OFFICE: 7 Pearl Street, Near Broadway.

Republican County Convention. The Republicans of Pottawattamie county will meet in delegate convention at the court house in Council Bluffs, Thursday, September 13, at 10 o'clock a. m.

Table with 2 columns: Name and Amount. Lists names like Kane, Layton, Lewis, etc., and their respective amounts.

The primaries in each township, unless otherwise ordered by the township committee, will be held Monday, September 10 at 7 p. m.

MINOR MENTION.

See Joseph Reiter's fall goods. Cheap Railroad Tickets at Bushnell's. Additional local on seventh page.

Attend the Harmony band hall this evening in St. Joseph's Academy hall. The Northwestern mail due here late night at 6:50 p. m. was seven hours late.

St. Albans Lodge, Knights of Pythias, are arranging for a grand ball September 14. The Methodists had a social last evening at the residence of Rev. Mr. Armstrong.

The physicians report many malarial troubles arising from the present muggy weather. There were over 5,000 loads of dirt taken out in excavating for the new Masonic temple.

Permit to wed was yesterday granted Milo Russell and Cora Kinzer, both of Valley township. Joe Ross, the host of the Clifton restaurant, makes it a point to keep his table supplied with the fat of the land.

The school buildings are to be called hereafter by the names of the streets of which they face, except the Bloomer building. The work of excavating for the new Masonic temple has been completed and work on the foundation will be started right away.

W. F. Gray, of Chicago, is in the city. He has just sunk an artesian well at Perry, Iowa, and another here at C., M. & St. P. R. R.

Henry Hargens, the gentleman that was attacked and bit by a bull dog some time ago, is greatly improved, although his leg bothers him some yet. About twenty poll tax suits are to command Judge Aylesworth's attention to-morrow.

There are still a good many delinquents whom Mr. Hunter is after with a sharp prod. The bids for the mason work on the Masonic temple were opened last night by the committee, but no action was taken on them. They were laid over until next Monday evening.

Harkness Brothers are building an addition to the rear of their store, for an office, which will greatly improve the appearance and add to the convenience of the interior of their establishment. The foundation of the new Catholic church is fast reaching completion. This church, when completed, will be one of the finest in the country and will be a great improvement for the city at large.

The water has so rushed down Franklin street during rains as to lay bare the water mains, which will now have to be relaid. If ever a city needed some system of sewerage and drainage, Council Bluffs does. Some pointers were gained yesterday which may lead to the capture of some of the four escaped prisoners. In the meantime the old jail is being patched up so as to prevent the escape of any more, if possible.

There are about sixty civil cases already filed for the September term of the superior court, and Clerk Troutman is now making up the docket. The jury will be drawn next week, and the term will open one week from Monday. The work on the Sandwich manufacturing building, on lower Main street, is being shoved along rapidly by the contractors, Messrs. Wickham Bros. This building will add very much to the importance of lower Main street.

The colored population donned their brightest ribbons and best clothes and indulged in a merry picnic in Glendale yesterday. There was quite a large gathering, and they all seemed to be enjoying themselves hugely. There were a number who came over from Omaha to join in the doings. A peddler with a pack called at a residence in the southwest part of the city, and finding the servant girl alone, improved the chance to grossly insult her. He is described as having black curly hair. It would be a blessing to the city if some of these roaming nuisance should strike a man at home some day.

The waterworks company had a force at work on Bryant street yesterday preparing to lay the air tube, which in some way or other is to be used in connection with the other apparatus, so that in case of need, as at time of fire, the water can be shut off from the Glen avenue reservoir, and the whole pressure put upon the mains. All lovers of good music and a happy time should make an effort to attend the ball to be given by the Harmony band this evening in St. Joseph's Academy hall. This hall as every one knows who has ever danced in it is the best in the city. The preparations are complete for a grand time. Let every one attend and patronize the band. Benedict and Sanford, the two horse thieves convicted in Shelby county, have been sentenced to five years each in the state penitentiary. Sheriff Chatham passed through here with the two prisoners, and also a feeble-minded boy, whom he is taking to Glenwood, yesterday. Benedict will be remembered as the man whom Officers Cusick and Brooks caught in Omaha. He is a particularly hard one, and it will be a relief to know that the public for a time will not be troubled with him.

WHAT WAS WANTED?

A Russian Seizes and Gags a Young Lady in Her Own Room. He Covers His Retreat With a Revolver and Disappears.

A Strange and Bold Assault.

A bold assault was made in Council Bluffs Wednesday evening upon a young lady named Miss Addie Beggs, of St. Louis, who is visiting Mr. John Schickelstanz and family, of that city, to whom she is related. The residence is a large one, situated at the corner of Seventh avenue and Eighth street. The young lady went up stairs to her room early in the evening, the rest of the family being in the parlors below. As she entered the door of her room, she was suddenly grasped by a man who quickly throwing his arm about her neck placed his hand on her mouth preventing her from screaming, while with the other hand he took a handkerchief from her pocket and with the agility of an expert substituted this for his hand gagging her securely, tying the handkerchief back of her head. He took from her pocket, or somewhere from his person, some strips of cloth, and tied one firmly about her throat, choking her so that she could hardly breathe. As she struggled and tried to hit him or push him off with her hands he grabbed those and speedily tied them behind her so firmly that she could not resist. As she tried to use her feet or kick him he placed his foot on her feet.

