The stock market was remarkably free from rumors and special influences all day, and until the last hour the general course of prices was upward, showing a gain over Saturday's prices for nearly all stocks. But in the last hour there was a reaction, which left the general market a fraction lower than on Saturday, with exceptional declines in Oregon & Transcontinental of 1 $\frac{1}{2}$ per cent, and in Central Pacific 1 $\frac{1}{2}$ per cent. The most important factors in the future of the market now pending are the negotiations for the lease of the West Shore to the Grand Trunk railway. It is believed that the negotiations have reached a point where the questions at issue are of secondary importance, and that the lease is likely to be consummated. The points of most interest to the public in these negotiations are that the Grand Trunk railway is to guarantee the West Shore bonds, and also that, with this connection to New York, the Grand Trunk will abandon its former attitude of antagonism to the trunk line pool and become one of its firm supporters.
