INCREASE OF FEVER.

WASHINGTON, D. C., July 26.—As indicated in this morning's bulletin the last hours of the night were not so comfortable for the president until the midnight fever gradually subsided. The indications then were that he would remain comfortable. Soon, however, was noticed a quickening of the pulse. Dr. Woodward, who was at his side, found that the fever was increasing. Dr. Bliss was aroused and the two physicians watched the patient. There appeared to be slight symptoms of a "rigor." But for a moment, however. No chill followed. The fever continued until 3 o'clock this morning and then again subsided. Again when the doctors came for the morning examination they found he had relapsed the usual nourishment and his condition was apparently as good as yesterday morning at the same hour. Dr. Agnew was present when the examination was made. It is said the pus is still flowing satisfactorily, but nothing can yet be learned this morning as to how much its character is improved.

THE CONSULTATION OF PHYSICIANS in regard to the high fever of the president this morning resulted in the discovery that some operation must be performed to remove some cause of irritation. Dr. Agnew said the discharge of pus was not as satisfactory, and the wound appeared clogged. The president was informed that another operation was necessary. He made no objection. Dr. Agnew then thought it was unnecessary to administer an emetic, but went to work at once. This was between 8 and 9 o'clock. He examined the incision made on Sunday and putting in his finger to the depth of about three inches, he found the shattered pieces of rib discovered Sunday had formed an obstruction. This operation was far more painful than the one performed Sunday, but the president bore it bravely and was greatly relieved by it. The old tube was not returned, but a new one was inserted through the new incision to the depth of nearly four inches, where it intersects the old portion of the wound channel. Thus the other end of the wound will be allowed to close up and heal as it will, while the full discharge of pus will be conducted through the incision. Now dressings were applied and the fever at once subsided. The president is now as comfortable as could be expected under the circumstances. He was greatly weakened by the operation, but Dr. Agnew says not dangerously.

MR. CRUMP, who was with him at the time, says that the President grew pale, but there was nothing else about his face to show that an operation was being performed. Dr. Agnew is quite sure the fever was caused by the irritation of the shattered fragments of the rib. Since the removal pus flowed freely. He is not certain that another cavity has been formed; does not think it likely. This afternoon the wound will be dressed again and if the conditions remain favorable the physicians will conclude that they have struck the true source of all the latest mischief.

A SLIGHT IMPROVEMENT. The president's pulse and temperature are subsiding. He has slept well since the operation, and Dr. Agnew says the conditions are favorable.

MORE THAN AN EQUAL CHANCE. NEW YORK, July 26.—Dr. Hamilton expresses the belief that the president already had pneumonia. Dr. Frank Hamilton arrived from Washington this morning. He thinks the president's chance for recovery more than equal.

WHAT DR. AGNEW SAYS. Dr. Agnew was asked just before noon how many splinters of rib were taken from the wound this morning. "A dozen or fifteen," was the reply. "You felt them with your finger?" "Yes, and pushed the battered rib back in its place."

"Do you consider the president's condition favorable?" "Yes, decidedly favorable. He has slept nicely since the operation and is doing well."

It seems that the President fell asleep very soon after the wound had been re-dressed this morning. He slept easily and at one time did not awake for half an hour. He has taken considerable nourishment this forenoon. By noon his pulse was below 100, and temperature normal. Dr. Hamilton has not been sent for and it is not known when he will return. Dr. Agnew will conduct the rest of the examination to-day.

TO MINISTER LOWELL. WASHINGTON, July 26.—Executive Mansion.—To Lowell, minister, London: The president's symptoms at noon to-day are favorable. Several pieces of shattered rib came from the wound while dressing it this morning. (Signed) BLAINE, Secretary.

TUESDAY'S BULLETINS.

WASHINGTON, July 26.—8:30 a. m.—The following official bulletin has just been issued: The president was somewhat restless during the night and the fever, which had subsided after our last bulletin, rose again about midnight and continued until 3 a. m., after which it again subsided. He is now about as well as yesterday at the same hour. Pulse 102, temperature 98.4, respiration 18. (Signed) D. W. BLISS, J. W. BARNES, J. J. WOODWARD, R. REYBURN.

July 26.—10 a. m.—No change in the president's condition since 8:30 a. m. The doctors are watching every symptom of detouring. If possible, the cause of the intermittent character of the fever. The doctors do not seem to be quite clear as to why the fever is now intermittent. Before the relapse it came up and subsided as regularly as clock work. Dr. Agnew will watch the president closely.

To-day the cabinet officers called as usual this morning and have not returned to their offices in the departments.