About this time one of the children who was playing about down stairs fell bumping his head, and someone of the family called out to the child, "What's the matter there?" The mysterious assailant evidently thinking that the family had heard the struggle up stairs, and thinking an alarm had been caused pulled a revolver, a .4 pointing it at the young lady, told her not to scream a command which in her condition she could not have disobeyed if she would. She followed, still pointing the revolver at her, said, "Lady, it isn't your money or your jewelry I want," and retreated down the stairs, still holding his revolver pointed at her over his left shoulder as he walked away. He went down the stairs three steps at a jump, hurriedly unlocked the front door, and skipped out soon after the young lady managed to work the gag loose enough to give three or four all the usual yelps to her, and found her in the condition described. The bandage on her waist had been so tight as to leave marks, and almost bringing the blood. She was, of course, greatly excited, but narrated the incidents of the strange assault in detail, and was able to describe the man in some respects. She says she was nearly out six feet in height, had black hair, and wore a pepper and salt suit of a suit. She says she was sitting in his stocking feet or had rubbers on, his footsteps even in going down the stairs could not be heard, and she noticed that his feet were encased in something out as he stepped on her feet to keep her from kicking. She could not describe his feet, however. It seems that the fellow must have dipped into the house while several of the family were out riding earlier in the evening, for on their return home the front door was locked on the inside, and the fellow in escaping had to unlock the door to get out into the street. There was nothing disturbed in the house except some of the furniture in the young lady's room. The bed there having been shoved over to one side of the room, and the chairs shoved as though to avoid having them in the way. There had been no apparent attempt to find valuables, or to take the money. The young lady had some diamond rings and some other jewelry in her dressing case, but they were not disturbed. The strips of cloth which she wore in tying the lady, had apparently been torn off some old garment.

A HARD STORY

Told On a Young Man, It Leads to His Arrest.

Yesterday a young man named E. Lockington was arrested by Constable Skinner on a very serious charge, that of attempted rape. The young man is a teamster, who has been doing freighting until the last few days when he has been hauling hay for City Marshal Jackson on the latter's farm. Mrs. Robinson is the complaining witness. She claims that in passing her house with loads of hay the young man stopped occasionally for water, and that on one of these stops he entered the house and catching her attempted the assault, but a colored man who chance to come along caused him to desist and skip out. To all of this Mrs. Robinson, on a firm protest, denying every detail and claiming that nothing of the kind ever happened. The case is to be pushed by Justice Schurz.

CRUMBS FROM COURT.

The Jury in the Jack-Rand Case Fine For the Plaintiff.

The case of A. Jack vs. J. S. Rand came to a close yesterday by the jury bringing in a verdict for the plaintiff. The case was a peculiar one. Jack picked up some strayed cattle, which he advertised and kept for some time, until Rand claimed them as his, and he was allowed to take them on condition of paying the charges and going before some justice and filing an affidavit that they were his and proving up the property. Rand paid Jack the $16 charges on the cattle and took them away, but failed to file the promised affidavit and proof. Jack then commenced this suit, the cattle in the meantime having been disposed of by Rand. Rand, his son-in-law and one of the family testified that the cattle were his, but could not give any very certain marks of identification, especially as regarded some red streaks which had no marks, spots or brands. The case was closely looked after by George A. Holmes, for the plaintiff, and Jacob Sims for the defendant, and the jury, after being out several hours, returned a verdict in favor of Mr. Jack for $50, less the amount of $34, leaving the amount $16. Yesterday afternoon the case of Sapp vs. Walker was heard by the court, it being concerning the title of certain lots. A few motions were filed in other cases, but little else was done during the day.

BEATEN FOR SNEAKING.

A Young Man Arrested for Snatching one of Spetman's Coats.

Officer Morse yesterday arrested a young man, who gave his name as Frank Henderson, for the larceny of a coat from the front of Spetman & Bro's store. The theft occurred last Monday, while Mr. Patton, having just hung the coat on a form outside the door, was called inside to wait on a customer. It was learned that a young colored fellow at the transfer, had on Monday, bought a coat for $4, and yesterday this young fellow was found at the picnic, and the coat proving to be the one that was taken from Spetman's, or just like it, he was relieved of the same by the police, and had to skedaddle about to find another coat before returning to the good times with his companions in the grove. The young man Henderson, who was arrested for stealing the coat, admitted that he had sold it to the colored man, but denied that he had stolen the coat, claiming that he had bought it in Denver. The colored man evidently got a little frightened and did not return to the court room as a witness, as he promised to, and the case was laid over until this morning. It is claimed by the officers that they have a sure thing on Henderson. There has been so much sneak-thing going on here, and so few arrests and convictions, that it is about time something was being done.
