Capt, Hooker was married eleven years ago to a "grass" widow, in San Francisco this evening from 5 to 7 o'clock, and the and after living with her for some four years, they finally separated, she going to New York to live, being supported by monthly allowance from the captain. Her husband is described by those who knew him as a quiet, intelligent man, who loved to be alone and out of all reach of the bustle and cares of life county, which he stocked with cattle and put in charge of a man who lived with his wife in a cottage built for them, while the Captain erected a small home for himself not far distant and took his meals with them.

some time previous to January 20th he obtained a leave of absence and went to reside on the ranch for a time. On the 9th he wrote his wife from Chicago, and the next news she received from him was a dispatch announcing his death on the 20th of the same month.

Mrs. Hooker at once came to Nebraska but did not arrive until after the remains had been interred at Fort Randall. It was claimed that an the morning of the 20th, the captain went to his breakfast as well as usual and an hour later was taken with spasms and expired at 2 o'clock p. m. A post mortem was held but nothing reported at the time as tending to indicate foul play. Upon the arrival of Mrs. Hooker she laid claim to a herd of 400 head of cattle, which was also claimed by Judge Hooker, An administrator was appointed and the cattle were repleyined, but as no bond

An important case came up in the United States Court at 3p. m. yesterday, when arguments were heard on a motion to dissolve the injunction in the case Emma J. Reid vs. Samuel J. Shoop and Jos, J Brougham. The plaintiff in this case, Mrs. Reid was the wife of Kenneth Reid, a prominent physician of New York city, who died about a year ago, and the defendanta are both residents of Pennsyl-The plaintiff sets forth that in June 1832, the was the owner of a three-fourths interest in a cattle ranche on Ash creek, Sioux county, Neb., her interest comprising all the cattle, horses, $70,000, a portion of this sum was paid in cash and the rest was to be paid in a stipulated time, being secured by a mortgage.

A default in one of the payments led to her bringing an action to obtain an injunction restraining the defendants from disposing of the mortgaged property, part of which, it was claimed, was already sold and the rest about to be. The plaintiff also asked for an accounting in the matter. An injunction was issued according to the prayer of the petitioner and the case now comes up on a motion to dissolve the same.

A suit was recently brought in the District Court by certain property holders on Pierce street, to restrain the work of grading there, or at least of grading in accordance with the survey made, which it is claimed took off about three feet of the front of each lot, which the city had no right to. General Cowin represented the property holders, and temperary restraining order was secured until the matter came up on its final hearing today and the injunction was sustained.

VERDICT FOR PLAINTIFF.

An important land case was tried Wednesday before Judge Neville and a jury, it being the first of a number of similar actions now pending in the District of land near the city, known as Griffen and Smith's addition. After becoming of age, Mr North put upon the records disaffirmance of his action in making deed to grantor of land, and now claims he is possessed of the absolute title. General O'Brien is the attorney for Mr. North, and he is very confident of succeeding in all the cases commenced on behalf of, or against his client.
