OSTRICH FARMING.
Results of the Experiment in the Lower Part of California.
A Talk With Its Conductor - Extent of the Breeding Industry and Its Profits.

San Francisco Call, October 22nd.
Near Anaheim in this State is located the only ostrich farm in the United States. This enterprise is under the direction of Dr. Sketchley, who is an enthusiast in ostrich growing, and who brings to this venture an experience of eight years in Africa, under conditions less favorable, he thinks, than exist here. As an industry ostrich farming is only sixteen years old, and Dr. Sketchley estimates that there is now invested in the business the amount of at least $10,000,000. He disposes of a good many popular fallacies regarding the habits of the ostrich, prefacing it with the statement that the mania for ostrich is not an ostrich at all, but an emu, the genuine African ostrich as seen on the Anaheim farm being as much of a curiosity to the showman as the emu is to the small boy. To begin with, Dr. Sketchley affirms that the ostrich does not leave its eggs in the sand to be hatched by the sun, but incubates them precisely as does any other bird, both the male and female sitting. The idea that the ostrich was, when chased stick their heads in the sand, thinking that this hides them, is a fallacy.

according to his experience in hunting them on the deserts of Africa. One popular idea, which is not a fallacy, is the proverb of the ostrich as a kicker. They are an ill-tempered bird, always on the lookout to kick some one; and if the kick has the intended effect, is pretty sure to be fatal. The blow is aimed forward, and is accurate. On the farm the birds are not allowed to incubate. Artificial incubators, made on the same principle as those in ordinary use in poultry raising, are employed. So far the ostrich has been hatched out at the farm, but this Dr. Sketchley attributes to non-fertilization of the eggs, owing to the weakened condition of the birds from their long trip here, and their as yet imperfect acclimatization. This he believes will be remedied in time, as the ostrich breed until they are past eighty—the average duration of life being a hundred years. There are twenty-one birds on the Anaheim farm, and Dr. Sketchley says, "since April 12th the birds have laid 270 eggs. One bird has laid forty-seven. They lay eggs every other day. Age does not affect them. I have seen a pair of birds which were eighty-two years old and they were just as valuable for breeding and feather raising as ever. Were they deprecayed? You could not tell the difference in any way between them and very much younger birds. I have known birds thirty years old, a pair, valued at $1,000. You can see the chances here. If the birds are in proper condition I expect that we shall have 600 chickens in a year.

THE DIFFICULTY IN OSTRICH FARMING is in raising the chickens. They catch cold. But when they are over a month old they are all right. Ostriches have no disease that I know of, and I have had eight years experience with them. When a chicken is six months old the value of its feathers is about $10; when it is fourteen months old the value is about $20 and $30 for the same. The bird is better than three and one-half and four years old the value is about $250 annually.

To illustrate the possibilities of this industry, he states that in Africa he began with three pairs and in eight years his flock numbered thousands. This flock was dispersed by the Boer war, and after an interval of ten years he has begun an undertaking. One of the most singular features about the bird is the location of the ostrich's stomach. He carries it on his back between his shoulders, and the food can be seen winding around inside of his neck to get to this out of the way receptacle. Although there is a great deal of chaffing against the corrals in cases of fright, the plumage, for which alone the birds are of value, does not seem to suffer much. All of the flock appear to be in fine feather. The plumage is soft, silky, clean and glossy as it grows, and is all ready for market. Speaking of the relative value of the birds.

Dr. Sketchley said that while one might yield more feathers or prove a better breeder, he has aged them. The value is determined mainly by breeding qualities. The ostrich is a very good chicken until it is twelve months old, a feather bird only until about three and a half years old, and at four years it should breed. The most valuable breeding birds are called "guarantee birds," from the discovery that their eggs will hatch. The hardness of the ostrich's birds are in fact the best. One bird on the farm were brought a distance of 25,000 miles, and not one was lost. Since arriving on the farm one was kicked to death by an intractable mate, but with this exception no accident has happened to the flock.

may be its possible bearing on the law and practice of the divorce court. The bride who wedded the wife and mother in male attire is entitled with results of which she would not have run away with her strange partner. She will not sue for divorce. The deserted husband do fact simply says, referring to the abnormal husband de jure, "let her go." The law itself can do nothing. As for the neighbors, they are so paralyzed with perplexity as to be incapable of intelligent thought on the subject. Altogether the case presents such a labyrinth of speculation that the mind is fairly lost in endeavoring to unravel it. Perhaps all attempts at a solution had better be given up.

