The Ladies' League

Last evening the ladies' land league held a large and interesting meeting in the Union Catholic library rooms. Miss Ella Kennedy presided. It was decided to hold the picnic in Okalahoma park, on the Bellevue road, instead of in South Omaha park, as previously announced. Mr. Hascall has donated the park and he has likewise fitted up a platform for dancing and all other necessary stands gratis. The president announced that there would be two conveyances to take the ladies to the park who would start from the Union Catholic library, one to start at 8 and the other at 10 o'clock. Miss Crowley, the secretary, read the names of the ladies who volunteered to wait at the tables. The meeting then adjourned till Thursday next at 8 o'clock.

Wicked for Clergyman

Rev. Washington, D. C., writes: "I believe it to be all wrong and even wicked for clergymen or other public men to be led into giving testimonials to quack doctors or vile stuff called medicines, but when a really meritorious article made of valuable remedies known to all, that all physicians use and trust in daily, we should freely commend it. I therefore cheerfully and heartily commend Hop Bitters for the good they have done me and my friends, firmly believing they have no equal for family use. I will not be without them." -New York Baptist Weekly. aug15-sept1

LOST BY ONE.

The Slocumb Ordinance Fails to Pass Council.

Some Want One Hundred Thousand Dollar License.

But Many More are Not in Favor of It.

Liveliest Session That Has Been Held for Some Time.

At the special meeting of the council last evening Messrs. Baker, Corby, Dellone, Dunham, Herman, Kaufmann, O'Keefe, Stull, Hornberger, and President Dailey were present. The only member of the council that was absent was Mr. McNamara, who is not in the city. The attendance of citizens was even larger than at the last meeting, the council chamber being quite crowded.

The judiciary committee, Messrs. Stull, Hornberger and Kaufmann, reported that they had examined the papers presented to them by the council on the high license question, and returned the same without recommendation. On motion of Mr. Kaufmann the report was filed.

At the request of Mr. Stull the ordinance as originally presented was read. The ordinance is merely a reproduction of the Slocumb law.

Mr. McGavock moved that the ordinance be returned to the judiciary committee again.

Mr. O'Keefe amended to make the license $100,000 instead of $1,000.

Mr. Dunham desired to know what condition the ordinance was in; whether it was upon its first or second reading.

Mr. O'Keefe said people coming here expected equal rights; the Slocumb law did not grant equal rights. Every good citizen should be granted every privilege the country could give him. In 1861 there was a war to settle the question of equal rights. If men down at the legislature saw it say persons enjoying in the saloon business must pay $7,000 - for it would cost $1,000 for the license, $5,000 for the bond and $1,000 for stock - where then was the poor man's chance? Men he knew who ten years ago didn't have $100 now have $40,000 on account of the liquor business. He put the license at $100,000 because that would make it equal for everybody because none could pay it. Prohibition was a circumstance to this law. Mr. O'Keefe closed his remarks amid applause from the audience.

Mr. Herman said they had no right in the city council to make a state law. They were merely there to pass an ordinance to carry a law into effect. They thought the law unconstitutional. Some cases were taken up to test the matter. The judge pronounced the law constitutional. Still the council held back. Then the highest judicial tribunal in the state decided that it was also. He charged the republicans with being responsible for the law. Some delay followed this, Mr. McGavock thinking Mr. Herman out of order, and that gentleman thinking Mr. McGavock out of order. Mr. Herman continued and divided the political feature of the case again. He said $100,000 was practically prohibition. He proposed prohibition and did not favor legislation on eating or drinking. Did $100,000 license favor the poor man? he asked. If the ordinance did not pass those violating the law would be prosecuted by the state. He was in favor of referring the matter, but he did not believe giving a single feature not allowed by the law.

Mr. Kaufmann said that prohibition was no doubt intended by Slocumb. He thought they were at liberty to place the license at any figure they pleased. All should be treated alike. He thought if the license was placed at $100,000 the people of the state would act upon the Slocumb matter at the proper time.

Mr. Stull said the proposition to refer the matter to the judiciary committee was worse than foolish. They had considered it twice carefully and thoughtfully. He could say on the authority of the city attorney that the ordinance had been prepared by that official. Besides he, Mr. Stull, and the other members of the committee differed upon the subject.

