The Post, Central City, Co. DECORATION DAY.

Making the Final Preparations for a Grand Celebration.

The School Children to Join in the Big Procession. Requests Addressed to Citizens for Carriages and Flowers. The Grand Banner. The various committees appointed to forward the celebration of the day met at an executive committee in General Mansford's office last evening. There were committees on flowers, music, transportation, and speakers, and each had a good report to make. The barracks band will be engaged for the day. Council Bluffs tried to get the band, but our boys got ahead of the G. A. R. over there. There will be a colored band take part and perhaps St. Philomena's cathedral band, or any which will volunteer. General Mansford introduced the artist, Mr. Herbert G. Conner, and offered the following resolution, prefacing it by some well chosen words of commendation for him and for those who have contributed towards procuring the handsome banner for the procession. RESOLVED, That the thanks of the executive committee be given to Mr. Herbert G. Conner, artist, and the gentlemen who have contributed to the making of the banner, and that an amount appropriate be raised for use in the procession; that these gentlemen be requested to report with the banner on the morning of Decoration Day to the chief marshal, who is instructed to place said banner in a conspicuous place in the procession; that the post commander of Phil Kearney post be requested to furnish a escort of eight veteran soldiers to act as an escort to the banner, said escort to report to the chief marshal at the formation of the parade. The resolution was adopted. The banner will not represent a Union soldier, but a Confederate's grave as stated yesterday, but in the act of decorating the grave of a comrade, this being entirely more in the spirit of the occasion, and certainly more in unison with the feeling that must prevail among the soldiers who will form the procession. Superintendent Lane, of the public schools, was then introduced. He stated that the teachers and scholars of the schools were desirous of joining in the celebration, and the way was entertained. The matter of disciplining the children for their duties was left to Superintendent Lane and the teachers, and this will be a most interesting feature of the day. The question of carriages and wagons for transportation, then came up. Carriages and wagons were arranged for liberally, but many more will be required, and citizens who can send carriages on that day were invited to do so. Who will do so, may send them to Clark's hall on the morning of Decoration Day. All ministers of the gospel were invited to participate in the celebration, and Rev. J. B. Maxfield was invited to act as chaplain of the day. That the Omaha club will give their services, and will turn out twenty-five strong. It was resolved to procure some lady of the city to read extracts from Abraham Lincoln's speech at the inauguration of Gettysburg cemetery. In the matter of flowers, the committee were, of course, very much interested. Several members of the G. A. R. will scour the country on Sunday for flowers, and citizens were requested to send flowers to E. Weyman's store, near the postoffice. It is to be hoped all citizens will do what they can in this respect. All kinds of flowers and green wreaths and emblems will be most acceptable. The wives of members of the posts will meet at the store at 9 o'clock on the morning of Decoration Day to take charge of the flowers. What with the fire department, the municipal authorities, the school children, the G. A. R., and the G. A. R. taking part in the procession, it will be a grand affair. All city organizations were invited to participate, and a number of private citizens will attend in carriages. All ex-soldiers and ex-officers were invited to march with George A. Custer post, and to report to Commander Fitch at 9:30 o'clock on the morning of the day. The oration will be delivered by Col. J. L. Webster, and Col. Wilber. The officers of the day will be as follows: Grand marshal, General C. E. Mansford; assistant marshals, J. S. France, Sam B. Young, C. H. Proctor, and Capt. George A. Custer. The formation of the procession, and the route have not been decided on yet. The meeting adjourned subject to the call of Chairman Brewster. SHE TOOK THE SHOES. But Neglected the Formality of Paying for Them. How She was Finally Forced to Settle the Bill. A few days ago a dark complexioned little girl, doubtless dressed and partially about 10 years of age, entered the store of L. B. Williams & Son, at the corner of Fifteenth and Dodge streets, and asked the attendant, H. G. Harte, to show her a pair of shoes. She finally selected a pair that seemed to suit her and then picked out a couple of other pairs for her little sisters. The three pairs were wrapped up and the little girl sat down to wait her big sister, who she said, would settle the bill which amounted to $4.25. She waited around for a considerable time but her sister failed to put in an appearance. Finally she moved into the middle of the store and placed the shoes on the top of a basket which she carried. Just at this time Mr. Williams, the proprietor, entered the store and asked the same clerk to make a change in a couple of pairs of shoes that she had handed him the shoes he at once recognized them as those that had disappeared a few days before and taking a closer look at the little girl identified his whilom friend,