July 26.—11 a. m.—Dr. Agnew has taken from the president's wound a piece of shattered rib an inch in length and other small particles. The president bore up under the operation bravely. He is now doing better.

July 26.—1 p. m.—The midday examination has given no cause for alarm. The fever has abated and there has been no chill. The physicians are very reticent.

2:15 P. M. The president's pulse is below 100, temperature and respiration normal. No reliable information as to the other conditions can be obtained beyond that, Dr. Bliss just told his son that at this hour they were more encouraged than at any previous time. Dr. Agnew said it seemed to be of little use to give anything to the press for what was sent away did not reach its destination in safety.

Reports have been received here that bulletins have been posted in New York City to the effect that a piece an inch long had been saved from the rib that the bullet had been extracted, and that a third that the president was dying. The fact is that a number of the shattered pieces of the rib have been extracted from the wound and that the president is still very weak from the operation, but that he is in no immediate danger.

July 26.—6 p. m.—The president has rested somewhat during the afternoon and is so comfortable that Mrs. Garfield has gone riding with Miss Mollie and Miss Sheldon to get air.

Body Found.

SANTA FE, N. M., July 26.—A body with two bullet holes in the breast and a hole in the neck was lately found on the Rio Grande river and buried by the Indians. They yesterday gave the sheriff the papers found on the body, by which it is discovered that the murdered man's name was Vomrag, from Waterbury, Conn. It is supposed that he was murdered by companions, while traveling from Tombstone to Colorado.

A Reward to be Offered.

ST. LOUIS, July 26.—Gov. Crittenden and the superintendents of railroads centering here and at Kansas City are in consultation to-day on the subject of the recent train robbery at Winston, and are discussing plans to prevent a recurrence of such outlaws. It is thought that the result of this meeting will be an immense reward offered for the robbers and their speedy arrest.

A St. Paul Scandal.

ST. PAUL, July 26.—Great interest is taken in this vicinity in the clerical scandal involving the reputation of Elder Atwater, a prominent Methodist minister. It is claimed that Atwater and a young lady member of his flock took a walk in a dense woods together, were followed, and discovered in a very equivocal position. The minister stoutly denies the charges of immorality.

Advised to Cease Training.

HALLIFAX, N. S., July 26.—Warren Smith retires from the aquatic field for the season at least. On his return from Ottawa, it was feared that this would have to be, but Smith went back to practice. Now his medical advisers find his lungs and bronchial tubes seriously affected and have ordered him to cease training till next year.

Explosion of a Kerosene Can.

NEW YORK, July 26.—Mrs. Catharine Behler kindled a fire in Brooklyn yesterday with a kerosene can, which exploded. She was terribly burned and died last night. The house caught fire and caused a loss of over $2,000. During the excitement Mrs. Tesele jumped from a second story window and was seriously burned.

Sale of Bethesda Springs.

MILWAUKEE, July 26.—The Bethesda Springs at Waukesha, Wis., have been sold to Winfield Smith, of this city, representing Wisconsin and New York capitalists, who will form a joint stock company. The consideration was $125,000.

Dr. Hamilton Does Not Think the Ball Entered the Liver.

THE PHYSICIANS.

WASHINGTON, July 26.—The president's physicians are evidently either greatly worried or exceedingly annoyed. They have adopted a policy of strict reticence. Dr. Reyburn was asked at 2 p. m. how the president was. "Doing well," was the reply. "Is an operation to be made for the purpose of finding the ball?" "I can't tell."

"But people think so, and are wild to know the truth?" "We talk the truth in the bulletins. Hereafter we shall endeavor to make them explicit and give no other information."

"Then the physicians have not decided that the ball must be cut out in order to save the president's life?" "I can say nothing about it."

Dr. Surgeon General Barnes was not a few minutes later but refused to speak at all on the subject. This reticence has helped to gain ground for the impression already existing that the condition of the president is anything but encouraging. It is also reported that Dr. Agnew has advised the physicians to furnish to the public none but official information concerning the case.

Prof. Bell, who is usually at the White house much of the time, was not there this afternoon. In view of all the circumstances it is not improbable that an effort may be made to locate the ball by the use of the professor's induction balance. There is, however, no information of such intention, and there is no official authority for the statement in circulation that an effort will be made to remove the ball as soon as it is successfully located.

MRS. DR. EDSON is authority for the statement that the president was doing well during the afternoon, and that the new drainage arrangement was working well. Gen. Swain said the same and regarded the president's condition as better than it was yesterday.

WILD RUMORS.

