The association is noted for its pleasant balls. The excursion in aid of the boot-black's association got off in good shape from the B. & M. depot yesterday. The U. P. band accompanied the party, which was quite large, on their trip to Bellevue. Every arrangement had been made for spending a pleasant time. The only place in the city where Jos. Schlitz's Milwaukee beer is found on draught is the Merchants Exchange, cor. 16th and Dodge street.

PERSONALS.

Mrs. Trainor went through to Ogden yesterday. Lyman McCarty, general western passenger agent of the B. & O. is in the city. Miss Fook, one of the city teachers, went east over the Wabash yesterday. John Bernmaker, of Wahoo, passed through the city yesterday on his way to St. Louis. T. H. Leavitt, recently secretary of the land department at Lincoln, has been appointed assistant auditor of the B. & M. road. Killing the Curs. The police have apparently paid little attention to the dogs recently. The consequence has been that the untamed animals increased daily upon the streets. Officers McCune and Gorman turned their attention in this direction Tuesday, and notwithstanding the intense heat of the early morning hours did some very lively work. By 9 o'clock twenty-one curs which had the temerity to walk forth without the regulation badge, were fit subjects for the rendering company. Fun for the Little Folks. One of the jolliest looking parties of young folks that has been seen in Omaha was that which gathered at the Omaha Mission yesterday. It had been decided to treat the boys and girls to a picnic at Hanscom's park yesterday, and the delightful anticipations of the youngsters was something cheering to behold. The party got off at about 10 o'clock, well loaded down with provisions and delicacies. About ten teams had been kindly loaned for the occasion to carry the little people to the park, and as about five of these consisted of four-horse vehicles the procession had somewhat the air of a pageant as it marched up Farnham street. All the young folk seemed delighted with the prospects of a day out and were in a proper mood to enjoy something of the kind. To the Frontier. A passenger coach containing thirty-three soldiers passed through to Cheyenne Tuesday attached to the regular U. P. train. The men were in charge of Lieut. Rockwell, of the 5th cavalry, and had been assigned to duty in the 3d cavalry. All the men come from Jefferson barracks near St. Louis, over the Wabash road.

THE SIDEWALKERS.

They Assemble Again to Discuss the Situation.

A meeting of the sidewalk club, held last evening developed the fact that a great deal of interest is entertained by its members on the final result of the present struggle at Albany. It was unanimously agreed that Platt would never again be able to set foot in the senate as a member, and that Conkling's chances were very slim. Mr. Hobbs, by reason of his superiority in point of age, opened the meeting. "Gentlemen," he observed, "we have seen by THE BEE this evening that the fight at Albany still goes on, and that it is impossible to foresee how the matter will end. The legislature has not materially changed its manner of voting and the relative strength of each candidate remains practically in statu quo. Therefore, my friends, we can easily imagine that the imperial Roscoe must feel uneasy and troubled in his mind for between the necessity of his manufacturing various kinds of taffy with which to feed his stalwart friends in order to brace them up, and the onerous work of fighting bug bugs at night, his life must indeed have become a burden. Should we not, on this account, have a little sympathy for him. "No sir!" said Mr. Hobbs excitedly. "I think not. We should have no pity for any man that has acted as Conkling has. He had a good thing and ought to have kept. Why it makes me mad when I think what an ass he was. Then he was one of the high-flyers of the senate. He put on more style than anybody, wearing a red neck-tie and a round-about jacket such as boys of fourteen and fifteen wear; and then he was the pride of all the ladies. He was the man who had the proud satisfaction of being the game in a big hunting expedition that took place in Rhode Island some time ago, which the papers talked so much about. To talk about pity for such a man seems to me is absurd. "I believe," said Mr. Hobbs, "that all these successes, turned his head, and he got to thinking he was a bigger man than old Grant and could do as he pleased. I think he realizes the fact at present that he isn't a bigger man than old Grant, for the legislature is going back on him right along. The old regulars have raised a cry about money, corruption and that, but it won't work. It's transparent and people laugh at it. Well, Conkling still has the satisfaction of his red neck-tie and round-about, but in my opinion he will have to wear them outside of the senate of the U. S. Red neck-tie statesmen are now of a past age. "What further conversation would have been had had the meeting been uninterrupted is not known, for at this juncture Mr. Hobbs hastily fled around the corner. It appears that he had caught sight of his wife coming down the street, and it is apparent he wished to avoid her. This is the influence of wives felt upon the greatest men. THE FOURTH. The Great Celebration—Omaha's Invitation. $2,000 in Prizes. $2,000 in Prizes. Room for all Nebraska and Iowa. At Omaha there will this year be given the best celebration that money can produce. A SERIES OF RACES. By the fastest horses in the State of NEBRASKA. KANSAS CITY VS. OMAHA. The Kansas City base ballists are matched to play the B. & M. nine. FIFTY INDIAN WARRIORS. Fight from the plains have been engaged to aid the celebration with their wild dances, furious games and savage music. A GRAND BICYCLE RACE will be given, and the contest will be engaged in by a host of experts. A hundred minor sports such as foot racing, greased pig, sack racing, dancing, etc., will keep the fun going. At five o'clock J. H. Pierce will ascend in his GIANT BALLOON, "Ranger," a vast hydrogen gas balloon that will soar to the clouds and make a voyage through space. Everyone is invited. Room for all Nebraska and all of Iowa too. U. P. special excursion train from Columbus, Neb. Excursion rates on all trains. Racing begins on Saturday, July 2nd and ends with a grand time on the glorious 4th. Special trains will be run from city to the grounds every hour, 23c round trip. J. E. Boyd, Pres. J. J. Brown, Treas. B. B. Wood, Sec. Funerals. The boy Dupue who was killed by the kick of a horse on the Bellevue road Sunday, was interred in Prospect Hill cemetery yesterday. A small child of James Arnot, of Fifteenth and Pacific streets, was buried yesterday.

