Charged With Robbery, Murder and the Holding of Travelers for Ransom

st. Louis Republican New York, Wednesday, July 13 .of Palermo, robbing, murdering and from dates and names he recalled I holding captured travelers for ransom. The charges against Esposito are: First, with being a member of an outlawed band; second, with having extorted by violence 250,000 lire; third, extortion, through violence, of 40,000 ire; fourth, premeditated murder; extortion, through violence, of 8,000 lire; sixth, a second murder with premeditation; seventh, another extortion, with violence, of 30,000 lire; in which the victim died, after release through his injuries; eighth, seizure of an English clergyman named Rose. Besides these there are many other charges against the brigand. He cut off the clergyman's two cars before the latter's friends raised money to secure his release. The English government took this matter up and assumed such a position that the Italian government raided thoroughly the fastnesses of the brigands, killing many of the robbers and taking many pris- the oners, among them Esposito, chief of their hostile neighbors, the band.
