They intend closing their store during July to overhaul and enlarge their store. Mr. Wm. Gentleman, the popular grocer, corner 16th and Cass streets, has just finished an addition to his store, making it just double its former size. Mr. Gentleman has built up an immense grocery trade, and is evidently preparing to still further increase it. The secret of Mr. Gentleman's success is, that his patrons always find everything just as he represents it and their goods are sure to be delivered promptly at the time agreed. AN UNPRECEDENTED TEST.

Something Never Before Done in a Nebraska Newspaper Office.

A Short But Interesting Chat on the Bee's Big Edition.

In the twenty-four hours ending on Saturday evening a feat heretofore unattempted in the state of Nebraska was accomplished in THE BEE office. In fact it might be said that two unprecedented feats were accomplished. In the first place THE BEE run out a twelve-page, eighty-four-column paper, cut, pasted and folded and handsomely printed, and in the second place in the twenty-four hours from Friday to Saturday three distinct and complete papers were issued. In every respect the three papers were up to the metropolitan standard, and complete and finished in every department. The entire work incident to the getting out of these papers was done exclusively by employees of the office, and THE BEE takes it as an encouraging sign of the times that its business warranted any such undertaking. In the Friday evening's edition of the paper THE BEE furnished its readers with eighteen columns of bright, crisp reading matter. In the Saturday morning's edition the unprecedented number of sixty-six columns of reading matter were furnished, while in the evening edition about sixty-three columns were given. These, it is to be understood, are altogether columns of reading matter, and do not include the columns devoted to advertisement. The special statistician of THE BEE had the curiosity to figure out the thing with the following result: Each of the columns of THE BEE is twenty-one inches in length, and, of course, sixty-six inches would foot up 1,365 inches, or 113 1/2 feet of pure reading matter. In the language of the printers this would mean about 206,000 ems. An average printer will set about 1,000 ems an hour. These 206,000 ems represent about 450,000 separate pieces of metal that were handled by the printers in the one single edition alone, and for the reading matter exclusively. If the arm of the printers traveled two feet after each separate type—and that would be about the average—the amount of territory covered would be about eighty-five miles. No further figures are needed to show the vastness of the undertaking. The entire mechanical direction was in the hands of the foremen of the office, Thomas J. Fitzmorris and Harry Haakell. The first regular eight-page paper ever issued in Omaha was gotten out by Mr. Fitzmorris, and he has shown decided ability in his business, to get through, with the assistance of the men under him, with such an undertaking in such a short space of time. False Alarm. About a quarter past 8 o'clock last evening false alarm of fire was given to the fire department and a lively run was made to Thirteenth and Jackson streets, after a good deal of hunting around it was discovered that there was no fire in that vicinity and the engines were returned to their quarters. The Fire Department. The members of the fire department are requested to meet at the quarters of Engine Co. No. 3 at 7 o'clock sharp on Wednesday morning in order to catch the 8 o'clock transfer for Council Bluffs, where they will attend the tournament. The U. P. band will accompany them on the occasion. ALL ACQUITTED.

Such Was the Outcome of the Stanton Case.

The tar and feather case attracted another big audience to the court house on Saturday morning. Justice Anderson sat in the court room again to accommodate visitors.

Frederick Schultz, Chas. F. Gotch, John P. Timperly and Hans Sih were put on the stand to strengthen the prosecution, which they failed to do. The cross-examination of these witnesses was very beneficial to the defense.

The case of the prisoners was opened by a declaration from Mr. Connell that the prosecution had made out so wretched a case it was not deemed necessary to do more than to show the utter lack of character of Stanton.

Lucius B. Kibby swore Stanton had stolen a log chain from him, and that when he demanded it back Stanton gave it. The latter had had it altered by a blacksmith.

Rodolph Peters, the postmaster in Jefferson precinct, swore that Stanton bore a bad character, and that he would not believe him under oath.

Mr. and Mrs. McGregor swore likewise, as did Frederick Schultz. Others swore to his having stolen various things, and that the farmers were continually on their guard against him; all gave him a very bad character.

General O'Brien asked for time to produce witnesses to his good character, and an adjournment was had till two o'clock.

The case affords a large audience, unlimited fun, and the fierce contests of the lawyers is not the least amusing part of the circus.