HARD CASES.

Some of Those up Before Judge Beneke Yesterday.

There was a rather listless air about Judge Beneke's subjects as they stepped into the police court yesterday. All of them seemed to be suffering from the heat. When the judge called "Wm. Mayor," a thick-set, under-sized man with a sallow complexion, and dark hair stepped forward. "You are charged with being a tramp, William," said the judge, beaming down upon him. "I plead guilty," said William, briefly. "Ten days," said the court. Jane Lyons stepped before the court showing a complexion of a raw beef shade. She had evidently been sunning herself yesterday with the thermometer at 94. The charge against Jane was that she was a tramp. She got ten days in the county jail. John Schmidt was charged with disturbing the peace. "You were somewhat intoxicated weren't you John?" asked the court. "No more than I am this morning." "I took two men to bring him up here," said the marshal. "He was flourishing a knife about the St. Elmo." "I don't think I was drunk," said John. "I guess I'd better have a trial." The trial was accordingly set for 6 o'clock. John Leary had the look of a buccaner of high seas as he stepped forward. He had a close cropped full beard, bristly hair, and a forehead that began and ended at his eyebrows. "I was affected by the sun, if it please the court," he said. "What time was he arrested?" asked the judge. "Early this morning." "Weren't you more affected by drink?" asked Judge Beneke. "I was not." The marshal said it had required four men to assist him to the station, and he was fined $10 and costs. J. O'Connor received a similar fine. A CURIOUS BUSINESS. In Which an Omaha Man is Apparently Engaged. To what extremes an inordinate appetite for liquor will lead a man is well illustrated by an incident which actually occurred in Omaha a day or two since. A man whose name will not be mentioned, but who is well known in Omaha as a person of intelligence and education and who at one time bore a good moral character in this community, entered a prominent saloon on Fifteenth street somewhat the worse for liquor. He proposed a game of billiards which was accepted by a person in the room. After playing a game or two they quit and the table was taken by other persons waiting to play. When ready to commence the game the last mentioned gentleman discovered that there were only three balls on the table. As it takes four to pay the ordinary game, they began looking for the missing ball. The barkeeper was interrogated as to its whereabouts, and he said that all the balls had been given the first players. The barkeeper immediately suspected that the gentleman here referred to had made away with it, and asked him whether he had done so. He loudly protested his innocence but nevertheless appeared somewhat abashed. Soon after he was seen to go to the rear door of the saloon, and at the same time something was heard to drop on the ground outside. Upon going there the barkeeper found the missing ball near the rear door, and was satisfied that the man had just dropped it there. The barkeeper says that a set of ivory billiard balls are worth from $25 to $40, and that they can readily be pawned for $15 or $20. He says it was the evident purpose of this man to go around to different places and steal enough balls to make a set and then pawn or sell them. Pure cider vinegar at Julius Treitschke's. 24-5t. Turner, manager of the Faribault wind mill manufacturing company, has made the following proposition to the city through the board of trade: If the city will donate to his company, or their successors, the site of the power company, with the interest of the Council Bluffs agricultural works, and three additional lots in the northeast corner of the same block, making the donation a full and complete block, together with the improvements thereon, that he will remove his works from Faribault, Minnesota, to Council Bluffs; the work of removal to be begun as soon as this proposition is accepted. He also offers to bring a company with $100,000 capital stock with at least 50 per cent of the capital paid in, and that he will bind himself and his company to keep and employ not less than thirty (30) men continuously from year to year, so long as the works are maintained. Considerable of this amount had been raised at seven o'clock last evening with the assurance that the entire amount would be promptly secured. This prompt action shows the temper of the board of trade and leading citizens, and indicates that the people are in earnest about that manufacturing boom. HINT TO FORTUNE SEEKERS. About April first an Ohio man, accompanied by his wife and six children, reached this city, bound for Oregon. He had $200 clean cash in his pocket, and was buoyant over the glowing prospects in that far off Eldorado. About one month later the same man reached this city again, disgusted with Oregon, weary, sick, disheartened and out of money. He started to return to Ohio, but had only money enough to buy tickets to this point, and could go no farther. Within twenty-four hours from the time of their arrival here the family were placed in comfortable quarters, the man had secured permanent employment at good wages, and is now doing well. THE BLUFFS IN BRIEF. Tuesday night was the first really hot night of the season. There was a good deal of growing among those whose sleeping arrangements were interfered with. THE BEE already has a large subscription list in the city, and it is rapidly increasing. W. K. Hoagland & Co., dealers in agricultural implements, who but recently located here, already have more business than they can handle and will be obliged to increase their facilities soon. They now have an extensive warehouse on South Maine street. A project is on foot to establish an academy and business school at Council Bluffs. Its design will be primarily to prepare boys and young men for either the university or active business life. Its courses will embrace the practical branches, such as commercial, science, surveying, civil engineering and mining. If the project receives the proper encouragement capital will be put into it and it will doubtless be made a success. A school somewhat similar was started in Indiana a few years ago and although strongly opposed by the regular colleges, it now one of the largest schools in the United States, enrolling about 2,000 pupils. At the proper time further particulars will be given. Myner & Adams have had their office renovated and are now ready to receive their friends i. e. clients. The High School Alumni association held its annual reunion last evening. There was quite a brilliant assemblage present, and an enjoyable time was had. Some citizens sported both umbrel-
