CHANGING HANDS.

A New Host Takes the Ogden To-Day.

For several days past there have been reports that the Ogden house was about to change hands. It is now arranged that the change shall take place to-day, the new host, Mr. B. Silloway, of Cedar Rapids, taking charge. He has been proprietor of the Northwestern hotel at Cedar Rapids, and is widely known to the raveling public. It is understood that Mr. John T. Baldwin is still to claim the ownership of the real estate, the new host taking the furniture and management thus succeeding M. George T. Phelps, who has conducted the hotel with so much success in the past, and who it understood will engage more extensively than before in mining enterprise already underway in Arizona.

E. J. Davis can now be found in her new quarters, 106 South Main street, having moved her stock of fancy goods and notions from Pearl street.

> Lee DeLong the Name of This Latest Suicide-A Strange Ending of Life.

Yesterday afternoon a young man named C. L. DeLong, better known by his friends at Lee DeLong, killed himself by a shot from his revolver, near Broadway and Seventh street. The report of the shooting caused a grown to gather the shooting caused a crowd to gather and interest, 4 mills; sewerage, 2 mills about the prostrate and bloody form of library, 7 mill; total, 167 mills. This i the young man, lying on the ground at the rear door of the little building which faces on Seventh street, known as the French laundry. There were several who had witnessed the shooting, and relief at once? Office 523 Sixth avenue. from them were gleaned the particulars of the affair.

It appears that DeLong had for some time been paying special attention to They Secure Money and Valuables Miss Mattie Gillam, who, with her sis-ter, is engaged in the laundry business there.

Yesterday afternoon young DeLong called on the girls, and acted very strangely. Some say that he had been drinking, others that he must have been crazy. He asked if they knew where Winchester's brick yard was, a place with The primaries in each township, unless otherwise ordered by the township committee, will be held Monday, September 10, at 7 p. m. MINOR MENTION.

The girls, frightened, ran out of the house, and into a neighbors, Mrs. Clark, whose, and into a neighbors, Mrs. Clark, whose, house fronts on Broadway. DeLong followed them on the run, and kept up his wild talk, while the girls begoed him to keep still, as there was some one sick in the was so boisterous they called a passer-by, Victor Sadonski, a young man, who by chance knew DeLong, When he came into the house DeLong bilinds, and then tearing away the vetting of the window, entered and ransacked the house pretty thoroughly. They get for their reward an open-faced silver watch and chain, a pin, pair of ear-rings, and between $50 and $80 in money. One of the neighbors saw two men in the yard, but her suspicions were not aroused sufficiently to cause her to give any alarm, and the thieves made good their exactly the correct of the powers estate. Mr. Macklin was away at work, and his wife talk, while the girls begoed him to keep to take them on the run, and kept up his wild talk, while the girls begoed him to keep them on the run, and kept up his wild talk, while the girls begoed him to keep to them on the run, and tept up his wild talk, while the girls begoed him to keep them on the run, and the vas go bottom to keep them on the run, and the vas a value of them on the property of the Powers estate. Mr. Macklin, on Green street, about opposite them on the to keep them of when to keep them of then went throug the gate to the laundry building, only a rod or two, and leaning

His mother and step-father live in Madison county, Iowa. He has a brother, Sam DeLong, and other relatives living here. For several years he has worked in the brickyards here, this season being in the employ of Mr. Winchester, until a few weeks ago, when he went to Kansas to visit relatives. He returned from there on Sunday. Sunday evening he called on the Misses Gillam and had a pleasant visit, there being nothing strange in his appearance or action. Miss Martha after the tragedy was unable to talk in-telligently about the matter, but it was reported that she and the young man had a sort of lover's spat, but not of a very serious nature, and that the young man took this sorely to heart. There seemed to be quite conflicting testimony as to whether he had been drinking or not, but the poor girl who has been so sadly connected with tends the coming fair here is to have a thn affair seemed to blame liquer for it, and in her moanings cried, "Oh, that cursed liquor." The sister expressed herself yesterday as thinking that De Long must have been crazy, he acted so wild, and his employer, Mr. Winchester, said he did not know that De Long ever drank, while others who saw him a few hours before his tragic death said he did

Coroner Faul summoned as a jury E. G. Sears, G. H. Jones, and D. M. Connell. They heard a few witnesses, enough to show that it was really a sui-cide, the jury returning the following verdict: "We find that he came to his death from a shot wound fired by him-