At the afternoon session some more testimony was taken and the case submitted to the jury after addresses by Gen. O'Brien and E. M. Bartlett. The verdict rendered was one of acquittal, the identity of the participants in the tar and feather scrape not having been satisfactorily established.

MORE CARDS.

We received this morning the cards of Messrs. Feeney & Connolly, a couple of enterprising young men who to-day enter the list of Omaha merchants. They have opened a store at 512 Sixteenth street, between Cass and California, which is well filled with a finely selected stock of ladies' agents' boots and shoes. Their stock is all new and fresh, direct from the factories, and all in the latest styles. They anticipate a lively trade and propose making a strong effort to get it. They have bought their goods at the right time and intend to sell them at a moderate profit. They have selected a very good location, as the retail trade is rapidly centering on 16th street which has tributary to it a large part of the best trade in Omaha. Herefore people living in the north part of the city have been compelled to come all the way down town to buy their shoes, but a visit to this store will satisfy everyone that this is no longer necessary.

Mr. Feeney has been in Omaha a number of years and was for a long time employed in The Herald office. He has many friends in the city who will be pleased to learn of his enterprise, and who will no doubt often visit his store. Mr. James Connolly came to Omaha last fall from Monahan, Ireland, where he was for years connected with one of the largest business houses, and has a thorough business training. Since he came to Omaha he has made many friends, whom he invites to call and see him. They invite the public to call and inspect their stock, as they have in stock goods to please everybody. They will make a specialty of Burt & Mearns' shoes and ladies' shoes. We wish them success and hope they will have the trade they deserve.

A Merchant's Capture.

Mr. Fried of the hardware firm of Lee, Fried and Clark, and officer Jacobson returned to the city Saturday night, with J. Plummer, who, it is said, got $1,400 worth of goods under false pretenses from the firm, in charge. Plummer is a Missouri Valley merchant and was on the way to California with his family. Mr. Fried got word of his movement and tried to arrest Plummer here. He however secluded himself, and Mr. Fried was determined to follow him up and in company with officer Jacobson went as far as Kearney. There they searched the U. P. train, but were unable to find their man. Before the train reached Elm Creek, however, the conductor telegraphed back that a suspicious-looking man, answering to Plummer's description, was on board. Mr. Fried telegraphed Sheriff Hugh McLean at that point to arrest the man, and the official did so. Plummer's family have gone on to the coast. He, himself, is now in jail.

WAIT FOR IT!

Wait For the Best, Wait—Coming Soon.

W. C. Coup's Monster United Shows, Circus, Menagerie, Museum, Aviary, Aquarium and Only on Earth Real Paris Hippodrome.

Hear! hear! what the Cincinnati daily papers say of the greatest of all shows. The Daily Enquirer says: "Enormous crowds daily attend. We repeat, it is the largest and greatest show in America, if not in the world."

The Gazette says: "It is the best tent show ever given in this city." The Commercial says: "The biggest and best show under canvas appears to be the general verdict."

The shouts of applause, the expressions of admiration, all express the universal approval of the delighted multitudes who universally re-echo the one expression of the largest, best, only complete, only perfect, only satisfactory, only entertaining, only amusing, only instructive; the only show that shows just what it advertises; that keeps its promises. The varied performances, in addition to the usual routine of exhibitions, the animal captives, works of art, articles of wondrous curiosity, rare, unique and never before seen, have been augmented by the addition of a "hippodromic corps of celebrities, who will in the most vivid and entertaining manner present two and four horse chariot races, hurdle, steeple and jockey races, elephant and camel races—giving an earnest and correct portrayal of the ancient sports of Rome, within and under the largest canvases in the world.

Four separate and distinct rings are continuously run daily for such performance. No other company possess many rings, and don't you forget it, that no other company on earth gives or pretends to give a shipload of performance—no chariot, steeple, hurdle or jockey races, no elephant or camel races, neither inside or outside of the canvas. All admissions that the rings are run on a nice track one-half mile in circumference and forty feet in width. No other company has sufficient canvas to cover a track one-half the circumference. Nine different bands or kinds of music will be used and heard in the grand procession of all nations during its passage through our streets, forming altogether the most gorgeous, interesting and absorbing procession ever witnessed. Don't forget the only hippodrome, the only W. C. Coup's monster shows, will positively not exhibit in Omaha until Thursday, July 14th, for one day only. See future advertisement.