The state gave them a law with which they were not satisfied. Had it been submitted to them before its passage, every individual member of the council would have opposed it. But that wasn't the situation. The supreme court had interpreted the law. Bitter as the pill was, and much as he objected, he would support the ordinance. He did not favor prohibition. A prohibitory law could not be enforced in Omaha. It was an incubus they could not put upon themselves. Good men estimated that if this law was put into effect it would put from $30,000 to $50,000 a year in the treasury. Who gave the council the power to prevent this money from going into the treasury? The proposed remedy of $100,000 license was no cure. Through these cases - which will arise - into the hands of state courts and away from the police court and what was gained by the change? Nothing. The question arose on inserting $100,000 as the figures for license instead of $1,000. The resolution was lost, Messrs. Baker, Corby, Dunham, Herman, Stull and President Dailey voting in the negative and Messrs. Dellone, Hornberger, Kaufmann and O'Keefe in the affirmative.

Mr. Hornberger objected to the feature allowing druggists a permit for $10 to sell liquor while saloon keepers had to pay $1,000 license. He did not believe in giving the druggist permission to become wholesale liquor dealers at so small a figure. It wasn't fair.

Mr. Baker said this wasn't considered a license in their case.

Mr. Kaufmann said there should be inserted a section into the ordinance embodying the feature that outside wholesale dealers shall not be allowed to sell liquors here unless they comply with the law like local dealers. The motion to refer the matter to the judiciary committee was lost by a vote of six to five.

Mr. Kaufmann moved that the matter be referred to the committee on police. The motion was lost. Mr. Baker moved that the rules be suspended, the ordinance read a third time by its title, and put upon its passage. The motion was carried. The ordinance as read was then voted for by Messrs. Baker, Corby, Dunham, Herman, Stull and President Dailey, and against by Messrs. Dellone, Hornberger, Kaufmann, McGavock and O'Keefe. This was a majority of one, but it requires seven to carry. The ordinance was declared not passed.

On motion of Mr. Kaufmann the council then adjourned.

ROBBED AND DRUGGED.

Condition in Which an Irish Gentleman Was Found.

He is Picked Up By the Police and Restored to Consciousness.

About 6 o'clock a. m. yesterday City Jailor McClure and Officer Sullivan found a well dressed, foreign looking gentleman lying in an unconscious condition near the corner of Seventh and Dodge streets. They soon partially revived him and discovered that he had received a stunning blow upon the head. They removed the gentleman to the office of the city jail, where he gave his name as R. Atkinson, and his residence as Abercorn house, Charleston, Ranelagh parish, Dublin, Ireland.

He was at that time still in a very confused condition and told in a disjointed way that he had arrived in the city on the previous evening accompanied by his servant. In walking about the town they had become separated. He fell in with other companions, and being disposed to enjoy himself, probably visited several saloon rooms. That is about the last he remembers. He thinks his liquor was drugged at the last place he visited, because of his stupefaction when he awoke. A valuable gold watch which he carried, was missing, besides what money he had upon his person except half a sovereign in English and a few American coins. His railroad ticket to San Francisco and a big English revolver were not disturbed. The man in his then condition was not able to move about for himself, and the city jailor gave him a place in the city jail to sleep off the effects of his narcotic. In the afternoon he recovered sufficiently to change his quarters, and he was given his effects and allowed to depart. Mr. Atkinson is an Irish gentleman, who is making a tour of the country in the interests of some British firms. He will leave for San Francisco on the train today at noon.

GREAT SLAUGHTER

Of Game By a Party of Omaha Sportsmen.

What They Have to Say About the Matter.

There returned to the city on a special car attached to the U. P. train from the west yesterday afternoon one of the jolliest parties of sportsmen that ever pulled a trigger over a prairie chicken. The party consisted of John Nelson, Thomas Cummings, Ed. Leeder, Wm. F. Heins, Wm. Bracy, John McDonald, Sr., John McDonald, Jr., Andrew Kear, Geo. Jones, John Hove, F. R. Smith, Morris Ottman, J. E. Winslade, Wm. Traffley, Chas. H. Phillips, John Carrigan, John Kendrick and Charles Hender.

Scattered about the car were mysterious packages containing such legends as "Mum's XXX," or "Budweiser, Julius Trei schke, agent," which caused considerable wonderment among the spectators, but with which the members of the party seemed to be on terms of peculiar intimacy. Besides these, it might be added that there were several dogs - almost enough to go on an elephant hunt. All members of the party seemed careworn, probably from labor in carrying the game, and much sun-tanned, owing to the corner in the umbrella market. All tell a straight story about their doings and the only complaint they make is that their sides are sore from laughing at the jokes of "Sargeant" Leeder and "Jack" Hove. They say they killed nearly 300 chickens. The result of the first day's hunt was 120. All of these were sent to Messrs. A. P. Nichols, Boyd, Collet and Stevens as a compliment for attentions received. One of the gentlemen let THE BEE reporter into his confidence and said privately that they put the number of chickens killed at about 300, as they didn't have time to count them accurately and did not want to make a mistake of one or two. The best shot was made by Mr. Bracey, who slaughtered three chickens. It is acknowledged though that this was done accidentally. Mr. Nelson piloted the party with rare skill and judgment. They say that the game laws are not observed in the country; that they found game most plentiful at Humphrey station, and disclaim all knowledge of the market price of prairie chickens.