It is the general opinion that the president's physicians made a mistake in not announcing in the morning bulletin the facts in connection with the removal of the rib splinters from the wound. The bulletin said nothing about the matter, but it soon became known that something of that nature had occurred and in a few moments a thousand rumors were afloat. One was that an insertion had been made for the purpose of extracting the ball. Another that it had been found necessary to cut off a piece of the president's rib, and also that the president was rapidly sinking from the effects of the operation. These rumors flow around like wild-fire, and the excitement of the people was at fever heat. To add to it some noticed that the flag on the department of justice was at half-mast. This was on account of the death of Justice Clifford, but it was soon denied about that the president was dead. Extra editions of the city papers quitted the furor before it became a panic. The excitement became an anxiety on account of the grave condition of the president. That he has been greatly weakened by the events of the last few days no one undertakes to deny and it is equally certain that the physicians are anxious and are not yet sure that the danger is passed.

TUESDAY'S BULLETINS.

OFFICIAL.

EXECUTIVE MANSION, July 26.—7 p. m.—The president has done well during the day. At the dressing of the wound after the morning bulletin was issued a displaced splinter of broken rib about half an inch long was removed. The track of the wound at this point was dilated and a larger drainage tube was inserted for the purpose of facilitating the discharge of pus. Since that time he has taken several quiet naps, has taken more nourishment than in any of the last five days without gastric irritation, and when the wound was dressed this evening the discharge of healthy pus was satisfactorily abundant. At noon his pulse was 106, temperature 98.4, respiration 19. At 10 p. m. his pulse was 104, temperature 100.7, respiration 20. (Signed) HAYES H. AGNEW, D. W. BLISS, J. K. BARNES, J. J. WOODWARD, R. REYBURN.

July 26, 9 p. m.—At this hour the president is resting very quietly. There is no noticeable change in his condition since the official bulletin was issued, but if the pus discharge should increase it may be necessary to test the induction balance, and if the ball is discovered possibly to cut it out. The time has not come, however, and none of the doctors at 6 p. m. thought such steps would be necessary.

July 25, 10 p. m.—Dr. Woodward says the president's condition is more favorable to-night than at any time since Thursday.

EXECUTIVE MANSION, 12 m.—The president passed the night without fever so far, and slept considerably. Condition favorable.

DR. HAMILTON.

HIS OPINION OF THE CASE.

NEW YORK, July 26.—Dr. Frank H. Hamilton arrived in this city from Washington this morning and in an interview with a reporter of the National Associated Press said abscesses were not likely to occur again because as at first reported, by means of a surgeon's finger and a pair of delicate forceps. The patient was evidently relieved thereby and after the rib was straightened as it should be, the flow of pus improved. Dr. Agnew commented on the fact that the discharge, there is no telling what he will do. The report that the ball must be removed at all hazards is without foundation.

INFORMATION TO MINISTER LOWELL. The information that Secretary Blaine had at 1 p. m. was sent to Minister Lowell as follows: The president's symptoms are favorable. Several small pieces of shattered rib came from the wound this morning while dressing it. (Signed) BLAINE, Secretary.

THE WHITE HOUSE was almost deserted between 5 and 7 o'clock this evening. The physicians did not all arrive before the latter hour, Agnew and Bliss being alone with the president. Col. Rockwell and Gen. Swain were out riding. Mrs. Garfield and her daughter drove out to the Soldiers' Home for some fresh air and the wild rumors having quieted down no callers appeared. The president partook of an evening nourishment and ate with better relish than since the relapse. He had recovered some of his strength and was in good condition when the evening examination began.

THE EVENING BULLETIN was anxiously awaited by representatives of the press, and the officer who posted a copy on a tree by the White House, found quite a crowd collected to hear the news. The favorable character of the official announcement raised the hope of depending ones, and the crowd soon scattered. The signature of Dr. Agnew to the bulletin was also reassuring. The length of the bulletin was evidently in furtherance of the expressed intentions of the physicians to let the bulletins do their talking, for not one of them would enter into an explanation of the events of the day. From all that could be learned the new tube had done good work, and the pus discharge was now proceeding to their entire satisfaction.

MEMBERS OF THE CABINET and their wives spent an hour or so at the Executive Mansion. As all reports from the sick room continued favorable everybody was in good spirits. The physicians talked about the case, but even to the cabinet were very guarded in their remarks.

SECRETARY BLAINE TO MINISTER LOWELL. LOWELL, MINISTER TO LONDON.—10 p. m.—One of the attending physicians says that the president's condition is more favorable to-night than at any time since last Thursday. (Signed) BLAINE, Secretary.