The Preacher's Quiet Habits.
Sedentary and studious men sometimes become prostrated before they know it. Those who spend much time in close mental work and neglect to take enough exercise often find their stomachs unable to do the work of digestion. The liver becomes torpid. The bowels act irregularly. The brain refuses to serve as it once did. Their preaching becomes a failure, and there is a state of general misery. So many ministers have been restored to health by the use of Brown's Iron Bitters that the clergy generally are speaking to their friends of this medicine as the very best tonic and restorer they know of. It restores thin and watery blood to its proper condition by toning it up with the purest and most invigorating preparation of iron that science has ever made. It is pleasant to take, and acts immediately with the happiest results, not only on the persons, but on other folks as well.

Gold and Silver.
In a pamphlet just issued Mr. Charles L. Franke, of Louisville, discusses the silver question in a very interesting manner. He reviews the sources and extent of the products of the precious metals, and sets forth facts in this connection more or less familiar to the reading public. He combats the assumption that the world is becoming overstocked with gold and silver by citing the enormous consumption of these metals in the arts, by abrasion in coin, and by the accidents of life. Soetbeer is quoted as estimating the consumption of gold in the arts and manufactures at $28,000,000 and of silver $17,000,000 per annum. Other writers estimate the consumption of gold at $68,000,000 and of silver at $26,000,000. The losses, abrasion, waste and burials amount to some $30,000,000 more, or a grand total of $125,000,000.

The Westminister Review and the Journalist Economists are quoted as estimating the annual product of gold in 1875 at $97,000,000 and of silver at $62,000,000, or a total of both metals of $159,000,000. This would leave an increase of only $34,000,000 per annum in the world, a sum much below the demands of expanding commerce and growing population.

It is from these figures that the great economist, Soetbeer concludes that gold is appreciating and that its purchasing power has greatly increased in the past few years.

Mr. Franke asserts that the market relation between gold and silver, since the year 1673, during nearly two centuries, up to the era of demonetization of silver in 1873 in the United States, did not vary in London or any other market more than about 3 per cent., except in the period of 1741 to 1750, when the average variation reached 5 per cent. The relative price of the two metals from 1741 to 1873 varied from 14.74 to one, to 15.98837 to one, the latter being the present legal ratio in the United States. Since the year 1873 silver has greatly depreciated in the markets of the world, which is largely owing to the course of the United States and the wide awake advocacy of monometallism. Mr. Franke states succinctly the effects of silver demonetization and points out who the chief sufferers would be.

"The more you reduce the volume of the money of the world, as by demonetizing silver and the paper based thereon, the more you increase the purchasing power of the remaining money, gold and the notes based thereon, and other things being equal and unchanged, proportionately depress prices of industrial and commercial values and commodities, reduce rents, profits and wages, thus impoverishing investors and bankrupting debtors."

The countries which use gold only as a standard of value are Great Britain, Denmark, Sweden, Norway, Portugal, Turkey, Canada, Brazil, Argentina Republic, Peru, Republic of Colombia, Chile, and the Australian colonies, with an aggregate population of 138,000,000. Those which use silver only as a standard of value are Russia, Austria, Mexico, Central America, Ecuador, Peru, China, British India, Siam, Burmah, Dutch colonies of Java, Madras, Egypt, Tunis and Tripoli, with an aggregate population of 775,000,000. Those using both gold and silver and having the double standard are France, Belgium, Switzerland, Italy, Greece, Roumania, Holland, Spain, United States, Columbia, Venezuela, Chili, Uruguay, Paraguay, Bolivia, Cuba and Algiers, with an aggregate population of 181,100,000. The population which use gold alone as a standard, and those who use silver alone as a standard, and those who use both, are thus divided:

	Population.	Per cent.
Gold.....	138,000,000	13
Silver.....	775,000,000	71
Gold and Silver.....	181,100,000	16
Total.....	1,094,100,000	100

The above table embraces forty-five countries of the commercial world and about all that are of any consequence in counting this question. It will give the amount of money in use by them in the most recent and reliable data estimated as follows:

Gold.....	$2,017,943,000
Silver.....	2,130,214,000
Paper money.....	1,835,700,000
Bank notes.....	1,935,100,000
Total.....	$7,923,000,000

The public debt of the States named is $24,197,280,000. The motive for demonetizing silver is, therefore, vast and universal among the creditor class, and will not be easily overcome by facts and arguments, however conclusive they may be as to the equities involved.