COUNCIL BLUFFS.

A Day's Budget of its Local Happenings.

Pleasant Celebration Held at Logan Yesterday.

Case in Which There Were Pistris for Only One.

The Usual Supply of Jottings and Paragraphs.

A CELEBRATION IN OBSERVANCE OF THE PRESIDENT'S PROBABLE RECOVERY.

Although perhaps a little premature, the celebration at Logan was a grand success, and let us hope it may turn out that they will not have occasion to mourn so deeply as they have rejoiced over the supposed restored health of our chief magistrate. Early in the morning the people were awakened by the thundering tones from the Council Bluffs battery, under the command of Capt. Rice, assisted by E. J. Abbott. Guns were fired at sunrise, and about 9 o'clock, as the people began to pour in from all directions, another salute was fired by the battery. At 10 o'clock the several squads of veterans from all parts of the state were formed into two divisions, the first commanded by Gen. Joe Smith, of Logan, the second by Capt. Harrison, of Council Bluffs. The procession formed in the following order: Dunlap brass band; a large wagon, containing pretty little girls in white, dressed to represent the different states; next, a wagon full of girls representing the presidents from Washington to Garfield, (we thought that boys would have been more appropriate); next came the first division of veterans, Gen. Smith commanding, headed by the Logan drum corps; then followed the second division of veterans, commanded by Capt. Harrison and led by Wall McFadden's celebrated drum corps. The procession after marching through the principal streets halted at the court house square, where eloquent addresses were made by the following well-known leading men of Iowa: Hon. James F. Wilson, Hon. John P. Irish, Hon. A. M. Hawley - a staunch republican, a staunch democrat and a stauncher greenbacker - so it cannot be claimed that the affair was a political one. The following members from the "Abe Lincoln Post" of this city attended: E. J. Abbott, John Lindt, Capt. Harrison, Messrs. Price, Crawl, Spalding, Casey, Becroft, Ward, Beckman, Maginnes, Niles, Musser and others.

A CLOSE FRIENDSHIP

WHICH PERMITS TWO JAWS TO USE THE SAME SET OF TEETH.

One of the night watchmen and an engineer at the U. P. transfer have recently formed a co-partnership of a most peculiar character. It seems that for some time the engineer has been the happy possessor of a fine, sharp pair of false teeth. The night-watchman's teeth some time ago began to decay with astonishing rapidity, until not long since cold steel had to be applied to keep the last lingering tuak quiet. What should he do? He was a large sized, hard working man, and was obliged to chew boarding-house steak. Pay day would not be around for three or four weeks, and it would take Dr. Woodbery some little time to get him up a set, even after the impression was taken. He felt that if he did have in this selfish world a single friend he had a chance now to use him. He went to his friend the engineer, and the following contract was immediately entered into: The night watchman was to go to his supper early, and after eating leave the teeth under the front door steps. The engineer on going to supper takes the teeth and having used them leaves them under the steps again. The same thing is done in the morning. There is certainly money saved, to say the least.

AN IRATE PARENT

BRINGS A YOUNG FELLOW TO TERMS AT THE POINT OF A PISTOL.

A teamster named Martin was confronted on West Broadway by a man who claimed that young Martin had been in rather close contact with his daughter. The injured father stepped up to the young man and presenting him with the noisy end of a thirty-two calibre revolver, demanded that he proceed at once to make reparation, or what there was of him on that truck team would be carried home in less than a very short time. The young man started with the father to call upon the innocent young lady. We understand that young Martin says he found everything all right but that the whole case is one of mistaken identity.

THE BLUFFS IN BRIEF.

The Nonpartisan printed Hon. James F. Wilson's speech delivered at Logan in full yesterday. The Methodist society will be entertained this evening at the residence of E. H. Orcutt, corner of Scott street and Washington avenue. The gentleman who represents the interests of Mrs. Burke, of Omaha, who will contest the right to the $5,000 prize offered by the management of the Driving Park association at their coming tournament, is in this city arranging for the grand race. We understand Mrs. Burke will have fifteen horses in the race. Prof. Fellows, of the state university, lectured last evening at the new Bloomer school house before the teachers' institute. His subject was a very appropriate one. "The teacher's profession." The speaker handled the subject in such a manner as to convince all present that he was well acquainted with the trials and duties of a teacher. The citizens did not turn out as they should at such meetings.