THE COLD AIR MACHINE.

WASHINGTON, July 26.—Between 3 and 4 o'clock this afternoon Dr. Agnew paid a special visit to the cold air machine, accompanied by Dr. Woodward, and found the air entering the machine at 83 degrees and passing out at 62 degrees. Twenty thousand cubic feet per hour of washed air at this temperature is supplied to the president's room. To-day no further experiments were made with Prof. Bell's induction balance. If the president's condition continues no effort will be made to find the ball at present.

DR. AGNEW went home with Attorney General MacVough, and will remain here until to-morrow night, at which time Dr. Hamilton may return. Drs. Bliss and Reyburn will remain with the president to-night. He slept satisfactorily under the usual anodyne. Pulse and temperature continued to subside, and there were no signs of fever or chill up to 11 p. m., at which time the White House was closed for the night.

Three Fatal Cases of Lockjaw.

NEW YORK, July 26.—Three fatal cases of lockjaw are reported here to-day: John Bartholp, from a finger crushed by a stone; Peter McMahon, from a finger cut by a knife used in taking off hide from a cow which had died from some unknown disease, and August Dun, from a toy pistol wound.

Arrested for Forgery.

FINDLAY, O., July 26.—Miss Florence Deat, of Wood county, has been arrested for negotiating a $900 forged note with the Farmers Bank. She acknowledges the crime and says she alone is responsible. She is in jail.

This one has occurred. The chances are more than equal that similar pouches will not be formed. This one had a special cause in an irregular projection of the fractured rib. The presumption seems to be from certain indications, that the ball lies in the right iliac fossa. It is doubtful whether it entered peritoneum. I don't think it entered the liver. Chills do not indicate pyemia. A chill, if caused by irritation consequent upon a presence of confined matter is a sort of alarm which nature sounds, and if not attended to nature will evacuate the pus in most cases without artificial aid. I believe that if nothing had been done in the president's case the sack of pus would have burst within forty-eight hours, but we helped nature along. Chills occur whenever pus gathers, and ceases when it is allowed to flow again. Therefore, the chill in the president's case should not cause the whole country serious alarm. When I left General Garfield last night everything was getting along nicely. He did not look at all like a phœma patient and was able to use his limbs freely and shake hands with a hearty grip. The fear of paralysis is groundless.

VICE-PRESIDENT ARTHUR. NATIONAL ASSOCIATED PRESS. NEW YORK, July 26.—The report in the city to-night that the condition of the president was critical and that Vice-President Arthur had been summoned to Washington, the agent of the National Associated Press called upon Vice-President Arthur. He said the report was false. Gen. Arthur has all along believed that the president would pull through and still believes he will recover. He is constantly in telegraphic communication with Secretary Blaine and other members of the cabinet, as well as with the president's private secretary and other members of Mrs. Garfield's household, and is kept minutely informed of every feature of the president's condition.

That the suspicion is not altogether well grounded is shown by the fact that some telegrams sent Arthur are almost the same as those given to the public.

The president's private secretary at 8:30 this morning sent Arthur the following: EXECUTIVE MANSION, July 26.—To Vice President Arthur, New York: The president was somewhat restless during the night. The fever, which subsided after our last bulletin, rose again about midnight, and continued until 3 a. m., after which it again subsided. He is now about as well as yesterday at the same hour. Pulse 102, temperature 98.4, respiration 18. (Signed) J. STANLEY BROWN.

At 10:42 the secretary of state sent the following: EXECUTIVE MANSION, July 26.—To Vice President Arthur: The president's condition is not essentially changed since yesterday. Temperature and respiration normal this morning. (Signed) JAS. G. BLAINE.

No doubt news sent the vice-president concerning the president's condition is wholly accurate and the above telegrams show that the public have been getting exactly the same information. General Arthur's friends admit that they now believe that the surgeon should at first have located and removed the ball, while at the same time they say Hamilton and Agnew are fully competent to determine what is best.

CHICAGO DRIVING PARK. CHICAGO, July 26.—The last day of the summer trotting meeting was finished to-day, with 2,500 people in attendance, the track being in excellent condition and a cool east wind blowing. There were five entries in the race of colts and fillies: Tucker, Phil Thompson, Director, Clemmie G and Mammie. Phil Thompson won the three heats easily by twenty lengths and trotted a mile in the third heat in 2:21, the fastest time for a three-year-old on record.

In the 2:21 race Francis Alexander acted badly, sweating profusely before the first heat and evidently soft for
