-Friday and Saturday of this week the Leadville "Blues" will meet the "Union Pacifics" on the grounds of the latter. The "Blues" have been considerably strengthened since their visit last season and will without a doubt hold the U. P.'s down very closely. They have met the "Denver's" twice this season and downed them upon both occasions to the tune of 23 to 1, 14 to 1. Manager Lord promises his patrons two fine games of ball next Friday and Saturday. The Blues have numerous admirerers who will no doubt give them a hearty reception. These will be the last games played by the U. P.'s previous to their extended eastern trip. Among other cities they will visit St. Louis, Chicago and Cincinnati. It is to be hoped that they will return with scalps of the "Port Huron's" and more especially those of the "Browns."

Mrs. Lewis did not pick up the bundle for the reason that once before she had made a similar discovery and the bundle contained a little waif, which she had to take care bundle was a young man living at Mr. Wedell's. As he had never found any 'waifs" he picked up the bundle and took it into the house. Upon being opened it was found to contain a magnificent silk dress, low necked, short sleeved, long train and beautifully made with their parents and friends, will hold their up in every respect. It was evidently either a party or wedoing dress and hadn't a spot on it, so that it must be nearly new. There were two waists for it and the value of the outfit was not less than $200. In the sheet was also wrapped up a beautiful ar-ticle of quilted satin, hand embroidered and marked with the initials "Hurse, U. S. A. M. D. T." Whatever this may mean no such person as House is connected with the army here as was learned by a BEE reporter. There has been no inquiry for such an article at police Guy C. Barton has made a sale of about This is a curious case and Mr. Wedell in dress.

The Noble Red Man no Longer Roams

He Has Settled Down as a Railroad Section Hand.

If the spirit of Fennimore Cooper should arise from its earthly resting place in the old Empire state, and come out this way, it would observe sights enough to disgust and mortify it into slinking back to its dust into the tomb of its mortality, there to remain until the final awakening. This chagrin would be the result of looking upon the degeneracy into which the noble red men have fallen in these days. To him the Indian was either a hero tricked out in scanty garments with a profusion of glittering ornaments, his face bedaubed with fantastic devices in paint, and armed with death-dealing implements of warfare of latest design, ready to succor the early settlers of this country, or the wily and treacherous redskin, intent only on gathering the largest number of sculps to adorn his wigwam during life, and to be handed down to posterity as the emblem of the ancestor's greatness after his taking off. To the people living in proximity to morning Indians now domiciled in Nebraska no & Q. such varied and attractive attributes of character are discernable in them. A few days since the writer was riding to Omaha from Sioux City, over the Minneapolis & Omaha railway. The roadbed had suffered some from rains and swollen streams, and scattered along the way were groups of men repairing the damage by filling in with earth. The swarthy features of many of those thus employed attracted the attention of pas-sengers, and some one asked if they were not Indians. He was told they

"How comes it they are working here as section hands!" asked the writer of a