It won't take Judge Loubourow long to make this part of his circuit this term. We understand that Col. Dailey has accepted the invitation extended by the Irish land league to attend them on the occasion of their picnic, to be given in Omaha the 20th inst. Mr. Dailey has given much attention to the Irish question now being agitated throughout Europe. He is a pleasant talker and no doubt will interest all who may listen to him.

Judge Burke got down to business again yesterday. The first case he had to dispose of was against Bob Kowitz. Bob had driven one of John T. Baldwin's horse cars through the streets at a too rapid gait. He was fined $3 and costs.

They came a hard looking case from Omaha. He stated to the court that he was not in the habit of getting that way when at home. That somehow a man can't drink as much over on this side as he can in Omaha since they started up the water-works. He promised if the judge would let him down easily he would never drink again until he got where they reduced the beverage down to a fine thing. John Myers, for that was the name he gave, was committed until he sobered off, when he will either pay up or break rocks.

Three or four men were sent to the stoneware for being drunk. "Too much Yunkerman's." J. F. Burke was brought before his honor, charged with keeping a nuisance about his premises by allowing his waste water to slop over on an adjacent lot. The court continued the case until the 19th, when Mr. Burke will probably have something to say about the case himself.

John Ledwick is attending the circuit court, as is also J. G. Tipton. John Doherty, president of the Northern Pacific, was in the city yesterday en route to the east. M. F. Rohrer has recently taken out an important additional risk. Geo. R. Childs, of Avoca, took in the sights in the city yesterday.

The mayor says there will be no partiality shown. We shall all be taxed to our heart's content. Hon. James G. Day was in the city yesterday, a guest at the Ogden hotel. We presume the judge will soon erect a fine residence in this city.

That genial citizen, Spencer Smith, secretary of The Nonpartisan Printing company, has just returned from a pleasure business trip to his extensive cattle rancho out in Wyoming Territory. Mr. Smith is looking very much improved in health. Ex-Mayor Col. Cochran has returned home from a pleasure trip. R. S. Hammond, of Bethedy, was in the city yesterday, a guest at the Pacific.

Mr. Woodbury contemplates erecting two more tenement houses. Charles Gilmore, ex-constable, has been confined at the Drovers' hotel with rheumatism. Hon. John P. Irish, of Iowa City, was in the city yesterday. Hon. James T. Sanford was registered at the Pacific house. M. G. Griffin and Miss Dohoney left yesterday for Colfax Springs.

TURNING TIDE.

Emigration Now Setting Toward the Montana Region.

Col. John E. McClure, who has just returned from a trip to Utah and Montana, gives some interesting items with regard to the railroad, mining and Indian matters of the west. He says that most of the emigration of the mining element is now directed toward Montana. The emigration to Colorado has fallen off a great deal this year, and in consequence Denver is getting to be quite dull. The people now going into the mining camps of Colorado generally take the southern route, the A. T. & S. F., and outfit at Pueblo instead of Denver as has heretofore been the custom. The mines in the Frisco district in Utah are also falling off in their yield this year. Montana has now the best prospects of any of the mineral states and territories. Butte and Helena particularly are very lively and the towns are full of people outfitting for the adjacent mining camps. Butte is now thirty-six miles beyond the present terminus of the U. & N. railroad, while the grading has been completed to within six miles of the place.

It is expected that the road will be completed to Butte in six weeks' time. The Denver & Rio Grande people have surveyed a route from one of the termini of their road to Salt Lake, and will begin active operations on it early this fall. The Ute Indians, who have occasioned so much trouble to the government, are now being prepared for removal to the new White River agency in Utah. Lieut. Converse, of the United States army, with a company of soldiers, now surveying a military road from Green River to the White River agency. As soon as this road is completed, the Utes will be taken to the new agency under an escort of five companies of troops. Mr. E. C. Lang, formerly a resident of Omaha, is now prospecting in Butte City. Many Omaha people are spending the summer in Salt Lake.

NARROW ESCAPE.

Peculiar Accident to a Water Works Employee.

Yesterday a force of workmen were employed at the water works settling basin in removing the bags which had been placed as shields around the openings of the reservoirs. While so at work David Stanton approached too close to the main by which the water was being drawn from the settling basin into the clear water basin. The suction quickly drew him toward the opening and despite his efforts he lost his balance and plunged head first into the rushing current. Very fortunately, a number of his fellow workmen witnessed his mishap and rushed quickly to his assistance. They succeeded in catching his feet as he was being crushed through the pipe and by the greatest effort pulled him out of danger. He was removed to the ambulance and quickly resuscitated. Stanton suffered no bad effects except that he was obliged to drink too much of the purified water. He was soon able to resume work again.