Horsford's Acid Phosphate.
Excellent Results.
Dr. J. I. Willis, Eliot, Mo., says: "Horsford's Acid Phosphate gives most excellent results."

THE NECESSITY FOR THE SPECIALIST.
DR. H. WAGNER,
has long been acknowledged and more so at this day than any other. The vast field of medical science is ever increasing and its numerous branches are brought nearer and nearer to perfection, and no one man can any longer grasp them all. Hence the necessity for dividing the labor. And it is true beyond all doubt that disease, affecting the genitourinary organs need special attention. No ordinary physician, if we would understand and know how to treat them properly.

A Few Reasons
Why you should try the celebrated Dr. H. Wagner's medicine:
1. "Dr. H. Wagner is a natural physician."
2. "The Greatest Urological." "Few can excel you as a doctor."
3. "You are wonderfully profuse in your knowledge of disease and medicine."
4. "The afflicted find ready relief in your prescriptions."
5. "Dr. H. Wagner is a regular graduate from Bellevue Hospital, New York City; has had very extensive hospital practice, and is thoroughly posted on all branches of his beloved science, especially on chronic diseases."
6. "Dr. H. Wagner has immortalized himself by a scientific theory of specific remedies for private and sexual diseases."
7. "Thousands of invalids look to you as their physician."
8. "The doctor's long experience as a specialist in the genitourinary system has made his name a household name everywhere."
9. "Rocky Mountain News."

Plain Facts Plainly Spoken.
At one time a discussion of the secret vice was entirely avoided by the profession, and medical works of but a few years ago would hardly mention it. Today the physician is of a different opinion; he is aware that it is his duty—disagreeable though it may be—to handle the matter with gloves and speak plainly about it; and intelligent parents and guardians will thank him for doing so.

The results attending this destructive vice were formerly not understood, or not properly estimated; and no importance being attached to a subject which by its nature does not invite close investigation, it was willingly ignored.

If the practice is violently persisted in, more serious disturbances take place. Great palpitation of the heart, or the most distressing nervousness, and the sufferer may fall into a complete state of idleness before, finally, death relieves him.

Young Men.
Who may be suffering from the effects of youthful follies or indiscretions will do well to avail themselves of this, the greatest boon ever laid at the altar of self-interest. Dr. H. Wagner will guarantee to relieve you for every case of seminal weakness or private disease of any kind and character which he understands to and fails to cure.

Middle Aged Men.
There are many at the age of 30 to 50 who are troubled with too frequent evacuations of the bladder, often accompanied by a slight stinging or burning sensation, and a weakening of the system in a manner the patient cannot account for. On examining the urinary deposit in a glass, it will be found, and sometimes small particles of albumen will appear, or the color will be of a milky blue, again changing to a dark and turbid appearance. There are many men who die of this difficulty, ignorant of the cause, which is the second stage of seminal weakness. Dr. W. will guarantee a perfect cure in all cases and a healthy restoration of the genitourinary organs.

Relief to the Afflicted.
In medicine, as in science, the specialist is the one who has taken to the front and accomplished great results. This remark is especially applicable to Dr. H. Wagner, of this city. He stands at the top of his profession, and his name is a household name. The thousands of testimonials from all over the United States from those who have been cured of all their ailments, and the fact that his advertisement in all our city papers, and call on him for advice, as we know you will corroborate us in saying, he is the sufferer's true friend.—Rocky Mountain News.

Chronic Complaints Require Time for a Cure
Persons at a distance who wish to be treated by Dr. Wagner need not feel backward because of inability to visit him. If they will write to the doctor he will send a list of questions which enables him to send medicines, counsel and advice to thousands who have never seen him. He has a large stock of medicine and medicine in Colorado, as well as all over the United States. See his advertisement.—Denver Tribune.

Shall We Reform?
Specific remedies for all diseases is the theory practiced at present of almost all experienced physicians, and in all large communities they have their specialties to tend in which they direct their studies and practice. Dr. Wagner is a successful if not a distinguished physician, and his specialty is the treatment of chronic complaints. He is not only a successful practitioner, but he is also a successful writer. His office is at 248 Larimer street, where he will be glad to attend to the suffering of either sex, no matter how complicated their complaint.—Pomeroy Democrat.
