HEADL GHT GLEAMS.

And Glisten on Fields of Snow From the Platte to the Rockies.

At midnight last night a heavy passenger train consisting of fifteen cars rolled ing 17 and one 12 hours late.

The delay was caused by a bad wreck near Carbon, Wyo. A freight train on its way down grade and while in a deep cut was ditched by a wheel on one of the first freight cars breaking down, and as the speed was naturally quite high, fourteen cars were soon piled in a mass in the cut, filling and completely blockading it. As it is impossible to build around a wreck in such a spot, everything was laid up until the wreck was pulled out. Then these two passenger trains were consolidated and two hours more lost on the way to Omaha. THE GREAT STORM. A snow storm set in in the mountains day before yesterday and the atmosphere turned very cold. It snowed all night that night at Denver and Cheyenne and the storm extended clear down to North Platte, where several inches lie on the ground. When the Denver train left yesterday morning there was a foot of snow on the ground and the fiskes still flying and freezing on the car roofs, platforms and hand rails. At Cheyenne five or six inches fell but there was no wind to drift it. At Sidney it was reported five inches deep to-day.
