Excellent Races Begun and Continued to To-Day.

Fair Features.

The Nebraska State Fair, begun on Monday last, probably reached its highest success yesterday, when at least 16,000 persons were present on the grounds at one time. This was not above the attendance on Thursday, but differed, in that on the latter mentioned day the visitors came and left in a few hours, while announced in yesterday's programme, will be Jesterday they remained for the day, and there were probably more people on the ground tries will be the same as announced on yester. at one single time than have ever been seen on any day of any preceding fair.

The weather turned out fine, although it had Practice threatened rain, and one after another the $1.50. excursion trains on the various roads rolled into the city with their loads of excursionists. The agent of the Omaha & St. Paul road is authority for the statement that the attendance yesterday, as gauged by his ticket sales, was the largest of any day during the week.

The races announced to take place at 10 o'clock did not come off, owing to the fact that it was impossible to get the track drained and in proper shade at that time.

The first race was called about two o'clock, being

BOYAL DISPLAY. Among the exhibitors at the state fair, nondid themselves more credit than the well known firm of Max Meyer & Bro. As all know they own a handsome little cottoge of their own on the grounds. It would occupy a page to describe their exhibit alone, but so well is their py to say was dispelled by the brilliant victory of the U. P's. yesterday.

The idea is too absurd to be entertained for a moment. When the records of the two games are consulted, it proves the two games are consulted. The proper moment is opened and the ammorphism to the refrigerating coils is a cock, which at the proper moment is opened and the ammorphism to the refrigerating to the two games are consulted, it proves the two games are consulted to the first and generosity known that it would be unnecessary to go into details. In addition to this they had a fine display of cigars, imported and domestic, tobaccos and meerschaum pipes; also guns and revolvers and all the parapherand a full of the chase and war. The albums dressing cases, pocketbooks, ladies bags, all of their own importation, are very fine, and it of their own importation, are very fine, and it will repay any one to visit their tower build-ing and look at the stock they carry there. Even the show cases in which their goods were exhibited were of their own manufacture It would be hard to scare up a firm that was better able to make a finer exhibit on such an occasion than this, and certainly none could be found more ready to a record be found more ready to expend money, time and trouble in doing so, being awake to the interests of the city, with whose growth they have been thorougly identified for the last eighteen years, and any city or state can congratulate itself for having such gentlemen in their midst as compose the firms of Maz Meyer & Bro. and Max Meyer & Co.

ARTIFICIAL ICE MAKING.

An Invention Which Sends a Cold Chill Over the Old Ice

Companies.

Short time ago this paper gave a brief notice of the ice-making machine invented by George W. Stockman of this city, and yesterday the reporter, in company with several prominent business men, went to Kingan's pork-packing establish-ment to see the machine work. The operation of ice-making, as conducted by this invention, is extremely simple and mexpensive. It is now turning out 15 told, some twenty-eight or thirty different colleges, the size of which may be inferred when I say that one of them, was run as usual, and resulted in the blacks, driven by Mrs. McDonald, coming out winners. enrich the weak liquor and be again vap orized and do it work over again. The slabs of ice turned out before the reporter's wondering eyes were beautiful to look upon. Each slab was 8 inches thick by 22 inches wide and 6 feet long, weighing 350 pounds. It is frozen at from 10" to 15" above zero, and pound for pound outlasts natural ice. It is the simplest ice machine made and the cheapest, its first cost being 25 to 30 per cent less than other machines, and the wear and tear at least one-third less than the others. The first tests were made at Kingan's as that is the largest summer packing-house in the United States, and having proved satisfactory, various im provements were made, and the work has gone on. The machine has also been introduced and is in operation at Atlanta,

Ga., and Louisville and Paducah, Ken. Maus's browry, of this city, uses the same invention, without the ice pans, for cooling the storage rooms, containing over 100,000 cubic feet of space, besides cooling 90 barrels of beer a day. It has been in operation continuously for six months, and is in every way a success. One im-Among the most attractive features in the lot may be mentioned the Joliet wire check roller, manufactured by Klinefelter & Dellman, of Joliet, Illinois. This is one of the innovations which mark the new era of progress in the corn planting line and supercede the old "hand and hee" process. It saves time, labor and expense, and is the perfection of skill in the way of the adjustments and adaptations necessary to make check sowers practical and able to stand all tests. The planter manufacturers generally endorse it, and that is pretty solid proof of its merit.

