truth is that military administration is by no means economical. On the contrary, a fair investigation of the subject will disclose the fact that the army pays higher prices for almost everything than almost anybody else does. Not as if there were dishonesty at the bottom of it. The soldier simply does not care what things cost. He is a cavalier, and as such inclined to scorn troubling himself about dollars and cents in matters of military administration. On the other hand, while it is true that there has been altogether too much peculation and sharp practice in the civilhan Indian service, it has always been grossly exaggerated. There is not half as much stealing in it as is commonly thought. Moreover, the history of Indiant management under the War Department during the first of this century, showthat the temptations offered by the man-agement of Indian matters proved then as seductive as ever, thus rather dis-couraging the belief that, if the Indian service were placed there again, it would be as correct as it ought to be. It would certainly not be as economical as it now

General Crook in Washington. Letter to Philadelphia Times.

A tall, soldierly-looking, sandy-whisk ered man was ushered into the room of the secretary of war this morning and the latter quickly rose to his feet and grasped heartily the hand of his visitor. "I am glad to see you, Gen. Crook," said the secretary, and the few spectators of the meeting gazed intently at the celebrated Indian fighter. The General was anxious to report the result of his campaign, however, and craved a private audience with the head of the war department. This was promptly accorded him and it was after midday before the conference ended. It being cabinet day, Secretary Lincoln was due at the White House about noon, but when he walked from the war department to his destination he was accompanied by Gen. Crook. The latter was anxious to meet the president, and after being presented to Secretary Chandler and Postmaster-General Gresham in the ante-room, he remained until the president came in from his cottage at the soldiers' home. Lack of water is the drawback to their profitable working. If we could only get a series of wet years, like those of 1865, 1866, 1867 and 1868, millions of dollars would be taken out and sent east to recruit the supply of gold. Should Bates Brothers, who are preparing to wash gravel on the Lower Harsayama, be successful with their water project, Arizona will soon again loom as a producer of the noble metal, even though the gold ledges of several Arizona districts remain idle for want of capital and proper machinery to operate them successfully.

Agriculturally Speaking. Exeter Enterprise.

The editor of the Omaha Republican is a colossal jackass, agriculturally speak-ing. In his yesterday's edition he remark-ed that a magnificent corn crop was al-Indian business would be carried on much more in accordance with the sets of the army than with the interests of the rain this season. Every time Fred gets onto agriculture he makes lots of fun for the 'rural roosters.?"

SOLID SHOT AGAINST BLOOD POISON

ATLANTA, GA., April 17, 1883. In 1878 I was the victim of a terrible Blood Poison and after being treated by three physicians was confined to my bed, not able to raise my hand to my ment to my ocd, not able to raise my name to my head—spitting clots of blood, and reduced in weight from 185 pounds to 139 pounds. I then began the use of SWIFT'S SPECIFIC, and in less than three months I was entirely well, weighed 196, and have never had a sypmtom of the disease since. If it had not been for Swift's Specific I believe I would have been in my grave. JOHN V. RISHOP.

TRIED THE HOT SPRINGS TWO YEARS WITHOUT RELIEF

Mercurial Rheumatism made me a cripple. After trying Hot Springs two years, and the Mercury and Potash treatment until I was a skeleton and unable to do anything, I was prevailed upon to take a course of S. S. After taking three bottles my appetite began to improve, and I gained flesh rapidly. When I had taken twelve bottles I feit as well as I ever did. It is now twelve months since I took S. S. S. My health and appetite are good, and I am able to attend to all the business I canget. CHAS. BERG.