The Barlow corn planter is another valuable article in the implement line which is notably fine and to be noticed among a thousand other articles. It has a revolving seed cup which sows the corn five hills in advance before depositing in the ground.

"Then came Sixon, Dane and Nor man, Cavalier and Roundhead, each adding to or subtracting from the beauty of the town. A half hour's drive in a cab brought us to the palace and grounds of the Duke of Westminster, one of the most affluent of England's nobility. The estate runs for fifteen or twenty miles straight across some of the most exquisite landscapes one could imagine, and is tended with as much care and skill throughout its whole area as if it didn't contain more than half an acre. There were to be seen lovely flowers by the million, and, in the parks reserved for DEER BY THE THOUSAND.

Next on our route was Leamingtonspa, a noted watering place, much patronized by wealthy people, as well as by those devoted to historical investigations From this point one radiates out to Warwick Castle, a perfect gem of a place, stuffed with things curious and rare, and surrounded by a landscape that made one's soul feel at peace with the world. We took in Kenilworth Castle, famous as the place where Queen Elizabeth made fiery love to Dudley, Earl of Leicester, her favorite, whose wife, Amy Robsart she is suspected to have foully murdered Five miles further on, through the same scenery of surpassing loveliness, was Coventry, with its traditions and statues of Lady Godiva and Peeping Tom. THREE HUNDRED THOUSAND BOOKS and manuscripts. Let me name one or two. There was a small breviary, I think it was, containing psalms in Latin, portions of the mass in honor of the blessed Virgin, printed by hand on bellum and gorgeously illuminated, pre-sented by Saint Gregory, then Pope, to Saint Augustine as he was about to start for Britain to convert the Saxons, A. D 600. The same kind of a book, once the property of Charlemagne, A. D. 800, and and an exquisite one, said by the libra-rian to be priceless, painted on each page by nuns. The scenes represented the life of our Lord and His blessed mother, and the most careful scrutiny failed t detect a blemish. Then there was little work translated and written by Queen Elizabeth, beautifully done; and love letter from Henrietta Maria to Charles I., who afterwards became her husband—an execrable scrawl.

Leaving Oxford we stopped in Wind sor, seeing the castle with the state apart ments, boll room, audience and present chambers, etc. In the museum is a silver shield inlaid with gold, presented by Francis I, of France, to Henry VIII., of England, on the field of the cloth of gold. It was fabricated by Benovento Cellini, the famous artist. The chapel of the Knights of the Order of the Garter, from the roofs of which hang the silken banners embroidered with the coats of arms of all the royal and princely mem bers, and the Albert memorial chapelnot be described by my poor pen. I wanted to ride over to Stoke Pogis to see the graveyard where Gray wrote his elegy, "The curfu tolls the knell of parting day." By the way, curfu is still sounded from the belfries of the old Norman churches in Coventry, and all over England when the clock strikes the hour the chimes ring out a merry peal.

On Thursday merning, after devotional services, a general and free expression of opinion was given as to the condition of things in the several churches. The scquel of these reports show an advance step for this denomination in gaining a strong foothold in this new state.

At the close of the general review, the synodical missionary, Rev. Geo. T. Crissman, was called upon to report the progress and condition of the work entrusted to him throughout the state. New church organizations are reported at Brainard and Panama, with the bright promise of many more to be added to the roll. Great interest was exhibited in that part of the report which called attention to the fact that during the current year five self-supporting churches had been added to the list, which is accounted a great gain over its achievements of former years. As a denomination the Presbyterian church is making a gratifying record in building up their interests in every town and neighborhood throughout the state. As a body, the Presbytery of Nebraska City represents an intelligent class of men, who are doing a grand work for the church and for the state in general. The new college at Belleview, under the care of the Seynod of Nebraska, came in for a good endorsement by the members of Presbytery, many of whom expressed a hearty enthusiasm and interest in the desirable educational movement in this state.
